60,000 BALLOTS
CAST BY 4 P. M.
IN PLAZA PARK
BOND ELECTION

15.3 Pct. of Registration and Two-Thirds of Expected Total—Heat
May Be Factor in Voting.

Approximately 60,000 ballots had been cast by 4 p.m. today in the special election on the proposal for a $1,500,000 plaza bond issue.

While this represented only 15.3 per cent of the total registration of 391,652, it was two-thirds of the 90,000 total of votes that had been predicted for this election.

After getting off to a slow start during the early morning hours, balloting picked up considerably.

Sponsors of the bond issue, desiring a large turnout of voters, hoped the record-breaking heat would not keep people away from the polls.

Joseph P. Uxa, chief clerk of the Board of Election Commissioners, had predicted a vote of 90,000, a total larger than usual for a special election, because of the intensive campaign conducted by the citizens' committee for the bond issue.

Polls Open Until 7 P.M.
The 795 polling places will remain open until 7 o'clock tonight.

Post-Dispatch Stations KSD and KSD-TV will present election bulletins as soon as returns begin to come in. Other St.
Louis radio stations also will broadcast results.

If two-thirds of those voting approve, the city will issue bonds to finance development of a three-block park linking Aloe and Memorial Plazas. The Urban Redevelopment Corp. of St. Louis then will redevelop five and one-half blocks on the north side of the park by erecting 1350 apartments for middle-income tenants.

Success of the plaza development would encourage similar undertakings in other blighted sections of the city.

Appeal by Mayor Tucker.
In a final appeal for passage of the bond issue, Mayor Raymond R. Tucker issued the following statement:

"Today is the day of decision for St. Louis, a day that will be remembered as one when St.
Louis was given another opportunity to keep pace with progress and rebuild itself.

"The people will be voting today on a comparatively small bond issue which can be financed without any increase in taxes.

"For that amount we can clear a large blighted district and prepare the construction of a $20-000,000 privately-financed apartment project. I know that most St. Louisans want the city to progress, since in doing so it will be to the benefit of every resident.

"However, we must do more than wish for progress. Each citizen must make his own contribution by going to the polls and voting 'Yes.' We cannot have progress now or later unless the people approve and express themselves at the polling places.

"A defeat of progress in the city at this time would be a serious setback to St. Louis for many years to come. We cannot fail. We must exert every possible effort to go to the polls and make certain that St. Louis goes forward. Your individual vote means the success or failure of progress in St. Louis."

The citizens' committee for the bond issue was continuing its campaign up to the last minute.

ALL 127 CITY AIR RAID SIRENS WAIL
TOGETHER IN TEST

The 127 sirens in the St. Louis air raid warning system were tested simultaneously for the first time at 3 p.m. today.

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker sounded the sirens by pressing a button at Civil Defense headquarters in Forest Park. The test, lasting 12 minutes, included
"Warning Red," a three-minute warning note, and "All Clear," three steady one-minute blasts.
There was no public participation in the city.

University City co-operated in the test, sounding its warning devices at the same hour. Drills were conducted in schools, city buildings and homes for the aged.

Ten 12 machines which were not claimed after being re-

Machines, which are towed to ers on payment of $6.68, which includes a storage charge and tax.

WILSON INDICATES DEFENSE
COSTS MAY DROP 5 PER CENT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—
Defense Secretary Charles E.
Wilson indicated today that defense spending for fiscal 1955, beginning next July, may drop to about 40 billion dollars.

This would be 5 per cent below the outlay for the current fiscal year.

Wilson told a press conference, however, that he does not know whether the fiscal 1955 defense outlay will be trimmed enough to make possible a balanced national budget.

Wilson combined a forecast of slightly reduced defense spending with a word of caution against "becoming panicky" over Russian military power.

EX-SENATOR DANAHY
NAMED U.S. APPEALS JUDGE

President Eisenhower today picked former Republican Senator John A. Danahy of Connecticut to be a judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

Danahy, whose recess appointment was confirmed by the Senate, would succeed the late Judge James M. Proctor.

Mercury Climbs to 100 Degrees,
Hottest Ever So Late in Season

Hot dry air from the southwest pushed the mercury to 101 degrees at 2:45 p.m. today in downtown St. Louis, setting a new record for this date and making it the latest day in the season on which temperatures of 100 or higher had been recorded. There have been 10 such days this summer, as against 34 in 1936.

The latest date heretofore of 100-degree readings was Sept.
9, 1925, when the temperature reached 100.7 degrees. Assistant Meteorologist Arthur A. Rausch said it was 102 on the sixth of that month and 102.6 the day before. Only relative humidity of 18 per cent and a 24-mile-per-hour wind made the heat bearable today he said.

The previous record for Sept.
29, set last year, was 95.5. Rausch said. Cold fronts moving eastward over the St. Louis area will bring relief, beginning about midnight, he said, but no rain is in sight.

This was the seventy-eighth day this year with readings above 90. The previous record for 90-plus days was in 1936, when there were 75.

Yesterday's high of 96 in St.
Louis was not so bad, considering that Joplin had 104 and Farmington, coolest point in the state, was 95. Also, Rausch pointed out, there are worse things than hot weather. Twenty-six years ago today St. Louis had a destructive tornado.

BROWNS' NEW HOME EXPECTED TO BE PICKED BY LEAGUE TODAY

Baltimore, Los Angeles, Kansas City Have Inside Track — Cardinals Agree to Pay
Veeck $300,000.

A new home for the Browns is expected to be picked today after the American League decided last night the baseball club definitely would not remain in St. Louis.

As a result, this city's only major league baseball team next season will be the Cardinals, whose owners have agreed to pay Bill Veeck, the Browns' president, $300,000 if he moves his club out.

Baltimore, Los Angeles and Kansas City appeared to have the best chances of getting the franchise of the Browns club, which has been here since 1876.

President William Harridge of the American League said today in New York: "The time has come for us to make a decision and we are getting closer to a solution. I think by tonight we will have a new home for the Browns."

Hours of Bickering.
After hours of bickering and haggling with Veeck and his associates at a meeting in New York last night, American League club owners disclosed their decision not to let the team remain here. Another session was scheduled for today to pick the club's new home.

Baltimore still stood a good chance of obtaining the franchise despite refusal of the club owners two days ago to approve removal of the Browns there.
Los Angeles also was very much in the running, with Kansas City a dark horse in the race.

"Baltimore is the only city that has made a concrete offer," President Harridge said. "Los Angeles did not. With Los Angeles, it is a long-range proposition but we do not want to hang on this way for another two or three years."

Several Favor Coast.
Harridge told reporters there was "no question that several of the owners would like to shift the franchise to Los Angeles, but we all realize the tremendous problems that would entail."

Referring to today's session, Harridge commented: "All I can say for sure is that St. Louis definitely is out of the picture."
The league is not interested in operating the Browns there. We have definite buyers for the team and we hope to accomplish something at this meeting."

However, the club owners yesterday did authorize Del Webb, co-owner of the New York Yankees, to negotiate with unidentified interests for 79 per cent control of Browns' stock held by Veeck's group.

Willing to Sell.
Veeck has indicated a willingness to sell out for $2,400,000.
It is reported that several club owners would be happy to see Veeck out of the league.

Baltimore interests, which had agreed to give Veeck and his group $1,115,000 for half of the syndicate's stock, raised the offer to $2,236,000 yesterday for the entire 79 per cent.

At the $2,236,000 price, Veeck interests would emerge with a profit. They obtained their stock in 1951 for less than $2,000,000.
Sale of the ball park to the Cardinals last April netted $800,000.

Provision, there was the provision, confirmed today by Veeck, that the Cardinals would pay $300,000 if the Browns moved. John L. Wilson, financial vice president of Anheuser-Busch Inc., owners of the Cardinals, refused to comment when asked about the $300,000 payment.

However, Veeck's margin of profit would be reduced if his statements of heavy losses during more than two years of operation are accurate.

West Coast Difficulty.
One stumbling block to transfer of the Browns to the West is ownership of the Los Angeles Club in the Pacific Coast League by Phil Wrigley of Chicago.

Wrigley has shown no inclination to give up his franchise—a necessary step before the Browns could be shifted.

In the meantime, the Baltimore delegation, headed by Mayor Tom D'Alessandro, remained in New York, hoping the American League club owners would change their minds on not letting Baltimore have the Browns.

KIDNAPED BOY'S PARENTS AWAIT RANSOM DEMAND

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 29
—Police stood aside today while the millionaire parents of 6-year-old Robert Cosgrove Greenlease Jr. eagerly awaited word from kidnapers who snatched him yesterday from his class in an exclusive school here.

The boy's father called off plans for a television and news interview this morning, explaining, "We think they are trying to make contact."

He appeared near collapse as he added: "All I want is my boy back."

Press, radio and television men quickly left the lawn of the home at Greenlease's request. He did not give the basis of his belief the kidnapers were trying to reach him.

No Contact Made.
A short time later Greenlease, in tears, left the house in an automobile driven by Robert Lederman, his partner in an automobile agency at Tulsa, Okla., on their return about two hours later Greenlease told reporters no contact with the kidnapers had been made. He said he and Lederman had been at Greenlease's office.

The boy was taken from the French Institute of Notre Dame de Sion by a chunky red-haired woman who told the nun answering the door that Mrs. Green-lease had suffered a heart attack while shopping. The woman went in the chapel and "prayed" while the nun went after the child.

Police had no clues as to the kidnapers, but thought the abduction was the job of professional criminals.

Telephone Call.
A housekeeper in the Green-lease mansion in exclusive Mission Hills, in nearby Johnson county, Kan., recalled that about 10 days ago a woman had telephoned, identifying herself as a public school representative, and had asked and obtained information about the Greenlease children. School authorities said they had sponsored no recent survey.

Chief of Police Bernard C.
Brannon, who held off announcement of the abduction three hours, hoping the child would be returned, said today.

CHIEF JUSTICE
BY NEXT MONDAY

Brownell Said to Have Recommended Him
in Strongest Terms After Talk With Him in West.

By ROBERT J. DONOVAN

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch
Special Dispatch

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 —
Gov. Earl Warren of California will be the next Chief Justice of the United States, it was learned last night.

President Eisenhower is expected to nominate him by next Monday when the Supreme Court convenes for its fall term.
(The United Press quoted responsible Administration sources as saying there was a possibility the President would make the announcement at his press conference tomorrow.)

The choice of the 62-year-old Republican Governor as the nation's fourteenth Chief Justice, succeeding the late Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson, was recommended to the President in the strongest terms yesterday afternoon by Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr.

Brownell went to the White House after returning by plane from a meeting Sunday with
Gov. Warren at McClellan Air Force Base, 10 miles from Sacramento. The President knew, of course, of Brownell's trip and gave his approval to it. Every single recommendation that Brownell has made to the White House on judicial appointments has been accepted by the President.

With Gov. Warren's appointment of the nine justices on the court will fall the Republican majority. The only Republican presently is Associate Justice Harold H. Burton.

Reasons for Warren Choice.
There are four main reasons
Gov. Warren, who will be succeeded by Lt. Gov. Goodwin J.
Knight, also a Republican, has been chosen for the highest judicial post in the United States.
They are:

1. His conspicuous personal integrity. Against a background of what the Republicans have in-termed "the mess in Washington," the President wishes to place at the head of the Supreme Court a man about whose character there are no doubts.

2. His legal experience, augmented by years of administrative and executive experience.
An attorney by profession, Gov.
Warren was for many years district attorney of Alameda county, embracing Oakland, Calif., and was Attorney General of California from 1939 to 1943. In 1940 he was elected president of the National Association of Attorneys General. He has been active in sponsoring numerous legal reforms.

3. His age. At 62 Gov. Warren is in good health, so that there is a hopeful prospect that his tenure as Chief Justice will be a long one. Customarily, those Chief Justices who have had the greatest personal impact on the court are those who have held long tenures.

4. His legal and constitutional concepts. Gov. Warren, who supported Gen. Eisenhower in the 1952 campaign, is regarded as sympathetic to the concepts of law and government relationships held by the President himself.

Among the examples of this attitude are these: (1) Gov. Warren's opposition to the "court-packing" plan of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, (2) his ready endorsement of the Supreme Court in the 1952 strike case, holding that former President Truman had exceeded his constitutional powers in taking over strike-threatened steel plants, and (3) his outlook on federal-state relations as illustrated by his support of the

108 WOMEN SUE FORD, AUTO UNION
FOR $3,000,000

DETROIT, Sept. 29 (AP)—
Three women, claiming to represent 105 others, filed a $3,000-000 suit against the Ford Motor Co. and the CIO United Auto Workers yesterday, charging they were discriminated against because of their sex.

Neither Ford nor the union had any comment.

The women said that the 105 others had assigned their claims to them. The $3,000,000 according to the women, represented lost wages and other benefits since 1949.

The women said they were laid off in 1949 at Ford's River Rouge plant and men were hired to replace them.

Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (Rep., Wisconsin) and Miss Jean Fraser Kerr, his onetime Girl Friday who won his heart, were married today. Thousands of well-wishers and curious surged outside St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Cathedral as they spoke their vows.

Hundreds of uninvited gathered long before the hour of the ceremony to gaze at arriving dignitaries. Police estimated 3500 were around the cathedral.
The bride party pushed through the tumultuous singing crowd to enter the cathedral.

There was a great burst of applause when McCarthy drove up. When his bride arrived, there were shouts of "Hi, Jeanie!" and more applause.

900 in Cathedral.
In the Cathedral, which seats about 900, were most of the top figures of Washington official and diplomatic life.

Vice President and Mrs. Nixon, cabinet officers and their wives, Congress members and just plain friends were among the others invited. Jack Dempsey, the onetime heavyweight champion, was there and, after the ceremony, had his picture taken kissing the bride.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower had been invited but sent their regrets. The President wrote McCarthy a note saying he "wouldn't be able to attend because of his other engagements."

However, three presidential aids, Sherman Adams, Wilton Persons, and Jack Martin, came from the White House.

There were 200 guests from McCarthy's home state of Wisconsin.

The Rev. William J. Awalt of St. Matthew's performed the single-ring ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Augustine Maloney of Augustinian College in Washington.

The voices of the Senator and his bride were barely audible as they exchanged their vows. At conclusion of the mass, Father Awalt read a cablegram from Rome giving Pope Pius' "paternal and apostolic" blessing to the newlyweds.

As the couple walked back down the middle aisle, McCarthy tossed a wave at the Vice President.

The men in the wedding party did not have to decide whether to wear silk topers or other headgear; McCarthy went bareheaded.

BIG ARMAMENT

Industrial Production

TOKYO (Wednesday), Sept. 30 (UP)—Communist China soon will open a gigantic armament and industrial production program "with the sincere and selfless assistance of Soviet experts," official Red news sources reported tonight.

The manufacture of tanks, fighter planes and all kinds of artillery rank high on the program, the report said. The Chinese people will be told to reduce their spending "so as to put a maximum of resources into industrial construction."

It was also reported that Chinese scientists have found new mineral deposits, including critically-needed iron, petroleum and copper to feed the smelters and refineries.

U.N. ASSEMBLY UPHOLDS BAR ON ISSUE OF SEAT FOR RED CHINA

Vote Is 48 to 5—Russia and India Protest — Israel Backs West and Calls for Early Korean Peace Parley.

By ALVIN H. GOLDSTEIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 29—The report of the United Nations Credentials Committee excluding consideration of Red Chinese membership and approving the credentials of Nationalist China was adopted in the General Assembly today by vote of 48-5, with four abstentions. Russia and India protested against the decision of the committee to ignore Red China's application.

Although angry debate on the measure had been expected, it did not materialize in the closing minutes of the general debate in the 60-nation assembly. G. N. Zarubin of Russia went to the rostrum and in a remarkably brief speech, told delegates that Russia held to its view that the Formosan government of Nationalist China was seated illegally and was not eligible "to represent the Chinese people." He therefore would vote against that part of the report, he added.

Ruled Out of Order.
Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit of India, assembly president, ruled that discussion of the issue was out of order because of the recent Assembly resolution postponing the question during this session. She offered to entertain a challenge of her ruling and put it to a vote. Not accepted, but Indian Delegate, V. K. Krishna Menon took the floor.

Menon, who yesterday told the Assembly that to refuse Communist China admittance to the U.N. was to disfranchise one-third of the Asian continent, said India felt the Assembly should not have tied the hands of the Credentials Committee. He asserted that "no resolution can anticipate the action" of the committee. Other delegates would be no point in it sitting. He said his delegation would not vote for the provision.

Korean Peace Parley Plea.
Israel, last speaker in the general debate, called for an early convening of the Korean peace conference, supporting Western demands. Abba Eban, delegate leader, said Israel "would be grievously disappointed if the momentum of agreement and good will generated by the armistice" were not put to action immediately, to establish peace in Korea. Eban warned that peace in the Middle East will depend on "free and direct negotiations" between the Arab states and Israel.

He said that until direct talks prevail over "the sterile rancors of the past," Israel and the Arab governments "must learn to live within the present political situation as determined by the armistice agreements, seeking all ways to give those agreements the dynamic quality of a transition to peace."

Menon, speaking yesterday for an hour and 45 minutes, strung along also with other long-standing Russian proposals, including immediate outlawing of atomic and hydrogen bombs; renewal of discussion on the participation of "neutrals" in the Korean peace conference and the calling of a four-power conference to solve the ills of the troubled world.

All of these Soviet-inspired proposals have been previously rejected in the U.N. by substantial majorities. Menon did not, however, directly complain about the Western nations blocking an invitation to India and other Asian neutrals to take part in the projected Korean peace parley, now limited to belligerents. He said he would not "labor the point," as it would be talked about later.

Menon said he had no wish to "add to the heat" of the Korean debate certain to arise in the course of committee meetings in this Assembly session. It would not help to approach the peace conference "in the spirit of Panmunjom," he added, because "the war had ended, after all."

'Flexible' U. S. Approach.
He said the suggestion by American Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. that the issue of how the Korean peace conference might be composed could be left to the conference itself "indicated a degree of flexibility" in the United States approach.

The recent statement by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles that South Korea "has no ambitions that run beyond Korea" needs "clarification," Menon said, since there are "two Koreas."

The Indian spokesman expressed regret that the question of Red Chinese membership in the U.N., which automatically would unseat the Nationalist government - on - Formosa of Chiang Kai-shek, had been prejudged or "disposed of" at the opening of the General Assembly, thus taking the right of decision from the Credentials Committee.

India did not consider itself bound by that decision as it had no representation in the Credentials Committee. Menon went on. This was an example of how Asia was deprived of proportionate representation in the United Nations, he asserted, adding emphatically: "Asia is no longer a slumbering continent."

AIR FORCE TOLD TO PRESS TRAINING IN CITIZENSHIP

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Secretary Harold E. Talbott, noting Communist indoctrination of some American prisoners in Korea, called today for intensified citizenship education in the Air Force.

Talbott set forth his views in a letter addressed to all members of the Air Force. "The information program will remain our principal device for combating the virus of Communism in the minds of Air Force personnel," he wrote.

"The recent revelations regarding Communist indoctrination efforts on prisoners in the Korean conflict emphasize our responsibility. Through this program we must inculcate the highest ideals of citizenship, faith in our form of government, respect for the dignity of the individual, confidence in the integrity of the United States, a firm sense of mission and a willingness and eagerness to serve in support of the ideals of freedom."

Troop education is carried on by lectures, discussion meetings, pamphlets and other means.

MAPLEWOOD TO WRITE LAW ON ABANDONED ICE BOXES

Hoping to prevent the tragedy of a child suffocating in an abandoned ice box, the Maplewood city council last night directed the preparation of an ordinance under the proposed ordinance, it would be a misdemeanor to leave a lockable refrigerator outdoors where children can get to it. The penalty would be a fine of $1 to $100. City Attorney Charles E. Allen said he was requested to have it ready for the council meeting Oct. 13.

the great powers, as suggested by Prime Minister Churchill, Menon observed, should privately try to "hammer out some sort of a settlement." He did not add that the Soviet Union had been plugging for that sort of a session for several years but had been told that the U.N. was not to put forth sincere suggestions for world co-operation.

"There are no magical remedies," the Indian leader admitted, "but meetings of this kind often achieve some constructive results. The least they could do would be to clear the air to a considerable extent. That is what the human beings in this stricken world are seeking."

If other nations agreed, he said, India would ask the General Assembly to request the four-power conference.

Responsibility for easing world tensions rests primarily on "the two great giants" (meaning the United States and the Soviet Union), Menon said. He cautioned that less powerful governments, however, from aggravating the rivalries by employing terms such as "satellites" and "imperialist warmongers," often heard in speeches by representatives of Western and Eastern antagonists.

Disarmament, particularly abolition of weapons of mass destruction such as atomic and hydrogen bombs and gas instruments is "imperative," Menon continued, "unless the world is to destroy itself." The time has come, he declared, "when the General Assembly must declare itself in favor of the non-use (of them) for destructive purposes."

"All of humanity is threatened by these weapons," Menon asserted passionately. "There can be no neutrals in an atomic-hydrogen war and there can be no reconstruction afterward."

Facing in the opposite direction set by Bernard M. Baruch, sponsor of American offers of international atom control, the Indian spokesman said: "Even a pious declaration would help." At the opening of the fruitless U.N. debates on atomic energy supervision, Baruch asserted that this "was no time for pious declarations" but a time to choose between "the quick and the dead."

ERNST REUTER DIES; MAYOR OF WEST BERLIN

Symbol of West Opposition to Communism, He Led City During Long Soviet Blockade.

BERLIN, Sept. 29 (AP)—Mayor Ernst Reuter of West Berlin died after a heart attack at his home tonight, city officials announced. He was 64 years old. Reuter was a symbol of the West's opposition to Communism deep inside the Iron Curtain. The sharp-spoken chief executive led 2,200,000 of his fellow citizens through a grueling 327-day Soviet blockade. Only a few faltered.

Then, he became a human link between the city—100 miles inside the Soviet zone—and the republic centered in West Germany.

Reuter headed the government of the United States, British and French sectors in Berlin. Across town, a Communist government under Friedrich Ebert runs Russian sector affairs.

Reuter's Social Democratic (Socialist) party received a strong majority when 1,300,000 of West Berlin's voters engaged in a free election in December 1948. Ebert was named rival lord-mayor at an Opera House rally attended by 2000 hand-picked delegates of Red organizations.

Reuter was re-elected in 1951. Reuter espoused and then rejected Communism in his youth. The Russians black-balled him when he was first elected lord-mayor by the all-city assembly in 1947, a year Berlin was politically split between East and West.

Son of a merchant marine captain, Reuter was born July 29, 1889, in Apennine, Schleswig-Holstein. Attracted to Socialism when he was still a university student, he helped found a pacifist society at the beginning of World War I. Later, he served in the German army on the eastern front, where he was captured and held prisoner two years. He briefly encountered both Lenin and Stalin on Russian soil, when they were setting up Bolshevik rule.

A Communist convert, he was repatriated to his homeland in 1918. He soon won appointment as general secretary to the German Communist party's central committee, but lost it after six months.

By 1921, he was so disillusioned with Communism that he rejoined the Socialists, rising to editorship of the party newspaper, Vorwarts. In 1926, he took charge of the transportation section of the Berlin city government, which established a new urban transit system.

Magdeburg, 80 miles distant, elected him lord-mayor in 1931. He also won a seat in the Reichstag. In 1933, the Nazis seized power and sent Reuter to a concentration camp.

After being arrested and imprisoned a second time, he fled to Turkey. He waited out World War II as a college professor in Ankara, returning to Germany in 1946.

Reuter made a two-week visit to the United States last March. During his visit, he conferred with President Eisenhower. He also went on a speaking tour of the country.

ISRAEL OCCUPIES DEMILITARIZED AREA, EGYPT SAYS

'Aggression' in Auga Zone on Frontier Is Charged by Government in Cairo.

CAIRO, Sept. 29 (UP)—Minister of National Guidance Saleh Salem said today Israeli armed forces had occupied parts of the demilitarized area around Auga on the Egyptian-Israeli frontier. The Egyptian Government has summoned the army commander in chief to Cairo for consultation and has notified the Joint Palestine Armistice Commission and the Egyptian delegation to the United Nations of "this aggression," Salem said.

"We are not disclosing our plans," Salem said at a press conference. "But we know what to do."

Lt. Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, the Egyptian commander in chief, is returning at once from an inspection tour to take charge of the military aspect of the situation, Salem said.

He declined to give details of the reported Israeli move, or its date. The Auga, or El Auga, demilitarized zone is on the frontier between Egypt's Sinai peninsula and the Israeli Negev area, on the main Cairo-Jerusalem highway.

In armistice negotiations ending the Palestine war, Egypt and Israel agreed to demilitarization of the village of Auga and surrounding territory. The village itself is several miles inside Israeli territory.

Under the Egyptian-Israeli agreement, Auga was to be the headquarters of a mixed Armistice Commission consisting of three Egyptians, three Israelis and one U.N. observer.

A dispatch from Jerusalem said Israel was carrying out "Operation Samson," the biggest defense maneuvers in the country's brief history, involving infantry, tanks, artillery and planes.

Before Egypt made its allegation of aggression on the Israeli southern border, Israel already was embroiled in a dispute with Syria and Jordan. This concerns the Israeli action in starting to dig a canal along the Jordan river. Syria holds the project will deprive its land of needed water.

In London, Britain today joined the United States in asking Israel to stop work for the time being on the River Jordan project.

RUSSIA REPORTED TO HAVE COPIED SIKORSKY HELICOPTER
WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Russia has copied the Sikorsky S-55 helicopter and started large scale production, American Aviation Daily said today.

The S-55, known in its United States Air Force and Army versions as the H-19, carries 10 to 12 passengers.

The magazine publication said it has information that the Russian version was copied by designer Mikhail Mil, and that it was used in war games last winter. It added that a number of the helicopters were displayed at an air show at Tushino last month.

Dispute Over Facilities Delays Interviewing of P.O.W.s Again

Both U.N., Reds Want Changes Made in Centers Provided for Making Explanations.

PANMUNJOM, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission said today that explanations to Allied and Communist war prisoners who have refused to go home may be delayed again—this time by a dispute over facilities.

Explanation teams which will attempt to persuade the P.O.W.s to return home originally were scheduled to start talking to prisoners last Saturday, but the talks were postponed until Thursday because of a dispute over the ground rules.

An Indian spokesman for the commission said today the meetings may be pushed back again unless the Reds and Allies accept explanation centers already constructed.

Both Want Changes. He said both sides want extensive changes. The Communists, he said, object to centers built by the U.N. Command because Red teams would have to pass through all the P.O.W. camps to reach them.

"They want to avoid them because of hostile prisoners," the spokesman said.

Allied dissatisfaction centered on explanation booths and compounds built by the Reds. They say both are too small.

The Allied objection apparently stems from the dispute over whether prisoners should be interviewed individually or in groups. The Allies want group explanations while the Reds insist on individual interviews.

BRITAIN ASKS U.S. FOR MORE PLANES TO DEFEND MALTA
LONDON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Britain has asked the United States to send more planes to defend its Mediterranean island fortress of Malta, the Colonial Office announced today.

A Colonial Office spokesman refused on security grounds to say how many additional aircraft are sought or how many are stationed on the island at present. United States planes have been based on Malta for the last year.

The Colonial Office announced said Britain asked for reinforcements after a "further study of the defense requirements of the area in modern conditions." It said the arrangement will be reviewed from time to time "in the light of changes in the international situation."

Britain has long been touchy about the air defense of Malta. The tiny island was nearly pounded to submission by Nazi bombing in the early part of World War II.

TRUMAN PLANS MAJOR ADDRESS HERE OCT. 8

Will Receive Sidney Hillman Award, Speak on Domestic Affairs.

Former President Harry S. Truman will be in St. Louis Oct. 8 for a major speech on domestic affairs, when he receives the Sidney Hillman Foundation's annual meritorious public service award, the foundation announced in New York today.

The speech will be broadcast by radio stations of the American Broadcasting Co., originated by station KXOK. The station's plans for broadcasting it locally will be announced later.

The $1000 award, in memory of the late president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America (CIO), will be presented at a dinner at Hotel Statler.

Truman arrived here this afternoon for the annual meeting of the Grand Masonic Lodge of Missouri. He will attend a lodge meeting tonight, and tomorrow he will meet with a group to talk over plans for the Truman Memorial Library.

Truman came by plane from New York, where he received the Four Freedoms award last night, and was met at Lambert-St. Louis field by members of the Grand Lodge. He stepped off the plane carrying a small metal traveling bag.

While he waited for another bag to be unloaded, a bystander asked, "Are you looking for a job Harry?" He replied "Yes sir," and then was asked, "Who isn't, these days?"

The former President said he would be here through Wednesday, and would decide tonight whether his schedule would permit him to go to Caruthersville, Mo., Thursday for an American Legion meeting.

BOY, 3, KILLED IN FALL FROM FOURTH-FLOOR LEDGE
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 29 (UP)—A 3-year-old boy toppled from a fourth-floor apartment ledge here today and was killed instantly.

Lawrence Keith Vinyard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Vinyard, arose about 7:45 a.m. before his parents were awake and apparently crawled out a window to a 10-inch ledge, police said.

John Hunholz, a passerby, told officers he looked up to see the child walking along the ledge. Seconds later he toppled off and fell head-first to the ground. He was dead when an ambulance arrived.

PUTS OIL 'GIVE-AWAY' AT TRILLION DOLLARS

CIO Officer Says G.O.P. Kept Pledges to Tideland State Governors.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 29 (UP)—An official of the CIO Oil Workers Union charged today that the Eisenhower Administration "gave away" one trillion dollars when it turned over the oil tidelands to coastal states.

T. M. McCormick of Denver, secretary-treasurer of the international union, charged that "mink-coat and deep-freeze scandals" of the Democratic Administration of former President Truman were nothing compared with the "give-away program" of President Eisenhower's Administration.

"With one trillion dollars they could buy a $5000 mink coat for every woman over 21 years old and a deep freeze to keep it in and still have enough money left over to pay off the national debt," McCormick told delegates to the union's annual convention here.

He said that the Republicans had kept some of their commitments — to Texas Gov. Allen Shivers, California's Gov. Earl Warren and the state of Louisiana when they "shoved through the oil give-away."

The Republicans, McCormick charged, "now are in the process of giving away our power resources in the name of private enterprise and return to normalcy."

EISENHOWERS GIVE STATE DINNER FOR PANAMA'S CHIEF
(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—The White House gold service glittered for the first time in the Eisenhower Administration last night as President and Mrs. Eisenhower entertained at a state dinner for the President of Panama, Jose Antonio Remon, and his wife.

The guests, who included Vice President Nixon and members of the Cabinet and their wives, joined in a toast to Panama proposed by Eisenhower.

President Remon and his wife arrived by plane late yesterday for a state visit.

RUSSIA TO RETURN 600 PRISONERS OF WAR TO AUSTRIA
VIENNA, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Soviet Union will return to Austria 600 amnestied prisoners of war on Oct. 13-15, the Austrian Government announced today.

Release of the prisoners, promised by the Russians last June 27, has been delayed by the Soviet authorities without explanation.

An Austrian Government communique said Russia's ambassador in Moscow has been informed by the Soviet Foreign Office that all preparations for the return of the group have been concluded. The prisoners will arrive at the Austrian town of Wiener Neustadt.

FRED G. AANDAH DEFENDS SALE TO UTILITIES OF FEDERAL POWER

Assistant Secretary of Interior Says Administration Seeks to Avoid Disturbing Established Systems.

By DAVID LILIENTHAL JR.,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

FARGO, N.D., Sept. 29—The Eisenhower administration's new policy of selling federal electric power to private utilities on a long-term basis was defended today by Assistant Secretary of the Interior Fred G. Aandahl.

Aandahl said the policy was designed to avoid disturbing the "established retail systems" of the private companies and contended it would stimulate "local initiative" by setting limits to the Government's area of responsibility.

He argued, in a speech before the Missouri-Basin Interagency Committee, that the Government "should not attempt to influence" the choice of consumers between public and private power.

Unlike Previous Policy.

The administration's power contract policy for the Missouri Basin, announced earlier in the month, "basically different" from policy followed by the preceding Democratic administrations, Aandahl pointed out.

A major change is the elimination of the "withdrawable" clauses in contracts for private utilities, which will work to the disadvantage of rural electric cooperatives and other non-profit public power distributing agencies.

Previous policy permitted the private companies to purchase Government power on only a short-term basis. Although contracts might be made for periods of 20 years or more, the Government had the right to terminate them on three or five years notice.

This provision was intended to assist the growth of the public power organizations, which, under federal law, have priority on Government electricity.

Although the public power groups will continue to be served first by the Government, electricity in excess of their present needs can now be obtained by private utilities for a full 20-year period.

Thus, it has been pointed out, REA groups now in the process of forming in those areas which might develop in the next few years will be unable to obtain cheap federal power for a considerable period, despite the fact that they technically are "preferred customers."

New Priority Policy.

A second significant feature of the new contract policy is its priority system for handling contracts in the immediate future. It stipulates that existing contracts—including those with private utilities—will be processed under the new policy before any new requests are considered.

This means, for example, that the contract of Montana Power Co. for electricity from the Government's huge Fort Peck dam in Montana could be amended immediately to give the company an assured supply of power for the 20-year period.

After such existing contracts have been handled, the policy says, "remaining available power will be allocated to fulfill the requests of, first, preference type customers and, next, non-preference type customers."

In his speech, Aandahl predicted that the "spread in price" between public and private power will be reduced in five years, except in high fuel-cost areas.

He said this factor together with the Administration's planned encouragement of local power development, "should materially reduce the unfortunate pressure on local communities to establish local public power entities just to make Federal hydro-power available to themselves" by means of the "preferred customer" provision.

He also remarked that transmission lines "insofar as possible should be left as a local responsibility" and said Government electricity should be sold only "within a reasonable marketing distance."

Mayor and Former Mayor Voting for Plaza Bond Issue

MAYOR RAYMOND R. TUCKER presenting his vote for the plaza bond issue this morning to MISS ALMA BREIL, election official in Twelfth Ward polling place at 725 Holly Hills avenue.

FORMER MAYOR and MRS. ALOYS P. KAUFMANN balloting at their Thirteenth Ward polling place, 3842 Wilmingon avenue. They voted for the bond issue, too.

POLICE COMMISSION NAMED IN OVERLAND

Action Follows Charges of Youths They Were Held in Jail Without Food.

The City of Overland named a board of police commissioners last night, following complaints by two teen-age boys who said they were held in jail 17 hours without food, water or being allowed to use a telephone.

Mayor Tom Jordan said the new board would investigate the complaints, and will draw up regulations for the police department.

Although a board of police commissioners is authorized by ordinance, Overland has not had one for four years. Commissioners appointed by the mayor, with the consent of the board of aldermen, are:

Jesse Weaver, 10408 Eaglewood avenue, and Alderman Martin Jaeger and Everett Lakey.

The youths who complained said they were held from 11 p.m. on Sept. 20 until 4 p.m. the next day, and were not permitted to call their parents.

Police denied the charges. The officers said they asked the boys if they needed anything or if they wanted to use a telephone and said the youths said they did not.

They were arrested, police said, after a warning flare, such as used around street excavations, was thrown from the automobile in which they were riding. The youths denied having such a flare. They were released without charge.

Mayor Jordan said in his opinion it was the job of police to call parents and inform them of arrests.

SHOOTING OF DEPUTY BEFORE NEW GRAND JURY TOMORROW

The shooting of Chief Deputy Sheriff William Smith at a sheriff's barbecue last June 26 will be presented to the St. Louis county grand jury at its opening session tomorrow, it was learned at Clayton today.

Circuit Judge John A. Witthaus last Saturday directed the jury to make an exhaustive investigation of the alleged breakdown in law enforcement in the county, and of the shooting at the sheriff's party, at El Avion night club.

Former Deputy Sheriff Nicholas P. Burke was charged in a warrant with assault to kill in the wounding of Smith. A hearing of the case, set for today before Magistrate Frank W. Turrell, was continued until next Tuesday at the request of the Prosecuting Attorney.

ST. LOUIS ATTORNEY HANDLING TEXAS-NEW MEXICO DISPUTE

A legal dispute between Texas and New Mexico, over water rights in the Rio Grande valley, was in the hands of a St. Louis attorney today. The attorney, John Raeburn Green, heard arguments yesterday as a special master for the United States Supreme Court, to which he will make a recommendation as to whether the Federal Government should intervene.

Texas sued to force New Mexico to keep the El Vado reservoir flood gates open for passage of a quantity of water claimed by Texas under an interstate pact. New Mexico attorneys argued that the Federal Government has an interest because its Indian wards use Rio Grande water for irrigation.

AIRLINES SEDAN DRIVER ROBBED BY MAN, WOMAN

Oscar Thum, a driver for Airlines Transit Corp., reported to police that he was robbed last night on Lawton boulevard near Cardinal avenue by a man and a woman, after the man had run in front of the airlines sedan Thum was driving, forcing him to stop.

The woman, a Negro, opened the right door and threatened Thum with a knife. The man, also a Negro, opened the left door and took Thum's billfold containing $65. When the robbers said they were going to take the machine, Thum threw the keys on the floor and they fled.

60,000 Ballots by 4 P.M. In Plaza Bond Issue Voting

Women volunteers telephoned registered voters to remind them to go to the polls.

As additional reminders, the committee arranged to sound fire sirens at 7 a.m., noon and 5 p.m. and to set off aerial bombs in Memorial Plaza during the noon hour. Trucks bearing signs urging voters to pass the bond issue toured the city.

Opponents also were active. Operators of some business establishments in the plaza area, who would have to relocate their places if the redevelopment program is approved, sent out automobiles displaying placards urging defeat of the bond issue.

The plaza bond issue proposal was first submitted to the voters in the municipal primary last March 13. Although it received more favorable than unfavorable votes in every one of the 28 wards, it fell 3.88 per cent short of the required two-thirds majority.

Some voters in that election complained that the special ballot used was confusing. A simplified ballot authorized by the State Legislature was in use today. To vote for the bond issue, one places an X in the square opposite "YES."

With the help of Barnes Hospital, a number of patients arranged to vote by absentee ballot. Such ballots must be received at the Election Board of 208 South Twelfth street, by 6 p.m. tomorrow.

Voters may obtain information on the bond issue proposal and directions to their proper polling place by telephoning the St. Louis League of Women Voters, Forest 7168.

Indorsement of the bond issue was announced last night by the St. Louis Council, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Clement C. Muligan VFW Post 6997, and Spirit of St. Louis Council 767 Royal Arcanum. This brought to 193 the number of organizations which have pledged their support.

The Election Board issued a statement urging voting officials to be vigilant in preventing any irregularities.

The board views this election as of equal importance as any other election or elections," it said, "and reiterates its established policy heretofore issued, as follows: The board condemns and will not tolerate irregular and illegal practices in voting or in the counting of ballots. Only persons legally entitled to cast a ballot will be permitted to vote."

SCHOOL BUS HITS TRUCK, 3 FOOTBALL PLAYERS HURT

Three members of the sophomore football team of East St. Louis High School and their bus driver were injured late yesterday when a school bus hit a truck, which had stopped for highway repairs on Illinois Route 111, near Roxana. The team was on its way to Alton for a game.

George Bennett, the bus driver, 827 North Seventy-third street, is in St. Elizabeth Hospital, Granite City, with serious head injuries. Players injured were: John Hurd, 16 years old, 1611 St. Louis avenue, fractured collar bone; Paul Oakley, 16, 811 North Twenty-third street, injured ankle, and William Latham, 17, 2115 Cleveland avenue, injured right leg.

After being hit by the bus the truck was shoved against two automobiles. The truck driver and the occupants of the automobiles were not hurt.

EAST SIDE POLICE ATTEND FBI MEETING ON THEFTS

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents held an all-day conference today at the Broadview Hotel in East St. Louis with East Side police officers, railroad police and local truckers to coordinate efforts in a campaign against interstate thefts.

William C. Hinz, assistant agent in charge of the FBI office at Springfield, Ill., was chairman of the conference which was attended by about 65 officials. A panel discussion on investigative techniques was led by the police chiefs of East St. Louis, Belleville and Edwardsville.

Hinz said the meeting was one of about 100 conferences organized in various parts of the country.

COUNTY POLICE FORCE OPPOSED BY 30 OFFICIALS

Chiefs and Marshals
Apparently Suspicious Municipalities Would Lose Powers.

Thirty of St. Louis county's police chiefs and marshals agreed last night that they would be opposed to a county metropolitan police system divided into precincts.

The officials who responded to an invitation by the citizens' commission on county law enforcement to give their views in a meeting at the Clayton Court-house, were noncommittal on some questions placed informally by Chairman Arthur B. Shepley Jr. and other commission members.

One veteran officer summarized his objection to being polled with the comment: "We don't have a word to say. We just get bounced around."

Agree on One Point.

The group, however, was apparently unanimous in rejecting the idea of a county law enforcement agency "which would absorb all present agencies."

They agreed that law enforcement is impeded by a ruling of the Attorney General under which officers cannot cross into another community to make arrests unless a felony is involved. Shepley noted that police frequently do cross boundary lines and expose themselves to possible false-arrest charges, "taking offense you shouldn't be asked to take."

Eleven said they thought the chief should be appointed, 10 thought he should be elected, and the rest gave no opinion. Eighteen raised hands to affirm that chiefs need more freedom in removing incompetent personnel than Civil Service allows.

Suspicion that the commission's queries on co-ordination of police effort would lead to surrender of municipalities' police powers visibly mounted in the attentive rows of ranking officers.

Asks to See Plan.

Thus, although there was no expressed opposition to the idea of giving members of municipalities' police departments a badge allowing them to make arrests outside their areas in cases of "hot pursuit" or of offenders or other chiefs' requests for assistance, the question drew a retort from Chief Fred O. Lain of Brentwood: "Mr. Chairman, let's see what you've got on paper."

Similarly, a variety of argument arose when Shepley asked how many would object to changing the sheriff's office and its functions to an agency operated by a bipartisan or non-partisan board with an appointed officer to replace the elected sheriff. An officer asked, "Is it more proper to have a sheriff accountable to the people or to a board?"

Col. Hugh Waggoner, superintendent of the State Highway Patrol, drew laughter from the officers with a "no comment"

V.P. DECORATIONS DOWNTOWN TO GO UP FRIDAY NIGHT

Crews of workmen will descend on the downtown area Friday night, after stores and offices are closed, to decorate the city for the Veiled Prophet parade Oct. 7. The job is expected to take all night.

Bright blue banner will be hung on utility poles. This will be the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Veiled Prophet's visit, and "75th Year" will be stamped on the flags.

New medallions bearing the Veiled Prophet insignia and topped by a crown are to be installed in windows and doorways along the parade route, and red, white and blue banner will be hung along the way for a patriotic touch. Florists' shops are saluting Veiled Prophet time with special window displays.

NIGHT-TIME NOISEMAKER OVERSLEEPS, MISSES COURT

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—Leroy Evans failed to appear in court yesterday to answer charges of keeping a neighbor awake at night by, among other things, tap dancing and hurling firecrackers from his window. He told the judge he had overslept. The case was rescheduled for Friday.

response to Shepley's question, "How does prosecution of law violation in St. Louis county compare with that of other counties?"

400 Patrol Applicants. Waggoner said 30 new highway patrolmen have been selected from 400 applicants, whose number included men with doctor's and master's degrees.

Applicants included law enforcement officers from this area who stated they expected "greater security" with the state force. Waggoner said. Base pay for troopers is $275 a month, with a 10 per cent increase for each additional five years' service, he noted.

Waggoner, closely questioned by the commission and an advisory committee, said he has "semi-military" authority in firing unsuitable officers. "We have our own board, our own court. If a troop commander asks me to discipline or discharge a man, I can do it. I think that's a must in police work," Waggoner asserted.

On the subject of tenure of police chiefs, Shepley asked how many would prefer to see the chief appointed and retained as long as he performed ably, regardless of political changes. Chief John Oberst of Jennings told him the chiefs were most interested in retaining "the man who's got the job now."

The commission will meet again next Monday at 8 p.m. at the Courthouse.

UNION ELECTRIC CUTS RATE HIKE REQUEST

Utility Trims $153,900 Off Increase Sought in East Side Areas.

Union Electric Power Co. today reduced by $153,900 the amount of rate increase it is seeking for Alton and East St. Louis. It now seeks a $856,000 increase, instead of $1,009,900.

Following announcement of the reduction at an Illinois Commerce Commission hearing in Springfield, objections to the proposed increases were withdrawn by East St. Louis, Alton, East Side Associated Industries, Allied Chemical and Die Co. and Emerson Electric Manufacturing Co.

John A. Woodbridge, Union Electric vice president and company counsel, said the reduction would make the requested increase conform to that granted to the utility recently in Missouri.

In filing for the increase in Illinois, the company stated it has not increased rates since 1919. Higher costs of operation are the basis for the requested increase, Union Electric said.

MOTHER OF MISSING PILOT ASKS FOR CONTINUED SEARCH

Mrs. Henry J. Beermann of St. Louis has appealed to residents of the Chicago area to continue their search for her son, Second Lt. Henry C. Beermann, pilot of an F-86 Sabre jet fighter which is believed to have crashed in the Chicago area in a storm Sept. 11.

Mrs. Beermann, who lives at 5045 Pernod avenue, wrote in her appeal, sent to a Chicago newspaper, that "We feel our mind would be at ease if we could only find him." Lt. Beermann was on a training flight with three other jets when they were scattered by a storm. One pilot parachuted to safety and the two others landed safely at O'Hare field, near Chicago.

An intensive search has been made for Lt. Beermann, employing 200 planes, 75 automobiles and 10 Coast Guard vessels. It covered a wide stretch in northern Illinois, southern Wisconsin, much of Lake Michigan and northern Indiana, but no trace has been found of the plane and the search has been ended.

SPARKMAN SAYS HOUSING GROUP IS 'WEIGHTED'

President's Advisers to Meet Tomorrow to Study Policies and Program.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Senator Sparkman (Dem., Ala.), said today that President Eisenhower's advisory housing committee appears to be "heavily weighted" with members who have opposed the low-rent housing program.

The Senator said, however, he believes that in view of housing needs, "even this group" will recommend an improved Government housing program.

Sparkman made his comments in a statement released by his office here. As a member of the Senate Banking Committee, Sparkman long has taken an interest in public housing.

The President's Advisory Committee on Government Housing Policies and Programs is to hold its first session here tomorrow. Albert M. Cole, top Government housing administrator, has expressed the hope the group can come up with new policies for the Administration to recommend to Congress next year.

The 1953 congressional session voted funds for only 20,000 new public housing units, although Eisenhower and Cole recommended 35,000.

Sparkman said the committee's roster of 21 "breaks down by previous experience as follows: Officers of banks and other lending institutions, 10; operators of real estate and building businesses, 5; architects, 2; veterans, 1; labor, 2; and all civic, professional, church, research and planning agencies, 1."

The Alabama Senator, after stating his view that the membership is "weighted," went on: "The need for housing throughout the nation, particularly for the low and middle-income groups, is so great, however, that I believe even this group will recommend a continued and improved program to get on with the business of clearing slums and providing low income families with decent shelter."

"The facts demand it. The President promised this, and he should do no less."

W. GERMAN SALES IN SOUTH AMERICA NOW TOP BRITAIN'S

LONDON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Aggressive West German exporters have outsold British competitors in South America for the first time since World War II and captured the leading trade position in Argentina. Latest figures available show that West Germany exported $90,000,000 worth of goods to South America the first four months of this year as compared to Britain's $84,000,000.

This compares with German exports of $104,000,000 and British exports of $145,000,000 the same months of 1952.

The German exporters have pushed ahead in the face of a general trade decline in both Brazil and Argentina. In Brazil, West Germany seems to have held its own better than Britain or the United States. In Argentina, Germany thus nosed ahead of both the United States and Britain.

RUNAWAY NEUTRAL INTERPRETER WILL MAKE HOME IN U.S.

TOKYO, Sept. 29 (UP)—The United States gave a runaway Polish member of the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission in Korea permission today to live in the United States.

The American embassy in Tokyo said the necessary documents needed for entry into the United States had been issued to Jan Hajdukiewicz, who is now in Okinawa.

Hajdukiewicz, an interpreter, requested asylum at the United States Air Force base at Keng-nung in South Korea 20 days ago. He was making a tour of South Korean ports of entry with Communist inspectors when he saw an opportunity to escape.

Hajdukiewicz has made tentative reservations to leave Okinawa for Manila tomorrow. He will leave for San Francisco aboard another plane later.

DE GASPERI ELECTED HEAD OF ITALY'S BIGGEST PARTY

ROME, Sept. 29 (AP)—Italy's biggest party, the Christian Democrats, elected former Premier Alcide de Gasperi their leader in title as well as fact today and cheered a hint from Premier Giuseppe Pella that his "interim" government may not be so temporary after all.

The party's national council elected De Gasperi political secretary, the top party post. The veteran statesman, head of all of Italy's postwar governments until Pella took over in August, actually had been party leader also but former Cabinet member Guido Gonella had held the secretaryship for many years.

JAILED FOR DRUNK DRIVING

William M. Stephens, 4033 Lincoln avenue, was sentenced to 20 days in the workhouse and fined $50 on traffic charges today by Police Judge Morris Rosenhal.

Stephens, pleaded guilty of driving while intoxicated and careless driving in connection with an accident last Wednesday in which his machine collided with another, which had stopped at Sarah street and Cook avenue. Police reported that Stephens was slumped over the steering wheel when they reached the scene.

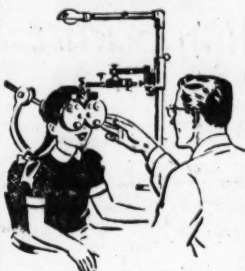

TWO EAST SIDE MEN HELD ON MARIJUANA CHARGE

Robert Calliel, Negro, 210½ (rear) St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis, and Joe Steckler, 313A East Third street, Alton, were being held in St. Louis city jail today on federal charges of illegal sale of marijuana.

The two men were arrested yesterday by East St. Louis police and federal narcotics bureau agents after police had bought several pounds of the narcotic from Calliel. Steckler was reported by police to have grown and processed the material which was sold in bulk.

The men were ordered held for arraignment and trial at a hearing before United States Commissioner Vera Felner who set their bonds at $5000 each. Unable to make the bonds, they were committed to the St. Louis jail.

DONNELLY SAYS STATE NEEDS U.S. AID IN DROUGHT

Gives No Indication Whether He Will Call Legislature to Consider Problem.

By BOYD F. CARROLL
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 29—Gov. Phil M. Donnelly last night declared Missouri immediately needed "real help from the Federal Government for drought relief," in replying to an appeal that he convene the Legislature in special session to provide state aid for drought-stricken farmers.

But Donnelly did not disclose whether he will call a special legislative session, also urgently sought by St. Louis to meet its financial needs by extension of the life of the city earnings tax.

Republican State Chairman Perry Compton of Montgomery City last Saturday passed responsibility to the Democratic state administration to aid farmers confronted with forced sale of dairy and beef cattle herds from lack of feed, by calling on Donnelly to convene the Legislature.

Compton suggested the state's present surplus of $25,000,000 be used to provide relief for drought-stricken farmers not in a position to pay $35 to $40 a ton for hay under a proposed state hay procurement plan.

Donnelly, in a reply telegram to Compton last night, said his request would receive "every consideration," but in effect passed the ball to the Republican national Administration in Washington.

President Eisenhower has given all but 31 of the 114 Missouri counties approval for federal assistance as drought disaster areas and the 31 are pending for approval.

Missouri Senators Renew Demands for U. S. Drought Aid.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—United States Senators Stuart Symington and Thomas C. Hennings Jr. of Missouri renewed demands yesterday that additional federal aid be provided for Missouri's drought-stricken areas.

Symington conferred with Under Secretary of Agriculture True D. Morse and Robert L. Farrington, acting director of agriculture credit services.

Meanwhile, Hennings sent a telegram to Secretary of Agriculture Benson urging all possible steps be taken to provide farm relief. He said conditions in southeastern and southwestern Missouri are "indescribably bad," and that hay is urgently needed.

Hennings began today a one-month inspection tour of Missouri to study conditions and sound out constituents on the drought and other problems. He plans to meet with Gov. Phil M. Donnelly in Jefferson City Friday to talk over the drought situation and discuss federal highways, agriculture and river projects.

MOTHER WHO LEFT CHILDREN TELLS OF DELAY ON TRIP

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 29 (AP)—Mrs. Edna May Seley, mother of two children left to shift for themselves for two days when she went out of town, told juvenile officers yesterday she planned to be back the following day but was delayed on business.

The children, Patsy, 6 years old and Keith, 8, turned into top-notch housekeepers when they realized their mother wasn't going to return as soon as expected. Patsy made sandwiches and took care of the house—even getting herself and her brother off to school on time Friday morning.

Mrs. Seley explained she left on a business trip and was unavoidably detained. Police are checking her story. The children are in a foster home pending an investigation.

QUAKE ROCKS NEW ZEALAND

AUCKLAND, Sept. 29 (AP)—An earthquake apparently centered in the south Pacific east of New Zealand rocked and cracked buildings and broke windows today in this island commonwealth's cities and towns. No casualties were reported.

Officials said the center of the two-minute tremor appeared to be about 300 miles east of Gisborne, the New Zealand point reporting the strongest shocks. That would place the quake center in an ocean area.

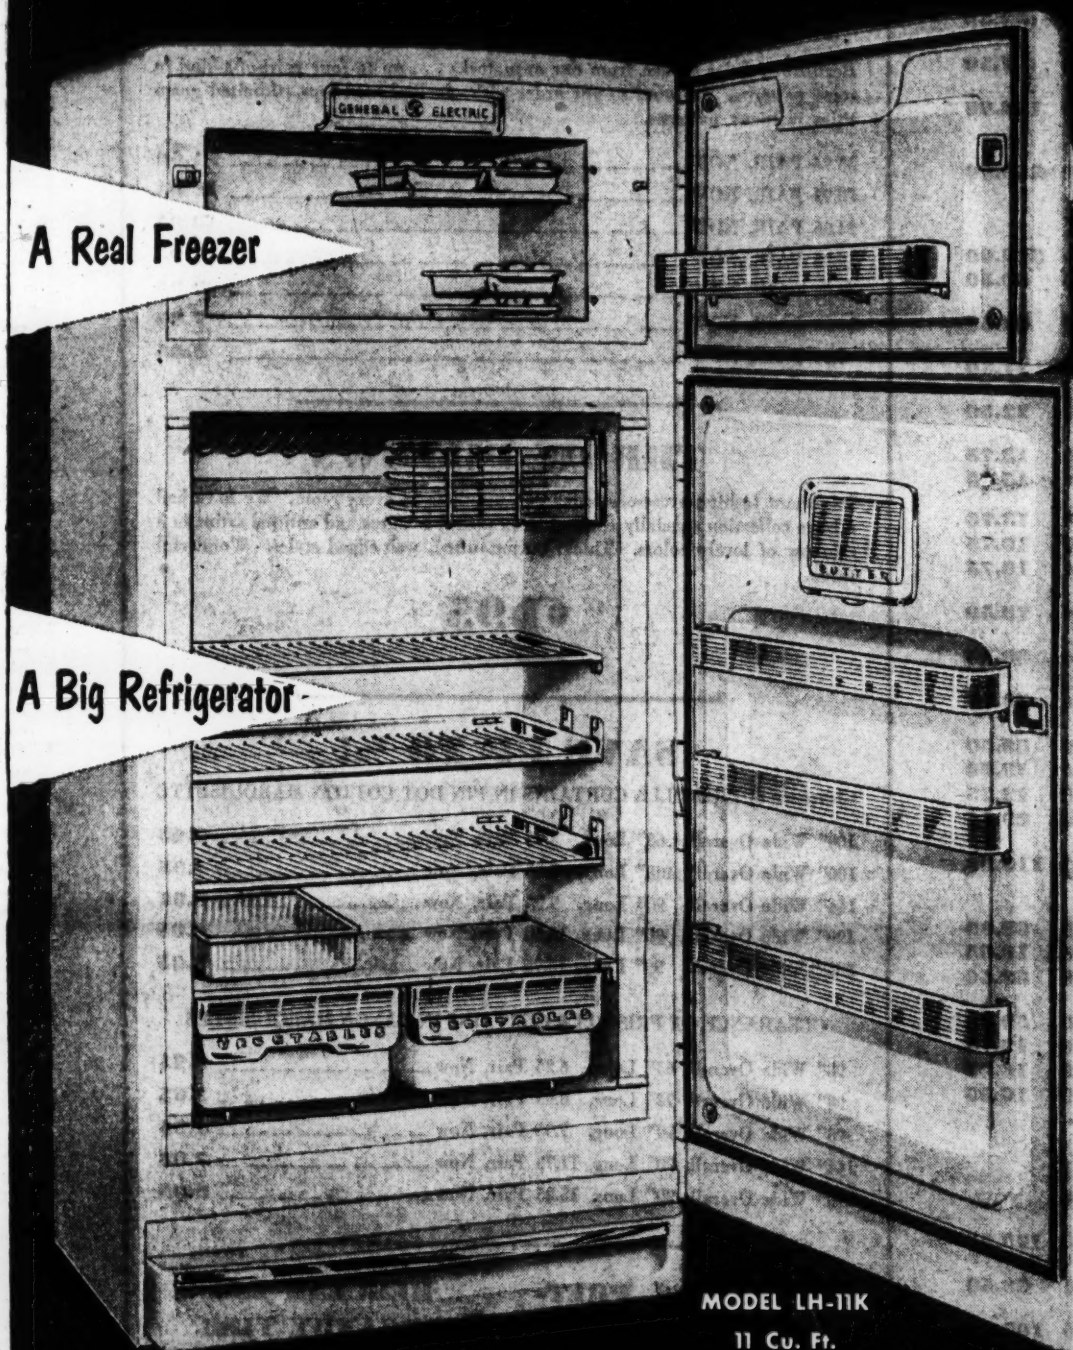

Mrs. Eisenhower Gets a Fish.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—This time it will be his wife—and not President Eisenhower—who gets the fish. Representative Tollefson (Rep.), Washington presented Mrs. Eisenhower with a 200-pound halibut. The fish was taken by a Seattle fishing boat.

PLANE CRASHES IN LOUISVILLE, 23 ARE KILLED

20 Puerto Rican Soldiers
Among Dead — 18 Survive Crack-Up of Chartered Liner.

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 29 (AP)—Civil Aeronautics Board investigators took over today at the scene of an airliner crash that took the lives of 23 persons, including 20 Puerto Rican soldiers.

The big, twin-engine plane was nearing the end of its journey late yesterday when it suddenly went out of control and crashed in the middle of Louisville's Standiford field.

Others among the 41 aboard the plane were reported in serious condition in three hospitals.

The C-46, one of five chartered by the Army to transfer 140 soldiers from Camp Kilmer, N.J., to Fort Knox, Ky., was about to land when trouble developed.

After pulling up to about 400 feet, the craft nosed down and crashed. Bodies were scattered as far as 100 feet from the twisted ruins of the plane.

Field's First Fatal Crash.

It was the airport's first fatal accident since it opened in 1944. The crew of three, all from San Antonio, Tex., were killed.

The stewardess, Miss Dorothy Jean Bush, 32 years old, died this morning of her injuries.

The pilot was Capt. Whorton Moller, 33, and his co-pilot was Capt. John Dewitt Pickel, 31.

Authorities at Camp Kilmer said the soldiers were among a group of Puerto Ricans processed from overseas for re-assignment and that some of them may have seen combat service in Korea.

None of the survivors could tell what happened.

Saw Tail Flap Drop.

One witness, Carl South, a transportation agent for Trans World Airlines, said the plane descended in a normal manner. He said he noticed the left elevator flap on the tail drop and the plane was pulled up. All at once it nosed down and crashed into the field.

The plane broke into two parts and both engines burst into flames. Most of the survivors seemed to come out of the tail section.

Fire Capt. Marion Norris said: "There wasn't much we could do about the fire. People were lying all over the place, and we handled those we could."

Swallows Grape and a Wasp.

GENOA, Italy, Sept. 29 (AP)—Rosa Ponta, 46 years old, swallowed a grape today and a wasp along with it. She was taken to a hospital in serious condition with a wasp sting in her throat.

Bonn Ready to Supply Troops To EDC, German Visitors Say

Field Marshal Rommel's former aide-de-camp, ALBRECHT C. E. KRAUSE (center) shaking hands with CHIEF JEROME MIAH O'CONNELL (right) yesterday as he and two other German police officials began their inspection of St. Louis Police Department. From left: MAJ. WERNER HAAG, Luebeck; INSPECTOR OF POLICE GEORGE PARKER; Krause; HANS GEORG URBAN, Berlin, and Chief O'Connell.

Rommel's Former Aide-de-Camp, Two Others Here on Tour to Study American Police Methods.

Field Marshal Rommel's former aide-de-camp and two other German army veterans said here today that people of West Germany are ready and willing to contribute troops to the European Defense Community against Communist aggression.

The three, now touring the United States under a State Department exchange program to study American police methods, said Germans are not "enthusiastic about getting in the army" but can be counted on to do their share.

Rommel's former aide, Albrecht C. E. Krause, legal expert for police matters at the Federal Ministry of Interior, Bonn, warned that if East Germany remains under Red control for another 10 years the young people in that area may be irreparably tainted by Communist doctrine.

"That is where we see the great danger," the slight, 32-year-old onetime General Staff officer said. Joining him in that view were Maj. Werner Haag, commander of the Federal Frontier Police School at Luebeck, near the Baltic sea, and Hans Georg Urban, deputy chief of police in Berlin.

Krause was gravely wounded at Leningrad and was in the staff car just behind Rommel's near St. Lo, in Normandy, when the famed "Desert Fox" was seriously hurt in a strafing attack. Haag, 43, was a regular army colonel commanding an infantry regiment in the Balkans and Urban, 42, a sergeant of artillery, got within 20 miles of Moscow.

They were luncheon guests yesterday of Adelbert von Gontard, vice president of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., and afterward went through the brewery accompanied by James McGuire, special agent for the company. Police Lt. Joseph Gallagher, and Kurt Buchheim, the brewery's superintendent of maintenance, who speaks fluent German.

West Germans have "no feeling of hate toward France or any other country of Western Europe," the visitors said, and are strongly inclined toward a "United States of Europe." Recalling the World War II drive into Russia, they said Russian people received them at first as liberators. "With open arms," as they put it.

Krause, four times wounded, said he felt lucky that the British Typhoon that caught Rommel on a Normandy road July 17, 1944, missed his own vehicle. The incident put Rommel out of the fighting and three months later the Field Marshal was dead by Hitler's order.

"His driver was hit in the strafing," Krause, then a reserve captain, recalled. "The staff car went around a corner out of control and smashed into an oak. Rommel's head was hurt on the steel frame. We gave him first aid and quickly altered his uniform. There were French around, and we didn't want anyone to know."

Krause said the driver was Rommel's thirteenth to become a casualty. He appraised his former commander thusly: "An excellent trooper, very good sense of leading in the field. Not an expert on general staff work."

PRIVATE TRADERS TO HANDLE FOOD AID

U.S. to Work Through Exporters in Sending Farm Products Overseas.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—The government probably will announce soon that it will operate through private trade channels in carrying out a congressional mandate to send up to $250,000,000 worth of farm products abroad under foreign aid programs.

Congress directed that between $100,000,000 and $250,000,000 worth of farm products be made available to other countries, which would pay in their own currencies. Such currency payments in turn would be used to carry out foreign aid objectives in the affected countries.

The legislation was sponsored by major farm organizations urging greater efforts to hold on to declining overseas markets for American crops.

Two courses were open to the government—sending the products abroad from surpluses held by the Agriculture Department under price support programs and using government agencies to handle the transactions, or encouraging private exporters to do the job.

After conferences between officials of the Foreign Operations Administration and the Agriculture Department, the administration has decided to use the private trade approach.

First invitations for such shipments are expected to cover grains, particularly wheat.

Instead of taking wheat from government stocks, the FOA would deal with private traders who would get grain in the open market. They would be paid by the FOA. Recipient countries would make an equivalent amount of their currency available for approved foreign aid projects in their country.

The net effect would be that United States aid would be in the form of farm products rather than in dollars.

Traders would be free to buy government-owned surpluses for shipment under the program if supplies were unavailable in regular commercial markets.

ROKS SEIZE 9 JAPANESE SHIPS ON WATERS INSIDE 'RHEE LINE'

SEOUL, Sept. 29 (AP)—The South Korean Defense Ministry said today its navy seized nine Japanese ships Saturday and Sunday inside the "Rhee line" around South Korea.

In all, the South Korean navy seized 18 Japanese ships last week.

South Korea proclaimed the "Rhee line" about 60 miles off the coast. Japan has refused to recognize it, saying international custom restricts territorial waters to three miles from shore. The area contains some of the richest fishing grounds in the Far East.

Hitler's Secret Conversations

ONE of the most significant documents of recent history, HITLER'S SECRET CONVERSATIONS records the private, off-the-record, informal conversations of a man who almost remade the world.

This is Hitler talking unguardedly about his enemies, his friends, his ambitions, his failures, his secret dreams—as he relaxed with his intimate associates after the rigors of each day were over. It was his letting-down period with trusted personnel. The conversations go back to the summer of 1941 when Hitler's deputy, Martin Bormann, persuaded der Fuehrer to let his talks be taken down by a discreet team of shorthand writers.

Hitler intended to use these notes as source material for the books he planned to write. Instead, they have come to us now, indisputably authentic, in their raw, fascinating, untouched form, to reveal the mind of a maniacal political genius.

Hitler Speaking . . .

"For the good of the German people, we must wish for a war every 15 or 20 years."

"England and America will one day have a war with each other with the greatest hatred imaginable . . ."

"No organized Russian state must be allowed to exist west of the Urals. They are brutes."

"... the finest day of my life will be that on which I leave politics behind, with its griefs and torments"

THIS HISTORIC DOCUMENT STARTS NEXT SUNDAY IN THE ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

HENRY SUYDAM RETURNING
AS DULLES PRESS OFFICER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Henry Suydam, chief editorial writer of the New York Times, is scheduled to become press officer of the State Department this week—returning to a position he first held about 30 years ago.

Suydam, 62 years old, is a former Washington and foreign correspondent. He was reported chosen by Assistant Secretary of State Carl W. McCordle with the approval of Secretary John Foster Dulles. McCordle is in charge of public affairs for the department.

Suydam, scheduled to start on his new job Thursday, will succeed Michael J. McDermott, who worked under Suydam at the beginning of his State Department career. McDermott headed the press section until his appointment by President Eisenhower last spring as ambassador to San Salvador.

FUND SHORTAGE FORCES U.N. CUT IN TECHNICAL AID

U.S. Has Paid Only Two Thirds of $12,767,000 Pledge for Operation This Year.

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Sept. 29.—A cut of $1,800,000 in the United Nations expanded program of technical assistance, caused by doubts about the payment of pledged contributions from governments, notably the United States, was announced yesterday by David Owen, executive chairman of the Technical Assistance Board.

Now in its fourth year, the expanded program had expected to spend $25,300,000 in 1953, giving technical aid to underdeveloped nations, Owen said. "Considerable doubt arose during the summer concerning the probable payment of some contributions, including a significant proportion of that pledged by the largest contributor to the program," he told a meeting of the economic committee.

In a press conference before the meeting, Owen said that the largest contributor is the United States, which has pledged $12,767,000 to the program and so far has paid $8,171,000. The next largest contributors are Britain, $1,400,000; France, $1,207,000 and Canada, $800,000—all of whom have paid in full, he said.

The program, which is generally regarded as one of the U.N.'s most concrete achievements, has sent more than 1800 experts from 65 nations into the field to take on such varied tasks as teaching Liberians to fish with nets instead of lines, develop a vaccine for cattle disease in Burma, dam water in Israel, and establish clinics, laboratories and training centers where they are needed.

As part of the cut-back, Owen has stopped hiring any new experts or purchasing equipment which must be paid for in convertible currencies. He has called for a reduction of 20 per cent in headquarters' expenses next year.

Point IV Not to Be Submerged in Foreign Aid, Johnston Says.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Eric Johnston, chairman of the International Development Advisory Board, said yesterday after the new board's first meeting that "we are convinced that technical assistance will not be submerged in the over-all foreign aid program."

There had been reports, based on the merging of Point IV technical assistance into the new Foreign Operations Administration, that the Eisenhower Administration was playing down technical assistance. Johnston told a press conference the reports are unfounded.

Johnston's group is to draw up recommendations on how the program should operate. Johnston said the board will study three phases of the operation and make recommendations late this year.

The study phases are: 1. The place of technical assistance in the over-all foreign aid program. 2. Whether the program should be "unilateral" (a United States program only) or "multilateral" (carried out by United Nations agencies using American and other contributions). At present there is a little of both. 3. How private agencies can fit into the program. Foreign Aid Administrator Harold Stassen has said he wants to give them a greater role, but Johnston said that this does not "in any way minimize technical assistance or the Government's role in it."

RUSSIAN GUIDED MISSILES TERMED THREAT TO U.S.

BUEHLERHOEHE, Germany, Sept. 29 (AP)—Prof. Ernst Heinkel, who built bombers for Hitler, said today Russia's guided missile program poses a threat to America.

Heinkel said in an interview here that he believes that the Russians, using the former Baltic German rocket research base at Peenemuende, had forged ahead with a guided missiles project.

With the help of German scientists and rocket experts, he said the program has no doubt reached a stage where guided missiles could be launched against the United States from platforms in Russia or Siberia.

In Heinkel's opinion, the Soviet aircraft industry has already attained parity with the United States in quality, and gone ahead in quantity.

"Some of my best former aircraft construction men and experts are working for the Russians and the industry is constantly going onward and upward," he said.

MACHINISTS' STRIKE HALTS PRODUCTION AT ROPE FIRM

Production at the A. Leschen & Sons Rope Co., 5909 Kennerly avenue, was halted today by a strike of 135 members of District 9, International Association of Machinists, after the company had refused to meet union demands for a wage increase of 30 cents an hour.

The company, which makes wire rope, had offered the union a pay rise of 4 cents an hour. The machinists' contract expired July 4.

Present wage scale of the union ranges from $1.30 an hour to $2.00.

SOME ATOM PLANT STRIKERS RETURN; PICKETS AT JOPPA

PADUCAH, Ky., Sept. 29 (AP)—Some ironworkers reported for duty yesterday at the nearby atomic energy plant and Shawnee steam plant, but others kept their picket line at the Joppa (Ill.) steam project.

Ten other unions at Joppa also stayed away, despite an order last week from their officers to ignore the line and return to work.

The ironworkers at the atomic plant were ordered back by William Sanders, business agent for Local 595, after the contractor, F. H. McGraw & Co., told him it must have ironworkers or be forced to halt operations.

The AFL Paducah Building and Construction Trades Council, meantime, backed the Ironworkers International in its dispute with Local 595.

$58,000,000 IN ECONOMIC AID LOANS MADE TO BRAZIL

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP)—Loans of $58,000,000 to Brazil to speed that country's economic development have been made, it was announced yesterday by Jose Maciel Filho, executive director of the Brazilian National Economic Development Bank. He said the loans include $40,000,000 from the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development and $18,000,000 from the United States Export-Import Bank.

Maciel said at a press conference that Brazil expects to complete payment by the end of the year of its $470,000,000 commercial backlog owed to United States exporters and has scheduled for early next year the final $5,500,000 payment of a $75,000,000 wartime lend-lease account.

DO MANAGERS WIN PENNANTS?
by CHUCK DRESSEN
Manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers

No. Managers don't win pennants. That's for sure. The ball players win the pennants.

All a manager does is make decisions. It's the ball players that make a manager look good by coming through with the right hit... the right pitch... or the right play. Give a manager clutch hitters he can count on, pitchers he can turn to, and he'll look like a wizard. Blow a tough one, though, and he looks like a bonehead.

Managers are second-guessed on decisions more than anyone I know (except maybe umpires). But that's only natural. So many of the things we do are based on "hunch" or personal opinion.

The same thing goes for picking a cigarette. It's strictly a matter of taste. I happen to smoke Lucky Strike because, to me, this smoke tastes better. There's no doubt about it.

Mind you, my business is baseball not cigarettes. Fact is, I don't smoke a lot. But I always light up after a game, and all I can say is—I like a mild smoke with plenty of taste. And Luckies fill the bill.

Good reason

There's a very good reason why so many, many smokers find Luckies fill the bill. In fact, Chuck Dressen mentioned it: they taste better.

Luckies taste better to millions, and two important facts explain why. First, they're made of fine tobacco. L.S.M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Second, they're made better to taste better—always round, firm and fully packed for smooth, easy smoking.

It's true that smoking enjoyment is all a matter of taste. And the fact of the matter is—Luckies taste better. So, Be Happy-Go Lucky! Pick up a carton or a pack, and see for yourself.

Remember, Luckies are made by The American Tobacco Company, America's leading manufacturer of cigarettes.

THE FINE CAR

at half the fine car price

Duplicating America's costliest cars, feature after feature, Ford is worth more when you buy it . . . worth more when you sell it!

A FEW MINUTES on the telephone calling the dealers who sell America's finest cars will reveal there are at least eleven models among four makes with price tags over $4,000! In fact, dealers in one make will take an order for a beauty costing $7,000.

Now the interesting thing is that in feature after feature the Ford car duplicates each one of these fine cars, and for less than half the fine car price!

To be specific:

If you will look under the hood of the most expensive cars—even the one for $7,000—what do you find?

A V-8 Engine!

Well, the Ford car has a V-8, too. In fact, it has had V-8 power since 1932, and since that time Ford has built more V-8's—by millions—than all other manufacturers combined. And there's no other builder in Ford's price range that's seen fit to offer one yet!

Another point—though Ford's Strato-Star V-8 turns out a tidy 110 horsepower, it's not the number alone that counts. It's the kind of power you get out of the engine—through the transmission—that tells the story. And, what you get out of the Ford V-8 with any of the three transmission options we offer—Fordomatic, Overdrive and Conventional—is written in letters of "go" wherever there is a road.

But the engine, as fine as it is, is only one of many things that make a fine car fine.

There are the controls, the comfort refinements—all the things that make a car more than a piece of machinery—rather a part of you!

Automatic shifting, for example. All the fine cars offer it in one form or another because it's one of the things that make a fine car fine. But if you've never driven a Ford with Fordomatic you've missed one of the finer things of life. This amazing transmission not only does away with clutching and shifting forever—it gives you exactly the amount of power you want, when you want it—automatically. And, without delay. Some so-called automatics still require a clutch pedal and take their own sweet time to get you going. Not so with Fordomatic. In train with either the V-8 or Six, Fordomatic says "yes" when you say "go."

Fine car power steering, too. The big, heavy costly cars offer it for the same reason they offer power brakes. It's a man-sized job for a 120 pound woman to handle a car weighing two tons or more without it—especially when parking. Our "Master-Guide" power steering has two distinct benefits.

First, it gives a hydraulic power assist right down at the wheels and just enough to take out the work. You don't relinquish one particle of control—rather your control is more complete and far easier.

Second, being hydraulic, "Master-Guide" power steering absorbs those fatiguing steering wheel tremors caused by ruts and roads in bad repair. Incidentally, this is a great safety advantage, because the car is so much easier to control in the case of a tire blow-out or hitting a soft shoulder unexpectedly. And road wander due to a cross wind is something you can forget about. And you don't pay a fine car price for "Master-Guide."

But there is another fine car feature—the Ford ride. Books have been written on the subject of riding quality in an automobile, but the payoff comes on the pavement—or lack of it! Many people associate a comfortable ride with excess weight, but it's not weight alone that makes for comfort. If it were, those big five-ton trucks which you see every day would be the most comfortable vehicles on the road.

Without being technical we can tell you that what's been done with the suspension and springing system gives the Ford a softer ride, a smoother ride than many cars which tip the scales at better than an added half ton. What's more, Ford engineers have found out how to cut front end road shock up to 80%—something many of the others haven't! Even roads you'd avoid entirely in many cars become not just passable—but passable in comfort. And, when you round a curve, you do it on the level—one of the advantages of another fine car feature—Ford's wide front tread.

And speaking of ride, we'd also like to point out that all seats—front and rear—in a Ford are cushioned in foam rubber, and at no extra cost.

What about room? Here's an interesting point. If you've felt that only a costly car offered enough room, you just ought to sit down in a Ford even if you're out-size and six feet four! The so-called big car is bigger on the outside, to be sure, but unless you buy a limousine with those little jump seats, it's not one passenger bigger inside.

Every standard Ford model carries six—with the exception of the Business Coupe, and of course, the Country Sedan and Country Squire which carry eight—with ease. And, as for "baggage room"—Ford trunk compartments measure better than 26 cubic feet. That's a full suitcase larger than most cars on the road today!

Visibility is another fine car Ford feature. We say Ford cars offer "full-circle" visibility because they all have huge, curved one-piece windshields and a huge rear window to match . . . plus side windows that mean every passenger gets room with a view! You will enjoy the extra safety of full-circle visibility every mile you drive—the absence of "blind spots" made possible by the large glass areas and narrower corner posts.

How beautiful is a Ford? A great English poet, John Keats, once wrote "Beauty is Truth, Truth Beauty"—well, he could have been writing about our car for its beauty comes from honest, clean lines in every dimension. In fact, we think most people agree—even our competitors—that the appearance of a Ford Car leaves very little to be desired. It is "at home" wherever it goes and it goes everywhere.

So there you have it—the features and reasons that make a fine car fine as far as control, good looks and comfort are concerned.

But what about Ford quality? Does it too match the fine car? Is the sheet metal of the body panels as thick? Is the finish as good? How about the trim and things like that? Well, as far as we can determine, the sheet metal is identical in thickness in practically all instances. As to finish—we believe Ford's baked-on enamel has no equal in any car. Ford upholstery fabrics and trim are less costly, to be sure, but they're less delicate, too, and if anything, more durable.

How then is it possible to give you this fine car at half the fine car price?

Part of the answer lies in Ford manufacturing skills and knowledge as evidenced by the V-8 engine. Part of it comes from the ever increasing numbers of cars Ford produces and the economies they make possible. And, part of it comes from Ford's willingness to give greater values than might be expected in cars selling in Ford's price range. That's the Ford idea.

Summing up. All these things add up to a fact that a prudent man cannot overlook. Ford Cars are not only worth more when you buy—but also worth more when you sell, as proved by the prices Ford used cars bring in the used car markets throughout the country.

No wonder Ford is proving to be America's finest fine-car buy!

Worth more when you sell it!

POLES RAIDED PRIMATE'S HOME, VATICAN REPORTS

Night-Long Search Preceded Cardinal Wyszyński's Arrest, Newspaper Says.

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano reported today that Cardinal Stefan Wyszyński was arrested by Communist police in Poland last week after a night-long search of his residence in Warsaw.

The paper's report said armed Red police raided the archiepiscopal building on the night of Sept. 25 and forced all persons found there to face the wall while the search went on.

Dispatches from Warsaw today said the cardinal had been barred from his church offices as Roman Catholic primate of Poland and confined to a monastery at the request of the Polish episcopate.

L'Osservatore Romano said following the search the cardinal was arrested in the morning and "taken to an unknown place."

News of the Polish action against the cardinal was brought to Pope Pius XII last night at his summer palace at Castel Gandolfo outside Rome.

Vatican sources said the Pope, saddened by the news, may speak out publicly or make his feelings known through a letter to the church's hierarchy.

The Vatican paper said Cardinal Wyszyński sealed his fate when he spoke out against the trial and sentencing of the Most Rev. Czesław Kaczmarek, bishop of Kielec, and three priests by a military court in Warsaw on charges of spying for the United States and the Vatican. The bishop was sentenced to 12 years and the others from 6 to 10.

L'Osservatore said the cardinal's last public words, spoken Sept. 25 at Warsaw's St. Anne University Church, were: "Today one speaks of criminals, but history tomorrow may speak of saints."

Observers here expect the church to excommunicate all Catholics who had any part in banishing the cardinal.

ST. LOUIS C. OF C. OFFICIAL AT OZARK AIR LINES HEARING

Representatives of midwestern cities, including an official of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, continued testimony today at a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing on the application of Ozark Airlines for renewal of its operating certificate.

Carl Glessow, director of the transportation bureau of the chamber, testifying as to the portion of the airlines application seeking permission to furnish service between St. Louis and Owensboro, Ky., said St. Louis is interested solely in the best possible service over the route. Eastern Airlines currently provides service between the two points.

Dean Elmer Ellis of the University of Missouri School of Arts and Sciences, told Examiner James S. Keith that better air service was needed for students at Columbia and for the 17,000 incoming travelers annually exclusive of students. Glenn Kelly, head of a printing firm, said bus and rail transportation into Columbia was unsatisfactory.

Ozark, a feeder line with headquarters here, now serves 36 cities and has requests for service from 21 other communities. The hearing, at the Chamber of Commerce Building, will close here this week and be resumed later in Washington.

SENATORS SEEK NEW CURBS FOR RED-DOMINATED UNIONS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Staff investigators for Senators looking for new curbs to place on alleged Communist-dominated labor unions have quietly begun gathering information in eastern industrial cities.

Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, New York and Baltimore were reported today to be among the cities where agents of a Senate internal security subcommittee task force already have been making inquiries or soon will be.

The Senate unit, headed by Senator John M. Butler (Rep., Maryland), may hold public hearings in these cities, as well as in Washington, beginning early in November. The primary purpose of the hearings is to develop legislation providing a more effective curb on Red-run unions than the non-Communist oath required of union officers by the Taft-Hartley labor act.

AUSTRALIA'S MENZIES URGES WIDE TRADE OF ATOM DATA

CANBERRA, Australia, Sept. 29 (AP)—Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies today urged the fullest possible interchange of nuclear information between the United States, Britain and Australia. But he said present United States laws would have to be amended before it can be done.

Menzies, addressing a news conference on the eve of coming British atomic tests at Australia's Woomera rocket range, said failure of the three allies to exchange their knowledge was causing duplication of effort and lost time and money.

"Since we are all in the same boat," he declared, "the fullest possible exchange is indicated."

Yugoslav Haven for Romanian. BELGRADE, Sept. 29 (UP)—Yugoslavia has granted political asylum to a Romanian air force lieutenant who made a forced landing near Belgrade two months ago in a Soviet-built Yak plane. The Romanian was identified as Lt. Mihaj Daikanu.

MILITARY TO SEEK BOOST IN 'FRINGE' BENEFITS FOR MEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—The armed services will ask Congress to guarantee to service men such "fringe" benefits as well-stocked commissaries and post exchanges and family medical care, Secretary of the Air Force Talbott said today.

Under pressure from merchants and medical groups, who said the military was offering unfair competition, these facilities have been reduced in scale in recent years.

Talbott said the Army, Navy and Air Force, working together, will try to convince Congress such facilities plus good housing will spur re-enlistments and save the Government money.

"If the Air Force could spend $100,000,000 for these so-called fringe benefits we could save up to $250,000,000 a year," Talbott said.

He explained that the Air Force spends $14,000 to train an airman but loses annually 180,000 men who fail to re-enlist, largely because shearing away of extra benefits has made a military career less attractive.

Talbott said the over-all re-enlistment rate had declined from 53 to 21 per cent in recent years. On Moroccan bases, the rate is zero, he said, and on Okinawa it is 40 per cent but is high in Honolulu.

The Air Secretary declared it was unfair to deprive military housing shortages forced them men of the right to buy gasoline to live many miles from their from their post exchanges when bases.

Cadillac

Special Favorite of the Ladies!

When a Cadillac comes into the service of a family that has never owned one before, it is—quite naturally—a source of great happiness to the entire family group.

But we have noticed, through the years, that the car is a very special favorite with the ladies. For, most assuredly, a Cadillac does some very wonderful and extraordinary things for a lady.

First of all, she looks her loveliest when she is seated behind its wheel. Every time she takes to the highway, she finds herself the focal point in a gorgeous picture.

And she feels as wonderful as she looks. The car's deep, luxurious cushions cradle her in magnificent comfort throughout the longest journey. The great responsiveness of the quiet, powerful engine gives her a marvelous sense of command. The car steers and brakes and drives with such miraculous ease that she actually rests and relaxes as she rides.

Of course, there are a great many other satisfactions which a lady finds in a new Cadillac car.

There is, for instance, her delight at seeing her family surrounded with every comfort and safeguard known to the science of motor car design. And there is the deep and rewarding sense of fulfillment which comes with ownership of such a prized and sought-after possession. Even parked in her driveway, the car is a tribute to her good taste and judgment... and a wonderful complement to the beauty and graciousness of her home.

To any gentleman reading this advertisement—we would like to make a suggestion: Some day soon—when the sky is bright and the time is right—ask your lady if she wouldn't like to take a ride in a 1953 Cadillac.

We think we know what the answer will be—and we'll be happy to see you, indeed.

Millions of Women Flock to Helene Curtis SPRAY NET; Call it "Greatest Hair-Beauty Aid"

"Simply Marvelous the Way It Keeps Hair Softly In Place," says June Allyson, co-starring in "The Glenn Miller Story" (in color by Technicolor) for Universal-International, in speaking of the new hair-beauty creation called Helene Curtis SPRAY NET. For this magic mist takes only an instant to give hair day-long smoothness.

Simply press the container button and Helene Curtis SPRAY NET keeps your hair the way you set it—softly, naturally, invisibly—without any artificial look. SPRAY NET is utterly unlike old-fashioned lacquers and greasy creams—so different that it has been called "the greatest hair-beauty discovery since the permanent wave."

No More Straggly Hair-dos—No More Untidy Wisps. No longer need any woman face the problem of "bedraggled hair"—even on busiest days. Career girls and homemakers can now arrange their hair in the morning—SPRAY NET it—and rest secure in the knowledge that their hair will remain perfectly in place all day. This is important. For every professional woman knows that a dowdy appearance caused by poorly-groomed hair can hurt a business career immeasurably in this highly beauty-conscious age.

Quick "Emergency Hair-dos" Now Possible. When an unexpected invitation catches a woman with her hair badly in need of setting, she can put her hair up in pin curls, SPRAY NET it and let it dry. Then remove curlers—presto—her hair can be beautifully groomed for any occasion.

That Romantic, Smoother Look lasts all evening. Before she leaves for her date, she simply arranges her hair—then touches her finger to the SPRAY NET container... all evening long her hair looks smooth, silky, caressable.

Won't Dry Hair—Adds Silkiness—Contains Spray-On Lanolin Lotion. When SPRAY NET was first announced, some women wondered if it might not dry hair like other preparations they had used. Nothing could be farther from the truth. For Helene Curtis SPRAY NET contains Spray-on Lanolin Lotion—new and exclusive discovery, that actually "beauty-treats" the hair every flattering hour you wear it—imparts a lovely, silky sheen and softness. This means that Helene Curtis SPRAY NET holds hair in place all day the SOFT, SUPPLE way.

Enrico Caruso, Noted N. Y. Hair Stylist, says, "SPRAY NET holds any hair-do perfectly in place—a positive boon to women who wear the new casual styles—and for difficult styles that can become easily disarranged." But with SPRAY NET, any woman can wear the hair style that really flatters her most and keep it looking perfectly groomed at all times with Helene Curtis SPRAY NET.

Solves every Hair-Do problem

Complete Hair Control Wherever You Need It! Nearly every woman has some troublesome place where her curls just won't "stay put." Helene Curtis SPRAY NET gives instant, invisible control for these hair-grooming problems. Helps produce a smoother crown, keeps upswept side and end curls smoothly in place. No more constant primping—no more "mirror-worry."

Created by America's Foremost Name in Hair-Beauty

Ask For Helene Curtis SPRAY NET at your favorite drug store, cosmetic counter or beauty salon today. But make sure that you get the genuine article. Avoid inferior imitations. Remember that only Helene Curtis SPRAY NET keeps hair so softly in place and contains exclusive Spray-on Lanolin Lotion. Get Helene Curtis SPRAY NET today—in the pastel green Aerosol container. White House Ceremony Ends Informally

Former President HERBERT HOOVER has a word with PRESIDENT EISENHOWER and SENATOR HOMER FERGUSON of Michigan steps forward to shake hands with ASSOCIATE JUSTICE HAROLD H. BURTON (right) of the Supreme Court at end of swearing-in ceremony for members of new Hoover Government Reorganization Commission at White House today. Joining in small talk is ROBERT G. STOREY (second from left), dean of the Southern Methodist University law school.

HOOVER BOARD SWORN IN, NINE BRANCHES PLANNED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover was authorized by the new Government Reorganization Commission today to set up nine "task forces" to look into ways to increase efficiency of the government machine.

Hoover was formally named chairman of the new 12-member commission at an organization meeting at the White House after members were sworn in by President Eisenhower's office. The group has specific authorization to propose actual abolition of particular government activities if it decides that is advisable.

Hoover emphasized that one of the main tasks of the new commission will be to study the large number of independent agencies with a view to cutting down the number by consolidation or putting them in other departments.

Hoover was authorized to set up task forces on civil service, accounting, budgeting, independent agencies, water and power resources, medical services, lending agencies, subsistence services and surplus property use and disposal.

400 WILL BE LAID OFF AT FAIRMONT CITY PLANT

Two hundred employees of the Fairmont City plant of the American Zinc, Lead and Smelting Co., will be laid off this week and 200 additional will be dropped by Nov. 1, due to the shutdown of the company's slab zinc operation. Three hundred other employees will continue working in the sulphuric acid and zinc carbonate departments.

A company spokesman attributed the shutdown, representing curtailment of 25 per cent of American Zinc's prime western slab production, to high production costs, drastic price reduction and "excessive entry of foreign zinc." Despite a record consumption, the United States market is unable to absorb both the domestic and foreign product, the company stated.

The base price of prime western metal, now 10 cents a pound, is 48 per cent below the price eight to 10 months ago.

RADIO 'HAMS' TO TAKE PART IN EMERGENCY TEST SUNDAY

St. Louis radio "hams" will participate Sunday in a nationwide emergency test sponsored by the American Radio Relay League.

Using the St. Louis civil defense headquarters in Forest Park as their center of operations, about 25 amateur operators, with 20 two-way sets in automobiles, will set up a communications network. In addition to transmitting local messages the operators also will make contact with Jefferson City and Washington.

Purpose of the test will be to gain experience in use of equipment for major emergencies such as atomic attacks, tornadoes, floods and fires. Operations here will be under direction of Allen L. Furline, local co-ordinator for the radio relay league.

A.T. BARNES TO BE DIRECTOR OF GRANITE CITY RETAILERS

Appointment of Alvin T. Barnes as director of the Granite City Associated Retailers was announced yesterday.

Barnes, press relations officer of the Greater St. Louis Community Chest, will assume his new post Nov. 1. He succeeds William J. Bryan as director of the retailers' group. Bryan resigned to go into business.

A former member of the St. Louis Star-Times sports staff, Barnes lives in Collinsville.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER FUEL REHEARING IS UNDER WAY

A rehearing on Mississippi River Fuel Corporation's application for authority to supply natural gas to Union Electric Co. boilers at its new Meramec river plant opened yesterday before the Federal Power Commission at Washington.

The commission rejected the application last May 11, but granted a rehearing on the company's assertion that additional facts had been developed since the original hearing. Testimony yesterday dealt with gas costs and supplies.

SUIT FILED TO TEST NEW MENTAL LAW

State Division of Public Welfare Seeks Circuit Court Ruling.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 29—Suits to test the validity of a new state law governing admission of mental patients to state hospitals, particularly as to any duties it may impose on the state division of public welfare, was filed yesterday afternoon in Cole County Circuit Court here.

The division, headed by Director Proctor N. Carter, requested a declaratory judgment by the court holding the act to be unconstitutional or to define the rights and duties of the welfare department in connection with such admissions to the hospitals. The petition takes issue with a recent ruling by the attorney general's department relating to the duty of the county welfare department in each county concerning temporary custody, care and transportation of a person waiting admission to a hospital. The ruling held that such duties were to be performed by the branch offices of the division of public welfare in each county.

This opinion was erroneous, the petition asserted. The circuit court was asked to rule that the law did not apply to the division's county offices.

The division of public welfare recently requested attorney General John M. Dalton to pass on constitutionality of the act, which simplifies procedure for admission to mental hospitals and permits voluntary admission of persons without a court proceeding to declare the applicant insane. Dalton did not pass on the question. Taking the position his department later might have to defend the law's validity in court.

CZECHS TO LOWER PRICES ON GOODS FOR CONSUMERS

VIENNA, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Czechoslovak government has announced a nation-wide price reduction for consumer goods.

Radio Prague said yesterday the measure, "to improve the living standard of the country's population," involves more than 23,000 different items. It said the price reductions—ranging from 5 to 40 per cent—will become effective Oct. 1.

Bread and flour will be reduced by 10 per cent, sugar by 14 per cent, tobacco and tobacco products by 11 to 25 per cent, textile goods between 5 and 40 per cent, the radio said. Prices for motorcycles and automobiles will be lowered by 30 per cent, gasoline 33 per cent.

DAN McCARTY DIES; FLORIDA GOVERNOR

Succumbs at 41 After Serving Less Than Nine Months.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Sept. 29 (AP)—Gov. Dan McCarty died last night of heart disease and pneumonia in Tallahassee Memorial Hospital. He was 41 years old.

His duties passed to Senate President Charles E. Johns, 48-year-old insurance executive, who came to Tallahassee from his home at Starke to take over until a Governor is elected in November 1954 to serve the last two years of McCarty's four-year term. The new Governor will take office in January 1955.

McCarty, a Fort Pierce cattleman and citrus grower, became Governor in January and served less than nine months. McCarty was taken to the hospital a week ago today after a severe cold he contracted the weekend of Sept. 12 developed into pneumonia. He had suffered a heart attack Feb. 25.

One of his three physicians said he held hope for McCarty's recovery until the very end but his weakened heart simply collapsed under the strain. McCarty apparently whirled the pneumonia but the doctor said "there just wasn't enough" strength to sustain life. A heart specialist was flown here yesterday from New Orleans.

McCarty's 12-year-old son, Dan III, was taken from school to be at the bedside yesterday. Two other children, Mike, 7, and Frances Lela, 5, also survive in addition to their mother, the former Ollie Brown.

McCarty was born at Fort Pierce and was a graduate of the University of Florida. He was a colonel in World War II after serving as speaker of the Florida House in 1941 at the age of 28.

His body is lying in state today in the rotunda of the capitol. Funeral services will be later in Fort Pierce.

JAPANESE EASE THEIR EMBARGO ON RED CHINA TRADE

TOKYO, Sept. 29 (AP)—Japan eased its embargo on trade with Red China again today, adding six more types of goods that Japanese merchants may sell to Communists.

Among the items taken from the contraband list with United States approval are small motor vehicles, Kyodo news service said.

Kyodo predicted that trade between Japan and Red China will increase considerably. The Communists have inquired about purchasing motor scooters, three-wheel trucks, small automobiles, photographic supplies, rubber tape, Manila rope and grinding wheels—all of which were removed from the embargo list today.

The Ministry of International Trade and Industry said goods exported to Red China on a barter basis between January and July this year totaled $3,219,000 and goods imported from Red China by barter aggregated $3,200,000.

578 UNDESIRABLES DEPORTED THIS YEAR

Marked Increase in Exclusion of Subversives and Racketeers Since Jan. 1.

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—The Justice Department so far this year has deported 578 aliens in the criminal, immoral, narcotic and subversive categories, Deputy Attorney General William P. Rogers, announced today.

Talking to the annual conference here of the district directors of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, Rogers said the "relatively few undesirables" in the nation must be eliminated "with every legal and proper means at our disposal."

In addition, said Rogers, the Department is making "great strides" toward the denaturalization and deportation of the more notorious racketeers and subversives. In this group of naturalized "undesirables," he said, are 142 subversives and 131 racketeers, a total of 273. Of these, three have been deported, 50 ordered deported, 34 are undergoing denaturalization proceedings brought by the Government in the Federal courts and the rest are in various stages of investigation or litigation.

This shows a marked increase in activity by the Government since the start of the year, he pointed out. At that time, only 19 "undesirables" had been ordered deported and only 15 were undergoing denaturalization proceedings in court.

Rogers, former chief counsel of the Senate Permanent Investigating Committee, emphasized that the overwhelming majority of immigrants are persons of good character who contribute much to the cultural, spiritual and material development of the nation. But there are a few, he said, who disregard the nation's laws and defile the principles which have made this country a haven for freedom-loving people since colonial days.

As to the number of aliens deported, Rogers said: "We can well be proud of these figures and the number which will follow in the ensuing months, but only in the sense that they reflect the efficient and successful accomplishment of an unpleasant task. We, of course, wish that all our immigrants were of the high caliber of the vast majority so that deportation would be unnecessary."

EAST'S DEMOCRATS TO MEET IN PHILADELPHIA IN DECEMBER

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29 (AP)—Eastern Democratic leaders will gather here in mid-December for a $100-a-plate, fund-raising dinner and a two-day conference to make plans for the 1954 congressional and gubernatorial races. Adlai E. Stevenson, Democratic presidential candidate last year, will speak at the dinner which winds up the conference on Dec. 15.

Democratic National Chairman Stephen E. Mitchell arrived here yesterday to discuss plans for the meeting with local party leaders. He said the conference agenda would include discussion of economic security, labor policy, social security, consumers' prices and the cost of living, taxation, small business monopolies and national defense.

Leaders from 13 states and the District of Columbia will attend the conference.

DR. EDWIN P. HUBBLE DIES; WIDELY-KNOWN ASTRONOMER

SAN MARINO, Calif., Sept. 29 (AP)—Dr. Edwin P. Hubble, one of the nation's foremost astronomers, died yesterday from a stroke suffered at his home. He was 63 years old.

He was on the staffs of the observatories on Mount Wilson and Palomar mountain. He joined the Mount Wilson Observatory in 1919.

Under Dr. Hubble's direction, the heavens were charted anew after the 100-inch telescope was put into operation on Mount Wilson in 1917 and the 200-inch telescope, the world's largest, began scanning the skies in 1948 from the top of Palomar mountain.

During World War II, he served as chief ballistics officer for Army Ordnance from 1942 to 1945 at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md. He was born at Marshfield, Mo.

NORTH KOREA'S KIM IL SUNG RETURNS FROM MOSCOW

TOKYO, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Pyongyang radio said tonight North Korea's Premier Kim Il Sung returned to Pyongyang by train today from the Soviet Union. The Red broadcast was monitored here by Radio Press Agency.

The North Korean delegation led by Kim left Moscow Sept. 25 after a two-week stay in the Russian capital.

During his stay in Moscow, Kim negotiated a pact for $250,000,000 in aid for war-devastated North Korea.

WAR CLAIMS BOARD ASKED TO RESIGN

Members All Democrats—Chairman Says He Won't Quit, Charges Politics.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—The resignation of all members of the War Claims Commission has been requested by the White House, it was disclosed yesterday.

Chairman Daniel Cleary told reporters he would refuse to submit his resignation and said:

"I don't think the others will, either." All are Democratic appointees.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, confirmed that a request had been sent the three commissioners to resign. Hagerty declined to comment on the reason for the action.

The commission, created to handle claims arising out of World War II, comprises Cleary, Myron Wiener and Mrs. Georgia L. Lusk, former Congresswoman from New Mexico.

Questioned by reporters, Cleary said he considered the White House action "purely political" and that "the only reason I can think of is patronage."

Cleary said the ground for his refusal to resign was the law governing the terms of office of members of the commission, an independent and quasi-judicial agency.

He said the law states that terms of the commissioners expire on the date for concluding the affairs of the commission itself. That date, he said, is not until March 1955.

BRITISH ACCUSED OF TERROR RULE OF ARABIAN OASIS

LONDON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Saudi Arabia accused Britain last night of terror rule around the oasis of Bureim where quarrelling sheikhs and sultans think they can smell oil.

The Saudi Arabian Embassy

claimed in a statement that British-led Arab troops have "killed the innocent, used force and barbaric methods, robbing women, breaking into houses, beating men and confiscating goods" to build up tension and win control of the disputed region.

British officials denied the charges, but acknowledged that desert warriors under British command had besieged one of King Ibn Saud's emirs, Turki Bin Utalshan, who has set himself up in an oasis village. The little war on the blazing, undefined frontier area between Saudi Arabia and Oman has been flaring up on and off for the past year. The Sheikh of Oman and the Sultan of Muscat dispute Ibn Saud's claims to the ownership of Bureim.

M'CARTHY SCENTS HOAX IN REPORTS OF BERIA'S ESCAPE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—The reported escape of Lavrenty Beria, deposed head of the Soviet secret police, "begins to appear like a hoax" to Senator McCarthy (Rep., Wisconsin). McCarthy said yesterday he expects the Spanish Government will release a statement on the matter shortly. He emphasized "I am not convinced one way or the other, but it looks more and more as if it is not Beria."

Previously a source identified with McCarthy's Senate Investigations subcommittee had described McCarthy as strongly inclined to believe the mystery man was Beria.

McCarthy's statement was his first public mention that the mystery man was in Spain. He had refused previously to say where the man was.

MAN SHOT WHEN POLICEMAN DROPS REVOLVER IN STATION

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—A policeman on his way to work yesterday dropped a paper bag containing his .32 caliber revolver on a subway station platform. The weapon went off, seriously injuring a bystander. Police said Joseph Collins, the victim, was about 20 feet behind Patrolman Harold Kearney when he dropped the bag. Collins was taken to a hospital, where his condition was reported as poor.

Patrolman Kearney was in civilian clothes and was not wearing a suit jacket. Police explained that it is normal procedure under such conditions for an officer to carry his revolver in a paper bag. This is done, according to police, so as not to frighten the public by an exposed revolver. The shooting has been declared accidental.

STORE ROBBED BY TWO MEN

Two robbers held up the Ridge Food Shop, 5710 Ridge avenue, and took $50 from the proprietor, A. M. Altman, he reported to police yesterday. Altman, 1317 Blackstone avenue, said the two men entered the store when he was alone and one flourished a pistol after ordering a pack of cigarettes. They took $25 from the cash register and $25 from him, he told police. A passerby said the pair fled in an automobile driven by a companion.

Truman Labels Old Isolationists New Imperialists and Urges U.S. To Build 'Really Strong Defense'

Asserts We Could Then Negotiate 'in Firm Agreement With Allies and From Position of United Strength'—He Receives Four Freedoms Award.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP).

FORMER PRESIDENT HARRY S. TRUMAN said last night the United States must build "a really strong defense" and, from a position of strength, show willingness to negotiate "in all sincerity" for a solution of its differences with the Soviet bloc.

Truman, urging nonpartisan support for this program, said the negotiations should be "in firm agreement with our Allies and from a position of united strength."

He urged a battle for freedoms both at home and abroad in an address at a dinner of the Four Freedoms Foundation at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. He received the foundation's fifth annual Four Freedoms award.

Fourteen hundred persons attended the dinner of the foundation, established to work for the freedoms defined by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1941. These are freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom from want and freedom from fear. An award plaque cited Truman for "inspiring leadership in the cause of the four freedoms at home and abroad and his valiant and unyielding struggle in the cause of civil rights." The plaque was presented by Dean Acheson, Truman's last Secretary of State.

Morticians of the Mind.

In calling for a fight for freedoms, Truman said: "All across our country there are people at work, stirring up suspicion of the United Nations, of our allies, of our public servants, of our fellow citizens. All across our country there are zealots clamoring for somebody's head."

He called his target "old isolationists" become "the new isolationists, the new imperialists"—and at one point, "morticians of the mind."

Truman declared there now is an "investigating frenzy" in the nation, and he said the forces behind it are also seeking an American isolationism which he contended would eventually doom the free world if put into effect. He added:

"Only the whole free community, we and our allies together, our resources and their combined, is strong enough and big enough to meet the threat to freedom and give us victory for freedom's cause."

Slap at Tax-Cut Advocates.

Truman did not name any of the people he criticized. Basically, he said, they are the "die-hard isolationists of 12 years ago"—the people who would "really important thing is to cut taxes, whether the danger is over or not."

Eisenhower's Boston Speech Was Start of Build-Up on Secretly Approved National Sales Tax.

WASHINGTON.

THERE'S been a lot of speculation as to what Eisenhower meant by the use of that ominous word "tax" when in Boston he said that "no sacrifice, no labor, no tax, no service" was too hard for us to bear in defense of our freedom.

Light may be thrown on this statement when you know that a week or 10 days ago Ike gave the green light to his fiscal aids to prepare a far-reaching national sales tax.

The details have been carefully guarded, and may be subject to change, but the present plan is to propose to Congress an unprecedented "federal manufacturers' excise tax."

Treasury experts concluded some weeks ago that such a tax was necessary but were hesitant about putting it forward in the face of certain hostility in Capitol Hill. However, Treasury aids figure if the new tax doesn't have to be collected by the retailer every time he makes a sale, it won't be quite so unpopular with the public.

The Treasury has taken as its model the Canadian sales tax which exempts food and a few other essentials, but hits almost all other consumer products. It will be collected from the manufacturer, not the retailer.

Ike was told there would be terrific resentment from some groups in Congress at the pro-

Air Force and Navy Still Haven't Agreed on A-Bomb War Targets

Continued Indecision That Plagued Gen. Bradley Disclosed by Talbott, Apparently Inadvertently, in Reply to Question.

By CHARLES CORDRY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (UP).

SIX YEARS after unification the Air Force and Navy have no agreement on which service will A-bomb what targets in event of war. Air Secretary Harold E. Talbott spilled the fact on the public record.

His disclosure, apparently inadvertent, brought out a problem that plagued retired Gen. Omar N. Bradley throughout Bradley's terms as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

In a news conference called yesterday to announce expansion of aircraft orders, a reporter fired at Talbott a question as to whether there is any agreement on assignment of war targets to the Air Force and Navy.

"No," Talbott answered. "No policy," the reporter persisted.

"No," the Air Secretary said again. He hastily added then that such would be "security information" anyway.

Bradley sought until leaving office six weeks ago to bring the two services into agreement on plans specifying which targets each would strike in event of war. That would be a vital part of the strategic plans which the Joint Chiefs are charged with preparing under the unification act.

Sources close to Bradley—Army sources who presumably have no axe to grind—said Air Force Gen. Curtis E. Lemay repeatedly has urged an agreement. Lemay runs the Strategic Air Command which would have the primary strategic bombing job under joint chiefs direction. These sources said he has sought to learn which target systems the Navy could take over with its carrier-based attack bombers.

The Navy originally took the position that it could not commit itself but recently has begun to receive airplanes with adequate range to reach targets 800 miles from carrier decks, according to these Army sources familiar with Joint Chiefs problems.

That development probably

FLEESON NATO Position Bolstered in Mediterranean

U.S. Navy Is Hard Core of Strength
At Naples Headquarters.

By DORIS FLEESON

NAPLES.

WITH the growing strength of Turkey at the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus and agreements signed with Spain for bases at the other end of the Mediterranean, the Allied command of southern Europe feels no pain.

This is the southern flank of NATO. Its job is to co-ordinate Allied land, sea and air power in the Mediterranean. It is also supposed to put enough power there to dampen any Russian temptations toward Middle East adventures.

The hard core of strength of this particular headquarters at Naples is the United States Navy. There are other commands in the area, including a British unit under Lord Mountbatten, who has his headquarters at Malta. The Italians have furnished some land forces, which are under the direction of their own generals. Air power in the area has also been expanding under the direction of Gen. David M. Schlatter.

Generally speaking, however, this is a Navy show and the Navy, in the person of the new commander here, Adm. William F. Feltner, asserts that the situation is well in hand.

Adm. Feltner was Chief of Naval Operations whose term was broken in two by President Eisenhower under pressure from Republican congressional leaders for a whole new Joint Chiefs of Staff to re-survey Truman defense planning. At first bitter, Feltner consented to come here to replace Adm. Robert B. Carney who replaced him in Washington.

He is away from the spotlight but he has plenty to do. The Naples command was started as a protective flank for SHAPE in Paris but it must always consider that the Russians may decide to forget about the traditional invasion route into western Europe and start from the Black Sea. Then it will no longer be the sidishow but the main tent.

Hence the need for incessant—and flexible—planning and practicing.

(SECOND OF A SERIES.)

LONDON, Sept. 29 (AP).

A FORTUNATE Russian, after long efforts, may get a small plot of land on which to build a home. What is the first thing he does then? He erects a fine, big fence all the way around the lot. He is out to make certain his property, such as it is, is just as private as he can make it.

Thirty-five years of Soviet socialism seem to have succeeded only in sharpening the instinct of the Russian people to hold private property. Many Muscovites dream of owning their own homes outside the city. Thousands of them live in crowded communal apartments, with only one room to call their own. They share kitchen, bath, toilet and corridors with several other families. They long for privacy; they want a piece of land they can call their own.

This is not easy to accomplish. A postwar decree guaranteed every Soviet citizen the right to own his own house and plot of land. But for most Moscow dwellers the dream of having their own house is bound to remain a dream. It costs lots of money, and government loans to home builders, though they exist, are few.

Russians Build Own Homes.

Nor is it easy to get a plot of land allotted, or even to find an organization which will contract to erect the house. A Russian often has to build his own home, or gradually put it up over a period of years as he is able to find money, materials and labor.

For four summers another correspondent and I shared a summer home in a Moscow suburb. We rented it at a high price from the Soviet organization which provides housing for foreign diplomats and correspondents.

Across the way was a building lot occupied by a colonel of the Soviet Army. We never met him, but we watched him build his house over a four-year period. First he lived in a shed. Finally, last summer, he had the ground floor far enough along so he could move into it. He is still working on it, and his efforts are a tribute to Russian patience and stubbornness in acquiring property.

I saw 60 or 80 homes go up in the four years I visited this suburb, but private home building is a drop in the bucket of Russian needs and desires. Nor is the great desire to own a house the only expression of the pride of possession. To own a car has become something of a fever despite difficulties in garaging and maintenance.

Daily Queues for Cars. Long lines of persons assemble every morning at one automobile store in Moscow, to keep their priority on the purchase of a small Pobeda or Moskvitch. They may have to report to the head of this line for two weeks, a month, even six weeks. When they reach their turn the Pobeda will cost 16,000 rubles. That is officially the equivalent of $4,000, and the actual equivalent of an average worker's gross earnings for two years. Since the terms are cash, the average worker obviously is not doing the buying.

But there is no one prouder than the Muscovite who has just got his own car!

For those who have money but no inclination toward houses or cars there are other forms of goods to acquire as private property—jewelry, furs, rare books, art works, antique rugs, furniture.

This great desire for "private property" is supposed to be a thing of the past, a vestige of capitalism. It is supposed to disappear as the nation nears its goal—"Communism."

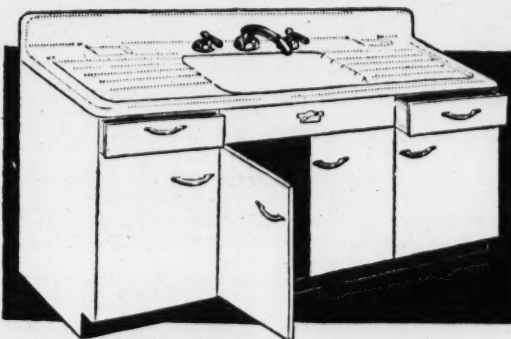

But my observation during nine years in Russia was that the urge to own private property was growing rather than disappearing. And it is my opinion that the Soviet Government if it wants to have a contented population will have to go a long way in making concessions to satisfy it.

Taxes, Prices High. It will also have to do more about the high cost of living, and taxes.

The price of every bottle of vodka is roughly 95 per cent

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

As to Labor Leaders

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Harry J. Moore of Mexico, Mo., said in a Sept. 25 letter that the word "principle" is not in the vocabulary of any labor leader, that they are all thugs, racketeers and hoodlums.

My uncle was one of these hoodlums, and a finer man never lived. He was international vice president of his union, highly respected by management and the man whom he represented. Another of the hoodlums is my father, a man of the highest principle, an honest, honorable man. My husband is a staunch unionist, too, and if Mr. Moore is half the man that any of these three are, he can hold his head up anywhere.

Mr. Moore's letter puts me in mind of another I read one time from some character who bemoaned the fact that laboring men actually were home owners, had radios and television and, horror of horrors, sent their children to college. Isn't that just simply awful? Everyone knows that such scum should not own homes, or modern conveniences. Yes sir, keep 'em ignorant and barefooted, then they won't expect much of life—that's the good old Republican creed.

RAILROADER'S WIFE.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

After reading Harry J. Moore's letter, I had to laugh. That's about all you can do over such a letter as that.

Perhaps this would help Mr. Moore. It's better to keep quiet and appear uninformed than to speak and remove all doubt.

PEGGY BONNEY.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

When Harry J. Moore classifies all union leaders as thugs, racketeers and hoodlums it seems a bit rough, but the evidence is a bit rough, too. For instance, the "stink bombs" left in theaters and business places that did not conform to labor leaders' demands and the dynamite bombs exploded outside Miss Huling's.

Just recently the cutting of cables of telephone wires left hundreds of homes unable to call a doctor in case of sudden illness, or call for help in case of fire or any other emergency, during the strike of telephone company employees.

CHARLES HARRISON.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I resent and take exception to Mr. Moore's inference that labor leaders are "thugs, racketeers and hoodlums." And as to his charge that these social pioneers are unprincipled, I in turn suggest that Mr. Moore does not know his history, ancient or otherwise.

Throughout the labor movement, union leaders have generally conducted themselves admirably in the face of adversity, persecution and personal sacrifice. Not a few gave their very lives simply because they couldn't be "bought out."

Unionism is not big business; its foremost leaders receive less in salary than executives with like responsibilities. Their wages are much in satisfaction of the heart.

Unionism, Mr. Moore, is a brotherhood. It is a dedication.

GERALD K. JOHNSON.

Keeping a Friend

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Canada and the United States have been good neighbors for a long, long time. I am happy to see that the American League did not endanger that friendship by sending Bill Vecek and his Browns up there.

A CARDINAL FAN.

Knee Deep in Tears

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I'm mopping up the living room floor which I just soaked with tears while listening to the ceremonies following the broadcast of the Cardinals' last game of the season. It was sadder than any soap opera I've ever heard.

Plaques, gifts, encomiums, testimonials, pats on the back and strong men "choking up" in the pinch. Poor Harry Caray. Poor Gus (you think these guys work for nothing?). Poor Freddie. Poor Stretch (although he is going to work during the winter). Poor Oscar. Poor network. Poor everyone connected with the broadcasts of the past nine years, (including some of us fans and especially poor GB).

Will somebody please pass one of those sterling silver Pilsener goblets so I can fill it with tears. C.M.

Economy in Government

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Could anyone enlighten me as to the purpose of Vice President Nixon's extended tour of 18 countries with an entourage of nine others including his wife? I know the main reason released to the press was that it was a good-will tour with emphasis on the Far East.

This trip will cost the taxpayers a pretty penny and I was under the impression that the present Administration was trying to economize. It would be quite interesting to know just how much it's going to cost and if the results of the trip warrant such an expenditure.

If the Administration wants any firsthand information on the conditions in foreign countries, the simplest and most intelligent thing to do would be to consult Mr. Stevenson, who is quite well-informed, having just completed a very successful good-will tour at his own expense.

MARGE MATTHEWS.

Hunt for the Best Man

Attorney General Brownell's flight to Sacramento for a secret conference with Gov. Warren naturally revives speculation that the California executive may be tendered a seat on the Supreme Court. No official is saying anything but it is obvious that a busy Cabinet member would not have flown across the country had he not had an important mission to perform.

If President Eisenhower has had Gov. Warren in mind for a high judicial post—and that has been said for months—it may well be that the White House had not expected to name him Chief Justice.

Clearly there is a substantial difference between naming an able Governor, with primarily official legal practice experience and no judicial training, to the junior seat on the court and naming him to head the court. As junior Justice he would serve as the newest member; as Chief Justice he would outrank members who have been on the court for many years—in Justice Black's case, for example, 16 years.

Yet the speculation in Washington today is that the Governor will be named Chief Justice in a day or so.

The need for judges has caused the names of two Republican Chief Justices of the Federal Courts of Appeal—John J. Parker of the Middle Atlantic circuit and Orie L. Phillips of the Rocky Mountain circuit—to enter into the speculation. Similarly Chief Justice Arthur T. Vanderbilt of New Jersey is considered as a Republican state Supreme Court judge who might be elevated to the highest federal bench.

But if the new appointee went to the junior seat, then who would be advanced from among the present eight Justices to the chief justiceship? Justice Burton is the only Republican, appointed in 1945 by Harry S. Truman. Justice Jackson's name is mentioned as a possibility for promotion to the presiding officer's chair. As Raymond P. Brandt, chief of our Washington bureau, showed in his Sunday article, there are good precedents for this. Republican President William Howard Taft elevated Democratic Justice Edward D. White and Democratic President Franklin D. Roosevelt advanced Republican Justice Harlan F. Stone.

With the Supreme Court reconvening in less than a week, there doubtless is some little pressure on the President to announce a Chief Justice within the next few days and to seat him on a recess appointment. Before Attorney General Brownell recommends that course, he should be sure that the gains outweigh the losses. Notwithstanding the need for a ninth vote to break ties, there is good reason why appointees to the chief justiceship have waited for senatorial confirmation before sitting.

This is the most important appointment so far required of President Eisenhower. Since the man in the White House has severely criticized political appointments by his predecessor he has obligated himself to put partisanship resolutely aside and to select the most qualified man he can find in all the country.

Decision at the Polls

The bond issue election will decide whether the city shall combine Alou and Memorial plazas into a single downtown park at the railroad entrance to St. Louis.

It will decide whether, with the new plaza as a "front yard," city, federal and private resources shall combine to build modern apartments for 1350 families.

It will decide whether, by taking this essential first step, St. Louis shall move boldly to arrest the decay of the central area.

It will decide whether the city takes a timely initiative to provide future construction employment which may be needed to take up slack as other construction tapers off.

It will decide whether the community shall give a stimulus to other redevelopment projects by mobilizing public and private resources behind what should become the first of many.

For all who want a St. Louis that moves forward, there can be only one decision.

The polls, where this decision is to be made, are open until 7 p.m.

Lie on the Loudspeaker

Those who recall the name of Hans Fritzsche, who died in Cologne Sunday, may remember either the unconscious humor of a Nazi propaganda broadcaster or proceedings at the Nuremberg trials. Yet Fritzsche's story is also one of the subversion of a free press and the deterioration of a man.

At one time the Berlin radio announcement, "Hans Fritzsche speaks," was respected across Europe as a token of objective news commentary. Fritzsche frequently criticized Hitler.

On the day Hitler came to power, Jan. 30, 1933, two emissaries of Propaganda Minister Goebbels called on Fritzsche and said Der Fuehrer was angry with him but would permit him to continue under "certain conditions." One was the dismissal of Jews in his office. Fritzsche rejected this but the Jewish employees quit, so he went unmolested.

Two months later, Goebbels flattered Fritzsche by giving him an important task in the Nazi Department of Propaganda and Enlightenment. Fritzsche later explained he took the job in hopes of salvaging some persons and ideas from Nazidom. One month after that he joined the Nazi party.

Even then Fritzsche sometimes choked on the propaganda, but as time, Hitler and terror advanced he choked less. By 1945 he was broadcasting vicious defamation of the Jews to cover Nazi atrocities, along with those fantastic stories of "strategic shifts" and "movements to consolidate" the broken Nazi front in the East.

Fritzsche was freed at the Nuremberg dock because he was not considered a war criminal equivalent to such as Goering or Jodl or Keitel. That, of course, was a matter of judicial opinion. For Hans Fritzsche was the big voice of Hitler's Big Lie.

Improving Social Security

The Administration's unpublished "blueprint" for extension of social security coverage could very well end up on the shelf while a proposal to liberalize the law is considered.

At present, persons who work after retirement are not entitled to social security payments in months in which they earn more than $75. The elderly regard this as an unfair restriction—as well they should—and they are applying substantial pressure to Congress to eliminate or substantially raise the ceiling which was lifted from $50 in 1952. As a result, of some 170 changes under study by a House subcommittee, no fewer than 44 deal with that problem.

Next year is an election year, and so long as the pressure from the elderly continues firm many Congressmen may find it politically profitable to work on the higher ceiling rather than to tackle the Administration's blueprint. That would be unfortunate, since both jobs need doing. An opportunity was missed when one or the other was not taken up in the 1953 session.

The Right to Privacy

The Senate will want to think twice and a third time if necessary before it votes to cite Corliss Lamont for contempt because he refused to answer questions put to him in secret at a one-man subcommittee hearing.

Mr. Lamont, who is a son of the late Thomas W. Lamont, millionaire Wall Street banker, did not invoke the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination at any time. He said in a statement that he is "a loyal American" and that he is "not now and never has been a member of the Communist party."

But beyond that Corliss Lamont would not answer—for, as a private citizen without public office, he has a right to refuse to answer questions involving his personal affairs and his writings.

Mr. Lamont's reliance was on the First Amendment—which protects freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom of the press and the right of assembly, and it may well be that he has given a new direction to the opposition to the snoopers and pryers. Here is what the witness said in his statement:

Under the rules of the Senate and the statutes organizing the appointment of this standing committee, this committee has no authority to examine into the personal and private affairs of private citizens.

Any action with regard to my books by officials of the Government was done without my prior knowledge or consultation with me.

I took no part in any proceedings involving any governmental authority and therefore this committee is without power to examine me under the rules governing it.

The private citizen does have his rights and if the Senate should vote a contempt citation against Mr. Lamont, it would undoubtedly produce a test case that would go all the way to the United States Supreme Court where demagogues fare less well than they do in Congress.

Louis Budenz, the former Communist, is the source of complaints against Mr. Lamont's loyalty. Apparently these charges have not impressed Dwight D. Eisenhower since he was for four years President of Columbia University where Mr. Lamont is lecturer in philosophy. If there is a case against him the thing to do is to take it to a grand jury and ask indictments.

Until that is done, many Americans will applaud Corliss Lamont for having, in effect, spoken up for them and their right to be secure in their thoughts and in their personal lives.

Jobs Wanted

One of the hardest problems which any President faces sooner or later is the problem of inducing men and women of extraordinary ability to enter government service. Without such people in the ranks, even the Administration abled at the top cannot do well. It is disturbing, therefore, to read the advertisement which discharged employees of the United States Information Agency inserted in The Washington Post in their search for new jobs.

Budget analysts, reports analysts, librarians, printing specialists are on the list—skilled professional people who cannot be picked up on any street, and whose skills are indispensable to government. Writers who have written for national magazines, authors of books, researchers, copy readers, reporters, teletype operators, artists, photographers, reporters.

As The Post says: "There is grave hardship in such situations. There is also an abundance of talent which should surely not be lost to the Government needlessly. It will test the Administration's resourcefulness to find ways to utilize these valuable human assets."

It is a worthy objective to limit government employment to those who are really needed. It will be another thing to relinquish talents of which government may stand in need, and to create an atmosphere of insecurity in government service.

Meeting at Margate

Unusual harmony marked the opening of the British Labor party's convention at Margate. Instead of quarrelling among themselves, the Laborites seemed more disposed to quarrel with the Conservatives who hold power, and even then in good temper.

For lack of inner contention the Labor meeting recalls the recent Democratic party rally in Chicago, which also was unusually harmonious. But the party out of power often displays more unity than when in power. The boys decide to pull together rather than throw away the rope.

Thus the Labor leadership has proposed a domestic program remarkable for its relative moderation. It puts British financial security ahead of Socialist theory. It avoids sharp criticism of foreign policy and, for that matter, of American foreign policy.

Yet if there ever was a year for vocal disagreement in Labor's ranks, this was it. American and British policies have diverged on the proper approach to Russia and Red China. McCarthyism on this side of the Atlantic has led to revolution on the other side. Anti-Americanism has grown to a point where it has caused anxious editorials in the British press.

Still, the United Press reports, the Laborites overwhelmingly voted down two proposals critical of the United States. One of these called for cut-backs in the British rearmament program. Americans will remember that it was a Labor Government which initiated this program.

Despite friction, nothing that has happened is enough to disturb the firmest alliance in the world. British policy, like American policy, is based on the premise that a strong defense will deter aggression. There it remains. The Labor meeting at Margate is a good indication of that.

Rhee Stands Alone

Syngman Rhee's latest saber-rattling is prompted by a reported American plan to neutralize and unify Korea.

The South Korean President says first that "we cannot take seriously" any such plan "so long as we have powerful aggressor nations which go unpunished." He adds that his Government has only "postponed its determination to unify Korea by military means."

Rhee's stated policy is one of force and it is preposterous. His Government lacks the military means to unify his nation, much less to punish those "powerful aggressor nations," by which he means China and even, perhaps, Russia. Moreover, the policy of force has been laid aside by the United Nations in hopes that negotiations can produce what force did not.

Syngman Rhee stands absolutely alone with his policy. His trigger-happy assertions must not be allowed to disturb the peace conference.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Emmet Hughes, who recently resigned as presidential assistant and ghost writer, was an intellectual and liberal in White House staff, says article written months before Hughes quit; he timed campaign promise to send Mr. Eisenhower to Korea.

Irwin Ross in The New York Post

Editor's note: Emmet J. Hughes, President Eisenhower's chief speech writer, has resigned to return to the staff of Life magazine. His position in the White House staff is described in the following article published in April.

Emmet J. Hughes, President Eisenhower's ghost writer, is one of the few members of the White House circle who is a full-time, practicing intellectual, with all the crotchets, doubts and subtle ambiguities that normally distinguish the breed.

But for the accident of birth (about 15 years too late) Hughes might have been a New Deal Brain Trustee.

A wiry, darkly handsome man whose receding hairline and graying temples make him look older than his 33 years, Hughes is the very image of the tweedy, pipe-smoking, soft-voiced professor.

As the White House scribe this official title is administrative assistant. Hughes is in a strategic position. His job involves more than merely announcing policy in the lumbering periods that distinguish official oratory.

The potential power of his job was evident during the presidential campaign when Hughes served as a speechwriter. The idea of the General going to Korea had been discussed many times by his intimates; but there was considerable question as to when the announcement should be made.

Thus Hughes, while not responsible for dreaming up the notion, as widely reported last October, was distinctly responsible for its timing. And Hughes found himself a front-page news story.

While no man to be alarmed at the assault of fame, he was in a distinctly embarrassing spot. For the first rule of a ghost writer is to be heard by the public but not seen. Since then, Hughes's specific contributions to President Eisenhower's policy proposals have not been a matter of public record.

From Hughes's personal history, however, it seems likely that he will be one of the uninhibited liberal voices in the White House.

New Dealer in College Days

When interviewed recently he characterized himself as a New Dealer in his college days. Thereafter, he spent much of his time abroad and managed to avoid any political tag and, indeed, any trip to the polls. He didn't become a Republican until the 1952 campaign. His uncomplicated reason: "It was time for a change."

Hughes's name first reached the public in 1947 through a book, "Report From Spain," a devastating analysis and vivid assault on the Franco regime. Its effectiveness was enhanced in some quarters, by the knowledge that Hughes himself was a devout Catholic.

Although unknown to the public before that book, Hughes had already achieved an awesome reputation in some circles.

At Princeton (class of '41) he is remembered as a shy and somewhat self-absorbed young man. He studied history and graduated summa cum laude.

His senior honor's thesis, "The Church and the Liberal Society," achieved publication and was a selection of the Catholic Book-of-the-Month Club—a rare accolade for an undergraduate.

After Princeton, Hughes enrolled at Columbia where he studied under Prof. Carlton J. H. Hayes. He was preparing himself for a teaching career when Hayes was appointed Ambassador to Spain. Hayes took him along and Hughes eventually became press attaché of the Embassy.

When it came time to go to war, Hughes wangled permission to enlist in North Africa. He was put in OSS and transferred back to Madrid when the Army suddenly decided he was more valuable in his old post.

Exalted Role for a G.I.

Although only a private, he again found himself Embassy press attaché as well as the head of OWI in Spain and a functionary in military intelligence. Few privates in American history ever achieved such exalted diplomatic status.

In his job he met many visiting newsmen, among them Charles Wertheim, then head of the Time-Life Paris office. Some months later, Wertheim cabled him from New York offering him the job heading up Time's bureau in Rome.

"He wanted me because I was both a liberal and a Catholic," Hughes says, modestly.

Hughes quickly made a reputation for himself as a boy wonder in the Time empire. His copy from Rome and Berlin (he headed the Time bureau in Berlin in 1943-49) is remembered as some of the best ever sent in from an overseas correspondent.

After his trick in Berlin, he was brought home and made text editor of Life. Midway in the presidential campaign, in which the Eisenhower oratorical effort could hardly be regarded as distinguished, Hughes volunteered his services, as a speechwriter, taking a leave of absence from Life. In the opinion of most observers, the candidate's performance picked up immediately.

Youth of the New Prosperity

Although the campaign is long over, Hughes still speaks with quiet fervor about the Eisenhower crusade. He is deeply impressed with the fact that so many young people, reared under the New Deal, switched their allegiance for the first time. These are in large part, of course, the youth of the new prosperity, who have moved to the suburbs and developed the conservative instincts of homeowners.

Hughes, too, lives in comfortable suburbia (Chevy Chase) with wife and baby. But he thinks of himself not as a conservative but as an unfettered liberal of the new era. An ambitious young man who has risen very fast, he means to have an impact on his times.

What impact he will have on Eisenhower's thinking it is still, of course, too early to say. For the President is buffeted by many pressures, most of them hardly of Hughes's coloration.

UNCHANGABLE ESSENCE

From the Chicago Sunday Tribune.

A scientific report on progress in discovering the process of photosynthesis states that the microscopic green particles called chloroplasts in spinach leaves were first treated with acetone, the chlorophyll which gives the vegetable its green coloring.

But we'll bet that despite all this it still was spinach.

The Painter and the Pugilist

THE VIOLENT WEDDING, by Robert Lowry, (Doubleday & Company, Inc., 255 pgs., $3.)

Laine Brendan had a vision one morning in the twilight of her awakening, and upon arising she worked feverishly to put it down on canvas. So savage and realistic were her brush strokes and the colors she used that it came out in powerful, three-dimensional lines—threads of red blood crossed with rope strands, and behind this pattern of Xs the face of Paris (Baby) James, Negro contender for the middleweight boxing championship.

The flaxen-haired girl had caught her first glimpse of the artistic, graceful fighter as he methodically stalked and then knocked out one of the last men who stood between him and the champion. Her affair with James then became one of the final acts of her life, which was dedicated to self-destruction from the moment she broke home ties.

Baby James was highly disturbed when he saw the painting in Laine's Greenwich Village apartment. It aroused doubts and dredged up deep-seated emotions which brought confusion into his simple and well-ordered life.

The doubts increased, particularly after Laine's tragic demise, and once again he saw the message of the painting—in the hopelessly battered, blood-smear face of the champion, Tony Aldi. For the first time in his purposeful career this fighting machine, who had once before killed a man with a punch, held back the KO punch.

"The Violent Wedding" is the work of a craftsman who writes in the tough modern style, moving the action along with each phrase. At all times Robert Lowry is a master of English prose, and he is at his best in the stirring description of action in the championship fight.

The characters created by Lowry do not keep pace with the narrative, however. Except for Baby James himself, the people of the story are as thin as the pages of the book.

Age Cannot Withstand Them

EARLY CHRISTIAN FATHERS, edited by Cyril C. Richardson, (Westminster Press, Philadelphia, 415 pgs., $5.)

What can be the excuse, when publication costs are sky high, of another translation of the Christian classics to run to 26 volumes? The answer has been given by Prof. Gilbert Highet of Columbia University, commenting on this courageous project:

"A classic is a permanent book: one which never became an antiquity. Such books are valuable, not because they are old, but because they are timeless. There are a few hundred—perhaps a few thousand—of such books which have never ceased to be read since the day they were written."

The Library of Christian Classics will provide a new translation in modern English, with scholarly introductions and notes, of the greatest of the Christian treatises written before 1600. The editors and publisher know that the number of readers is limited; but they also know, from experience, that there are, at any time, a fair-sized number of grateful readers—the most dependable buyers and readers of books on earth.

"Early Christian Fathers" is Vol. I; it includes some of the best known Christian writings of the first two centuries. The general reader, who is apt to shy off from "classics," might try the first selection in this beautiful volume—Clement's First Letter (A.D. 96). This work is in no sense antique, but fresh, interesting and easy to read. There is a general index, and a list of biblical references.

Social Security Issue to Rise Again

DEVELOPING circumstances seem to assure Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, of her wish expressed before the American Federation of Labor convention that expansion of the social security system be one of the first matters taken up by Congress when it resumes in January.

Furthermore, it might be safely forecast, without too much risk, that a revised and amended social security law will come from the Eighty-third Congress before it adjourns, including greatly extended coverage.

Parliamentary considerations. The Republican party needs a record on "social gains" which President Eisenhower promised to preserve—to take before the voters in next year's congressional elections. Social Security fits the bill. It is thought of first when "social gains" are mentioned, perhaps because it was among the earliest of the New Deal social welfare galaxy.

It affects many millions of citizens—voters also. It is safe and respectable, unlike health insurance and public housing, because there is hardly anybody who quarrels with the principle any more, though there is plenty of criticism of details of its operation.

More Older People.

With younger voters of course, the issue is still theoretical and philosophical, representing a need that seems a very long way off. But with older citizens, approaching the retirement time of life, who anticipate many more years, the issue has compelling force.

The percentage of our population 65 years of age and over has greatly increased, and the ratio will grow still faster, to be not only one of our major national problems in social adjustment, but it has created, as well, a political reservoir of which candidates for office are more and more conscious.

That was demonstrated, though it got little attention, when the reinvigorated lobby of the re-viving Townsend-old-age pension movement, induced, or frightened, 156 members of the House of Representatives last session to sign a petition to bring the Townsend bill before that body.

Townsend on the Job.

It requires 218 to force a bill to the floor. That is a majority. It was Dr. Francis Townsend and his threatening army of old folks who pushed the Roosevelt Administration and Congress to enactment of the original social security law in 1935 ahead of its scheduled time.

"Doc" Townsend was regarded

as an old man then. Now he's 86—and still at it with his scheme for a gross transactions tax to finance pensions which would vary with the intake, but run around $150 a month, it is estimated.

Both political parties are vying for credit for further expansion of the system. Each has proposals in Congress for extending coverage to some 10,000,000 more persons. It will be the Administration bill naturally that will get right of way.

Once the issue is opened, however, all sorts of changes and improvements and refinements will be sought, among them, larger pensions to be available at an earlier age, which is the Townsend objective, and an increase in the amount of outside income that a pension recipient can get, which the Administration is supporting.

Issue Appeals to Many.

Outside income now is limited to $75 a month. This limitation is one of the chief grievances against the present system. Also there will be efforts to put the system on a pay-as-you-go basis, as advocated by the United States Chamber of Commerce. This the Townsends and labor already are opposing, claiming it is a move to reduce the amount of pensions and to cripple the system under the guise of expanding its benefits.

Expansion of Social Security has wide labor appeal. By championing it aggressively, which both the President and Mrs. Hobby are expected to do, the Administration hopes to help itself with sufficient rank and file workers to hold at least some of the converts it won last November, despite the stiffening attitude of organized labor leadership against the Administration as exemplified at the AFL convention and in criticism by CIO bosses.

A Scare for Labor.

Insistent pleas by labor leaders for their unions to get busy now politically for the elections more than a year away indicates that they have some fears of the "Red" influence among their people and privately share the skepticism publicly expressed by one of them, Emil Rieve, president of the Textile Workers' Union of America.

Mr. Rieve forecast before his Union convention at Long Beach, Long Island, that Republicans would win Congress again next year, as well as the 1956 presidential election, unless meanwhile there is a depression. His public prediction undoubtedly was to scare organized labor into action, coupled as it was by an appeal for continuous and earnest political activity.

Physician Here for 57 Years Was Specialist in Diseases of Digestive Tract.

Funeral services for Dr. Horace Wendell Soper, a practicing physician here for almost 57 years and a co-founder of the old Soper-Mills Clinic, will be Thursday at 2:30 p.m. at Christ Church Cathedral.

Dr. Soper, who was 86 years old, died yesterday at Barnes Hospital of a heart ailment. He lived at 4731 Westminster place and had offices in the Missouri Theater Building.

A specialist in diseases of the digestive tract, Dr. Soper was one of the first physicians in this country to work out a sound diet treatment for peptic ulcer. He was president of the National Gastroenterological Association in 1950.

Born in Hillsboro, Ill., and graduated in 1894 from the Washington University School of Medicine—it was the first class to receive medical degrees from that institution—Dr. Soper interned at City Hospital and served as chief of the medical clinic at St. John's Hospital from 1898 to 1906.

In the latter year, he went to Europe for two years of post-graduate work in his specialty. With the late Dr. R. Walter Mills, he founded the Soper-Mills Clinic in 1913 to specialize in digestive diseases. At one time employing the services of as many as 23 physicians, the clinic was dissolved in 1938.

Dr. Soper retired from active practice the following year but the start of World War II and its demands on younger physicians led him to re-enter practice. He had been active thereafter until last Saturday.

Dr. Soper was strongly opposed to the use of raw or pasteurized milk as an article of diet, contending that only evaporated milk assured freedom from pathogenic bacteria. However, he lent his efforts to a campaign to raise the quality of pasteurized milk for the St. Louis area in the years before World War II.

In addition to his membership in the National Gastroenterological Association, he was a member of the St. Louis Medical Society, Missouri State Medical Association, American Medical Association, St. Louis Society of Internal Medicine and American Board of Internal Medicine. He also was a fellow of the American College of Physicians.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Mary Reynolds Soper; a sister, Mrs. Ira D. Scott of Denver, Colo.; two nieces, Mrs. Lu-

Subjects for the "Museum Hour" lectures on Tuesday will be: "Impressionism in Painting," Oct. 6; "The Post-Impressionists in Painting," Oct. 13; "Early Years of Vincent Van Gogh," Oct. 20, and "Van Gogh and Gauguin," Oct. 27.

MAURICE SPYER FUNERAL HELD AT SANTA ANA, CALIF.

Funeral services for Maurice Spyer, former St. Louis musician and orchestra conductor, were held today at Santa Ana, Calif. He died of a heart ailment Saturday at Laguna Beach, Calif.

Mr. Spyer, 83 years old, was first violinist with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra for 33 years and conducted orchestras in the old Columbia, Orpheum and Rialto theaters for vaudeville programs. He retired about 10 years ago and had lived in California since 1941.

Surviving are his wife, the former Wilhelmina Lowe, a harpist who was a member of the symphony orchestra, and a sister, Miss Millie Spyer, 5330 Pershing avenue.

50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Ernst F. Wolf, 4458 Norfolk avenue, observed their fiftieth wedding anniversary today. They were honored at a family gathering Sunday at the home of a granddaughter, Mrs. Arleen Roettger, 4477 Vista avenue.

Wolf, 75 years old, was employed by the old Grone Soda Co. for 25 years before retiring about 20 years ago. Mrs. Wolf, 74, is the former Miss Emma Beekman. They have a son, Ernst H. Wolf, a daughter, Mrs. Arthur J. Baumer, six grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Flower Arrangers' Group Set Up Experiment at Housing Project, Installed Park Benches.

A novel idea in gardening in the St. Louis area was pronounced a success today by all concerned—the founders, the waterers and weederers, and most of all, by flower lovers who can't see.

The idea was a scented garden for the blind. "So much pleasure has been derived from the garden that two, instead of one, are to be planted this fall," said Mrs. Edgar Littman, 2 Tuscany Park, Clayton.

She is president of the Flower Arrangers' Circle of Greater St. Louis, and it was her suggestion that brought the Scented Garden for the Blind into being at Clinton Peabody housing project.

It is an experiment in fragrance. Plants were carefully selected—heliotrope, mignonette, roses, lilies and other scented blossoms which blind persons can enjoy.

The housing project, bounded by Chouteau avenue, Park avenue, Fourteenth street and Grat-tan street, was chosen as a site because a number of blind families live there. Members of Brownie Troop 713 conscientiously watered the garden all summer long, every evening.

Park benches were put in. Blind persons came and stayed by the hour. Next year a similar garden will be put in at Shaw's Gardens. Aluminum signs in Braille will identify the blooms. From Holland, 500 scented tulip bulbs have been ordered for fall planting.

"We are all very pleased the experiment turned out so well," said Mrs. Littman. The gardeners said they looked forward to spring.

LOUIS J. SCHNEIDER FUNERAL SERVICES TO BE TOMORROW

Funeral services for Louis J. Schneider, president of the Graef Realty Co., 4737 Natural Bridge avenue, who died of a heart attack last Saturday, will be tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. at the Calvin Feutz undertaking establishment, 4828 Natural Bridge, with burial in St. Peter's Cemetery.

MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN OF BACH SOCIETY OPENS

A mail and personal solicitation membership campaign of the Bach Society of St. Louis began yesterday under the direction of Mrs. Walter C. Ploeser, chairman. First subscription for a $100 patron membership in the society was taken out by Albert B. Lambert Jr., president of the Missouri Jewelers Sign Co.

Mrs. Ploeser said the drive is being undertaken in response to requests by various organizations and individuals that the society expand its activities. The month-long campaign will seek to increase the society's membership to 2500 persons, she added.

"The Bach Festival Chorus is today one of the finest choral symphonic groups in the United States," Mrs. Ploeser said. "It deserves the support of this community because it provides us with the very finest in choral music."

Saul is a graduate of Western Military Academy, Alton. His scholarship is one of a group granted annually by the institute to students of high scholastic and personal qualifications. Winners are selected in nationwide competition.

White House Dilemma

While all this was going on, the White House was receiving daily cables from Ambassador Douglas Dillon in Paris saying that the uncertainty was further inflaming opinion in France, where an active left wing, anti-American propaganda campaign had been launched that was in theory in behalf of the Rosenbergs.

At one point as the climax was reached, President Eisen-

MARQUIS CHILDS

Behind the Court's Marble Columns

WASHINGTON. WHEN the Supreme Court convenes for the fall term, it will be without a Chief Justice. The present intention at the White House is to move cautiously and carefully in the selection of the No. 1 judicial officer of the United States.

This means that the views of a great many people will be weighed before the decision is taken. No Chief Justice since 1796 has taken his place on the bench without prior confirmation by the Senate, and in view of the momentous issues to be determined this precedent is not likely to be broken.

On the day last June when it recessed, the court had become entangled in the fierce emotions surrounding the last appeal of the atom spies, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg. Justice William O. Douglas, acting just after the court's term had ended, granted a stay to the Rosenbergs. Douglas then left on a motor trip.

Seven of the nine members of the court, including the late Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson, were still in Washington. Vinson was deeply disturbed. Two days before Douglas's action, the full court had refused to stay the execution of the Rosenbergs in order to hear arguments of their lawyers. Douglas had voted with the majority against the motion of Justice Robert H. Jackson which would have put the Rosenberg case before the court for arguments for the first time.

Only a part of the drama of those tense days got into the news. Vinson felt that the court, by the seeming reversal of its stand almost from one day to the next, had suffered a serious blow. He felt so strongly on this score that he took a most unusual step. He telephoned Attorney General Herbert Brownell and the two held a long conference on the course to be followed.

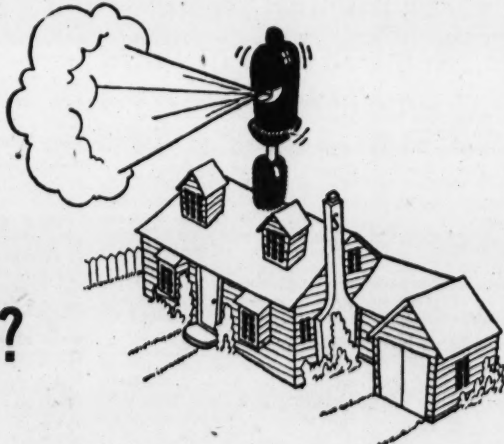

As a consequence the Chief Justice summoned the court back to a special term, and at that meeting Douglas's stay was overruled. While few outside the members of his family knew of it, Vinson had some months before suffered a minor heart attack. Realizing that he was not well, his associates were concerned over the strain the Rosenberg case put on him.

Twice before an Associate Justice has been named Chief even though he was not of the same party as the President who appointed him. The latest instance was when Roosevelt named Harlan F. Stone, originally put on the court by Calvin Coolidge, to be Chief Justice. The vote of the Chief has no more weight than that of the eight associates. But he becomes the administrative officer and, what is more important, a symbol to the country of justice under the law.

A Chief Justice appointed without prior experience on the court would take many months to familiarize himself with the procedure and the personalities of the tribunal. This is one reason that many lawyers are urging President Eisenhower to elevate a member of the court, and the choice of most is Justice Robert H. Jackson.

A Democrat named by President Roosevelt, Jackson in his opinions has established a middle of the road position. Justice has been named Chief even though he was not of the same party as the President who appointed him. The latest instance was when Roosevelt named Harlan F. Stone, originally put on the court by Calvin Coolidge, to be Chief Justice. The vote of the Chief has no more weight than that of the eight associates. But he becomes the administrative officer and, what is more important, a symbol to the country of justice under the law.

How many corporations in your home?

"I just read that booklet called Investment Facts, which tells about cash dividends paid by some 300 top companies," writes a woman.

"I found something you ought to emphasize. 'My refrigerator maker, I discover, has paid dividends for 64 years. (I could have had a few shares in that company.) You named at least four drug firms, all of which have products on my medicine shelf this minute.'

"My husband's shirt manufacturer was named. About a dozen food companies we know well. The maker of our linoleum, our car, our gasoline. Our telephone company. Our electric company. All in all, I counted thirty such products in our home. 'Every one of these companies paid what I call good dividends. I think you ought to point out how many such corporations are in everyone's home.'

Agreed. And millions of people not only rely on the products of America's famous corporations, they also own shares in them. These people are in business with their companies—sharing in the profits they may make and the risk that goes with any enterprise. What's more, over two million of these men and women have incomes under $5,000.

Yanks Call Dodgers Over-rated, Are Confident They'll Win Again

'WE AIN'T AFRAID OF THEM GUYS,' BERRA SAYS: ERSKINE TO FACE REYNOLDS IN OPENER

By Bob Broeg
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The New York Yankees, seeking an unprecedented fifth straight championship, will go into the world series tomorrow with holes in their bats, but confidence in their hearts.

The fact is that in the final week of the American League season, Casey Stengel's Bronx Bombers walked up to and away from home plate and seldom crossed it, causing early arrivals for the subway series with Brooklyn to feel that the National League club's chances of winning the classic for the first time had been improved.

But at a morning workout yesterday, at their famed stadium, the Yankees brushed off recent inability to score—just three runs in 29 innings and only four in five games—as a garden-variety batting slump that was "certainly wearing off by noon tomorrow (St. Louis time)."

"We'll Be Ready," Berra Says.
"Shucks, we were just foolin'," said Yogi Berra, the St. Louis kid from the Hill. "We'll be ready. We ain't afraid of them guys."

Them guys, if you will, were the Brooklyn Nationals who statisticians determined have become the senior major league's mightiest offensive team since the 1930 Cardinals while carving out 103 victories, the most since the Redbirds of 1942 needed 106 to win.

Billy Martin, the cocky kid who plays a large chunk of second base for the Yankees, reacted to a recitation of power records broken by Brooklyn as though he were about to engage in another free-style fight against his arch-enemy, Clint Courtney, of the Browns.

"Everybody's over-rating them and under-rating us," Martin snapped. "What's power if you pitch to it right?"

Berra nodded in agreement. "You pitch to their power and you deserve what you get," Yogi said.

Phil Rizuto, the shortstop veteran getting ready for his eighth crack at baseball's biggest pot of gold, needed Roommate Berra. "That's your department, Yogi," he said.

Catcher Berra's comeback was as sharp as his hitting a bad ball out of the park. "Yeah, it's my department," he cracked, "but I only call 'em. I don't throw 'em."

the huge Bronx ball park built by Babe Ruth's home-run bat and box-office appeal.

Reynolds, the fast-firing Oklahoma Indian, has led the series opener each of the last two years, but those have been his only defeats in the October classic. Starting and relieving, the Chief has been in 12 blue-ribbon battles and has been so successful that he wins just one this time, he'll tie Red Ruffing's record of seven World Series victories.

Lopat, pitching hero of the 1951 series against the rival New York Giants, has had little success against Brooklyn—he was cuffed by the Bums in both 1949 and 1952—but he's a cool one. Besides, his 16-4 win-and-loss record was the best percentage and his earned-run average the lowest in the American League this season. So, as expected, Stengel named him to hurl in the bigger park where the righthanded-hitting Brooklyn sluggers won't have the chummy home-run range that makes them more fearsome at Ebbets Field.

Erskine's 20-game season made Brooklyn's spunky little righthanded ace a logical opening-game choice—remember his 11-inning victory last year?—but Eddie Stanky, among others, speculated that Dessen might have picked Roe, a superb series pitcher, to give the cunning old southpaw enough rest to be able to start a second time.

Dessen's response to the Cardinal manager and others who leaned to Roe for the opener was that he believed the Preacher could start twice if he didn't hurt the first game.

"Why do you think I kept shortening his rest even after we had clinched the pennant?" the Brooklyn skipper asked. "He might be a once-a-week peacher generally, but not now."

Furillo and Woodling Ailing.

On the eve of the series, both league champions had ailing outfielders, coincidentally nursing similar hand injuries that have caused them to take batting practice with protective sponges. The two wounded warriors are Carl Furillo of the Dodgers and Gene Woodling of the Yankees' successor, to Tommy Henrich as their reliable old pro, hurt his right hand originally two weeks ago while slamming into the wall to make a great catch. It didn't seem serious at the time, but the hand puffed and forced him out of the lineup during the last week of the season.

Furillo, as anyone knows who followed Red Schoendienst' desperate and losing fight for the National League batting championship, has been in drydock with a broken finger ever since he got trampled by the rival Giants while trying to button Leo Durocher's lip early in September.

The Yankees need Woodling, all right. The left-handed-hitting leftfielder starred in last year's series, you'll recall, even though

Committee to Discuss Players' Pension Plan; 5 Points Asked By the Athletes Are Approved

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP)—Ralph Kiner and Allie Reynolds, major league representatives, tempered their joy with a little disappointment today after gaining some long sought concessions from baseball's executive council.

The Chicago Cubs' slugger and the New York Yankee ace hurler, accompanied by the players' recently appointed attorney, won the concessions in a five-hour huddle yesterday with the council headed by Commissioner Ford Frick, but they failed to obtain immediate action after their prime pension plan proposals.

They came out of the conference with the council's approval of five of their suggestions for improving working conditions. The best they could do on three proposed changes in the pension set-up however, was the appointment of a committee to study the plans and report back next spring.

The committee will be composed of two owners, J. Norman Lewis, the players' lawyer and attorneys for the two leagues, Lou Carroll of the National and Ben Flery of the American.

"It is the best we have done since the pension plan was set up in 1946," said Kiner and Reynolds. "Naturally, we had hoped for immediate approval of our proposed changes on the pension plan and are somewhat disappointed."

The council's recommendations will be presented to the club owners at their annual December meeting. Such recommendations usually are tantamount to approval.

The players asked the council to recommend that payments to five of their suggestions for improving working conditions. The best they could do on three proposed changes in the pension set-up however, was the appointment of a committee to study the plans and report back next spring.

The council did approve increased allowance for moving; agreed that a player be paid full hotel rate if permitted to live elsewhere during a spring training; a player shall not be required to pay for surgery for illness or injury suffered outside the line of baseball duty; each player should receive $8 daily for meal money while on the road; and a player will reach a veteran's status after eight years instead of the present 10.

The players also asked the council to recommend an increase in minimum salary from $5000 to $7200 a year. The council decided to pass this request on to the owners without recommendation.

Lopez to Lead Cleveland for 2 More Years

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (UP)—Manager Al Lopez, signed to a new two-year contract, listed three "basic requirements" today if the Cleveland Indians are to overtake the New York Yankees in 1954.

"We'll never catch 'em until we get a right fielder, a first baseman and a relief pitcher," Lopez said.

General Manager Hank Greenberg praised Lopez as "the best manager in baseball" when he announced the two-year pact and said "at no time did we consider not renewing Al's contract."

The terms of the contract were not revealed but it is estimated that Lopez will get $35,000 a year.

The Indians have finished second under Lopez three consecutive years, finishing with '93-61 records in 1951 and 1952 and with a 92-62 record, 8½ games behind the Yankees this year.

The Indians were rated the Yankees' No. 1 threat this season but never were a serious factor after Aug. 1.

Cleveland's most important disappointment this season was Luke Easter, 240 pound slugging first-baseman, who was injured on the second day of the season and sidelined until mid-season. Easter hit .303 but he played in only 69 games and the Indians missed his long-range hitting ability.

Although Lopez did not name him, it was believed the "right fielder" referred to is Harry Simpson. Tabbed as a potential star, Simpson hit only .226 in 81 games.

Angels Get Mauch.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Los Angeles baseball club has acquired the services of infielder Gene Mauch, who managed Atlanta in the Southern Association last season. Mauch played 111 games with the Crackers, batted .268 and will report to Manager Stan Hack next spring.

Nashville Trims Dallas.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 29 (AP)—Nashville's heavy hitters finally rediscovered their home park fences last night to set back Dallas 8-6 and cut the Texans' Dixie series lead to one game—3-2.

But despite Nashville's homers the Vols had to call out three pitchers to keep the Texas League playoff champions from sealing up the best-of-seven in the ninth. The game drew 6043 fans.

Rochester Club Eliminated in Play-Off Series

MONTREAL, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Montreal Royals had their sights on the Junior World Series today after taking the best-of-seven series from the Rochester Red Wings in four straight to capture the International League's Governors' Cup.

The Royals must wait now for the American Association play-off winner between Kansas City and Toledo. Kansas City leads the series 3-2.

Montreal edged the pennant-winning Red Wings 3-2 last night behind the nine hit pitching of Tom Lasorda.

A crowd of 9150 saw Montreal's ace lefthander go the route, fanning seven and walking one.

Floyd Woolridge, a young righthander, went the distance for Rochester to suffer his first loss since joining Harry (Hat) Walker's crew from Houston early this month.

Montreal scored twice in the sixth inning on a double by Don Hoak, single by Sandy Amoros and a double by Ken Wood. Roy Hartsfield scored the Royals' first run in the third, scoring on Hoak's single.

The Wings' first run came in the opening frame when Ed Mierkiewicz singled with two out and scored on Allie Clark's double. They scored their second run in the sixth when Lou Ortiz doubled, was sacrificed to third by Wally Moon and scored on Vern Rapp's single.

Toledo Trims Blues.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 29 (UP)—The Toledo Sox, who lost three games in a row in the American Association final play-off with the Kansas City Blues, won their second straight last night, 5-4.

The Blues were within two outs of winning the right to play in the "little world series" against Montreal of the International League. Then Billy Queen drew a walk off Blue Pitcher Harry Schaeffer. He scored the first of two ninth-inning runs when Luis Marques doubled to center. Marques moved to third on an out and scored on a passed ball.

Bob Chipman, third of the Sox pitchers, was the winner. Schaeffer was the loser. The Blues scored a pair of runs in the fourth and two more in the seventh to lead 4-3 going into the ninth.

Down Memory Lane

Hitting or Pitching—Which Will Prevail?

KEYNOTING fan interest in the fiftieth modern world series, which begins tomorrow at Yankee Stadium, undoubtedly will be the big question whether Casey Stengel and his "Bombers" of 1953 can win their fifth consecutive world championship, breaking the record of four set by a previous Yankee team (1936-39), with Joe McCarthy the field manager.

The test will develop other attractive features, not least of which will be: Can the Dodgers finally break into the world series winner column, the Yankees already having trimmed them in all four previous meetings?

This involves a rather ancient subject of debate: Can the team with better hitters beat an opposing club with better pitchers? The current odds of 6 to 5 that the Yanks will win seem to indicate that the pitchers will prevail. Those Dodger hitters, however, may have what it takes. . . . This is just a comment, not a prediction.

Oh What a Difference Fifty Years Can Make!

THIS generation may be interested in that "first modern world series," played half a century ago (1903) by the Boston Red Sox and the Pittsburgh Pirates. . . . One look at the records and we convinced ourselves that the first official world series, both in personnel and in playing achievement—especially pitching—rated as good as or even better than that of the rivals of last year, the Bums and the Bombers.

The best five out of nine games determined the winner and the series was won by the Boston Red Sox, 5 games to 3. . . . The American League had raided the Pirates in the year time year of 1902, or Fred Clarke's Pirates might not have lost. . . . In that raid Pittsburgh lost Jack Chesbro, now a Hall of Fame honor man. . . . The steal in the Pirates with only one winning pitcher for the long title trek.

But this pitching shortage developed on the field would seem incredible today and is emphasized by the fact that he walked only three opponents and struck out 20. . . . But that's not the whole of the pitching story. Two pitchers for Boston performed almost as famously. . . . They were Bill Dinwiddie who, after losing his first effort to Philadelphia, came back and won three straight, while the famous Cy Young (he still holds the lifetime record for number of games won) contributed two victories in four tries.

Three Hall of Fame Stars in the Lineup.

PHILLIPS' feat would seem incredible today and is emphasized by the fact that he walked only three opponents and struck out 20. . . . But that's not the whole of the pitching story. Two pitchers for Boston performed almost as famously. . . . They were Bill Dinwiddie who, after losing his first effort to Philadelphia, came back and won three straight, while the famous Cy Young (he still holds the lifetime record for number of games won) contributed two victories in four tries.

There were three players in the joint lineups who since that day have been honored by the Cooperstown Baseball Hall of Fame. . . . Jimmy Collins (manager and third baseman for the Red Sox) and Cy Young for Boston, while the mighty Honus Wagner, the all-time great shortstop, played for Pittsburgh.

Although the pitching was out of this world, the defensive play was not so hot, the Pirates making 16 errors with 11 for the Red Sox—a joint average of more than 3 errors per game. . . . And who led all the rest? . . . None but the mighty Wagner, who erred six times in five of the games. . . . It was a bad outing for Honus, who made only 6 hits in eight games, and tossed who struck out, as the last man up, to end the series!

In the entire series only two homers were made. . . . Compare that with 16 homers during the seven days of last year's Yanks-Dodgers setto. . . . But of course there was no cork center ball to slug, then, and only four or five baseballs were used in an entire game in those days.

Substitutions Rare in That Series, Long Ago.

ONE of the astounding features of the 1903 series was the fact that substitutions were almost negligible. . . . For example, the total number of players used in the eight games by the Pirates was 73—only one substitute, a pitcher! . . . The Sox used six substitutes in eight games, and were ninth in using pinch hitters and two were pitching reliefs.

In last year's world series a total of 163 players performed, and that means 37 substitutions were used. . . . In one game 39 players took part!

That 1903 series was very sporting. . . . A real sporting owner, Barney Dreyfuss, gave his club's share of the gate into the pot for his own players. . . . This made each losing player's share $1314, more than that of each winner's share, $1182.

The total attendance for the eight games was 106,429 and the total receipts $35,000. . . . They'll take in four times that amount, probably, in one game tomorrow, at Yankee Stadium.

Notre Dame Ranked First, Michigan State Second in Poll

Missouri Gets Some Attention

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (UP)—Notre Dame's impressive opening game performance against Oklahoma earned it the accolade as the nation's No. 1 college football team today in the first weekly ratings of the United Press board of coaches.

Michigan State, 1952 mythical National champion, was ranked second, U.C.L.A. third and Ohio State fourth in the ratings of the 35 leading coaches who comprise the United Press board.

The Fighting Irish, whose 28-21 victory over Oklahoma showed they have made an excellent adjustment to platoonless football, received 25 first-place votes and 325 out of a possible total of 350 points.

All 35 coaches listed Notre Dame among their top 10 choices, only one voter selecting them lower than fifth. In addition to the 25 first-place votes, five coaches voted the Irish second, one third, two for fourth place, and one each for fifth and ninth.

Michigan State, which beat Iowa 21-7, in its season opener last Saturday, attracted four first-place votes and 264 points; U.C.L.A., with victories over Oregon State and Kansas already this season, had three first-place votes and 213 points, while Ohio State, 36-12 conqueror of Indiana in its '53 debut, had 167 points.

Southern California, Maryland, Michigan, Oklahoma, Baylor and Georgia Tech rounded out the top 10 teams in that order. Southern California and Michigan each attracted one first-place vote and were chosen for every place from first to 10 for a first place vote to receive a first-place vote.

Southern California, which boasts victories over Washington State and Minnesota, had 148 points, also with two victories, had 122, while Michigan, 50-0 victor over Washington in its opener, ranked seventh with 113 points.

Oklahoma was eighth despite its opening-game setback by Notre Dame and had a total of 92 points, one more than Baylor. Georgia Tech, held to a scoreless tie by Florida last weekend, was tenth with 89 points.

The top 10 thus was made up of four teams from the mid-west, two each from the Pacific coast and south, and one each from the midlands and southwest.

Mississippi State headed the second 10 teams with 66 points, followed by Duke, Louisiana State, Texas, Rice, Georgia, Mississippi, Army and Wisconsin. There was a three-team tie for twelfth place among Holy Cross, Pennsylvania and William and Mary.

Others among the 29 teams that received consideration in the first week's voting were Mississippi Southern, West Virginia, Cornell, Florida, Missouri, Princeton and Utah.

Three Fans Already In Line for Bleacher Seats for First Game

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP)—There was an air of "old home week" yesterday outside the bleacher seats box office at Yankee Stadium.

More than 48 hours before the 1953 baseball classic was due to get underway at the Bronx ball park, two veteran bleacher seat regulars showed up at the gate, greeted each other effusively, and settled down to wait for the box office to open.

First to show up was Charles M. Kierst, a 61-year-old fireman of Auburn, N.Y., for whom this will be the seventeenth straight world series. Kierst, who takes his vacation especially to see the series each year, hitch-hiked from the upstate city and took his post at 8 a.m. . . . A little surprised that he was first last year, he said, he was "somewhere around thirtieth."

Three hours later, from Chicago, arrived Ralph J. Belcore, 39, of 3130 West Harrison street, who had been first in line at Yankee Stadium last year. Belcore said this will be his twelfth series and tenth consecutively.

Third position in the line went to a Boston grocery salesman, John Londono, who took up the vigil early today.

Durocher Likes a Few Cards—Haddix, Mizell and Musial

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP)—"Alvin Dark stays at shortstop. He's my team captain for 1954. Nobody's going to get Dark. Nobody, nobody—unless. . . ."

Unless what? Leo Durocher? "Well, unless they give me plenty of dough and plenty of good ball players," replied the fiery manager of the New York Giants.

"Dark's the best shortstop in the National League," the Lip declared. "He's one of the 10 best players in the majors today. I'm not kidding."

What brings up the question of Dark? Some baseball experts figure Durocher expects to clean house after the dismal showing of the Giants in 1953 and Dark is No. 1 bait.

In spring training, the fast-talking Durocher said Dark would play second base, leaving the shortstop duties to Rookie Daryl Spencer, the American Association's 1952 all-star shortstop.

Dark didn't say too much. The season started and finished. Dark played second, shortstop

Dodgers Set 35 Records in Pennant Drive

CINCINNATI, Sept. 29 (UP)—The National League championship Brooklyn Dodgers established or tied at least 35 records in 1953.

Unanimously recognized as one of the most powerful hitting clubs in history, the Dodgers, individually and collectively, knocked off existing major league, National League and Brooklyn club records in rapid-fire order during the season's final weeks.

Perhaps the most noteworthy of the club's numerous accomplishments was its clinching of the National League pennant on the earliest date in the senior circuit's history. The Dodgers had everything sewed up on Sept. 12.

Carter Kayoes North African

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 29 (UP)—Lightweight Champion Jimmy Carter's crown shone brighter today as the result of his technical knockout victory over Ben Miloud of North Africa.

Carter, whose fist reputation was tarnished by a defeat at the hands of an obscure club fighter three weeks ago, had little trouble in handling Miloud in an over-the-weight bout before 2500 fans here last night. Referee Ernie Sesto stopped the fight at the end of the eighth round.

Carter had completely closed the left eye of his opponent from Casablanca with a barrage of jabs. In contrast to his losing fight with Johnny Cunningham

Jennings and Phillips Are Ready to Play

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 29 (AP)—The University of Missouri football squad began building its defenses yesterday against the single wing attack of Colorado after two weeks of play against the T-formation of Purdue and Maryland.

Coach Don Faurot said he expects to have his team at virtually full strength against the Buffs with Ike Jennings, left end, and Charles Phillips, left tackle, returning to the starting lineup. They missed the Purdue game last week.

Lefty Tyler Dies; Star With 'Miracle' Braves

LOWELL, Mass., Sept. 29 (AP)—George A. (Lefty) Tyler, a pitching star of Boston's 1914 "miracle" Braves, died unexpectedly today, virtually on the thirty-ninth anniversary of one of baseball's greatest events. He was 63 years old.

Tyler, a shoe cutter in recent years, won 16 games for those 1914 Braves who startled baseball by rocketing from last place on July 4 to win the National League pennant and then humble the proud Philadelphia Athletics in four straight games in the world series.

Three I Attendance Up 11 1/2 Per Cent

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Sept. 29 (UP)—Attendance at Three-I League baseball games this year was up 11 1/2 per cent over 1952, league headquarters announced today, with a total increase of 68,657.

Peoria, returning to the league after a 16-year lapse, led the circuit with 124,866 paid, higher than the total registered by Evansville in winning the pennant in 1952.

Edmonton Eleven Wins

CALGARY, Alta., Sept. 29 (AP)—Edmonton Eskimos struck for two touchdowns in the last quarter to defeat the Calgary Stampeders 21-12 for their eighth straight victory in the western interprovincial football union. Their only loss was a 9-8 defeat by the Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the opening game of the schedule.

Lefty Tyler Dies; Star With 'Miracle' Braves

LOWELL, Mass., Sept. 29 (AP)—George A. (Lefty) Tyler, a pitching star of Boston's 1914 "miracle" Braves, died unexpectedly today, virtually on the thirty-ninth anniversary of one of baseball's greatest events. He was 63 years old.

Tyler, a shoe cutter in recent years, won 16 games for those 1914 Braves who startled baseball by rocketing from last place on July 4 to win the National League pennant and then humble the proud Philadelphia Athletics in four straight games in the world series.

Three I Attendance Up 11 1/2 Per Cent

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Sept. 29 (UP)—Attendance at Three-I League baseball games this year was up 11 1/2 per cent over 1952, league headquarters announced today, with a total increase of 68,657.

Peoria, returning to the league after a 16-year lapse, led the circuit with 124,866 paid, higher than the total registered by Evansville in winning the pennant in 1952.

Edmonton Eleven Wins

CALGARY, Alta., Sept. 29 (AP)—Edmonton Eskimos struck for two touchdowns in the last quarter to defeat the Calgary Stampeders 21-12 for their eighth straight victory in the western interprovincial football union. Their only loss was a 9-8 defeat by the Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the opening game of the schedule.

Cleveland High Gains League Tennis Title

Cleveland High today was sure of the Public High League tennis championship although a few more matches remain to be played before the tournament in Forest Park ends.

The Dutchmen clinched the title by beating Soldan-Blewett, 5-0, yesterday at Southwest, the 1952 champion, defeated Hadley Tech, 4-1. That left Cleveland on top with a 27-1 record and seven matches to go. Southwest is 21-9 with five matches to play today against Roosevelt.

Cleveland will meet Central, Soldan-Blewett, will oppose Beaumont, and Hadley Tech will play McKinley.

Brentwood Off to Good Start With Wins Over Principia, Lutheran

By John J. Archibald

"Every boy who wants to play football can do so, regardless of what he weighs or how tall he is," said Fred Moseley, athletic director at Maplewood-Richmond Heights High School, in describing the athletic program at that school. At Maplewood, in addition to the varsity, there are the junior varsity, B team, freshmen, and C teams.

Each of the teams is supplied with a coach and an official for its games, as well as proper equipment, Moseley said. Varsity football and basketball receipts pay the costs.

Boys are placed on the various teams according to a scientific system, which takes into account the student's age, height and weight.

Brentwood's Bob Cooper gained considerable notice as a pitcher during the recent American Legion junior baseball season, but he is a catcher now.

Cooper is an end on Coach John Lauer's football squad, and the boy who now pitches to him is Ray Booker, who was the second baseman on the county champion Maplewood Legion team, along with Cooper.

The Eagles won their first two games, over Principia and Lutheran, despite losing much of their weight as well as talent through graduation. Those gone include Brad Susman (198), Bud Harmon (190), Charles Howe (170), and Jim Howerton (165).

Fred Ware, who won the senior 100- and 220-yard dashes as a sophomore in the city meet last spring, is expected to add speed to the Summer High backfield. He will be at left half.

Other backs on Coach W. O. Sanders's team include Gerald Cunningham, who lettered last year, and Don Graham, a transfer student from Chicago.

Other players that Sanders is counting upon to furnish a team that will at least equal last season's record of three wins, three losses, and a tie are Ends Jerry Anderson and Nathaniel Willis, Guards Bob Worthing and Lawrence Walls, and Center Albert Wayne.

Summer is likely to have the biggest tackles in the district in Phillip Lester, 256 pounds, who is a freshman, and 245-pound sophomore Bill Purnell.

Luther Bogan, Lionel Hopper, Charles Bradford, and Joe Rushing were other strong candidates Sanders listed.

Evidence of the decline of Saturday afternoon as a popular time for high school football can be obtained by a comparison of the crowds at the Beaumont-Normandy game on Friday night, and the Country Day-Ritenour attraction Saturday afternoon.

One of the largest crowds ever to see a game on the Normandy field came out for the night game, with every one of the thousands of bleacher seats taken and a solid mass of people around the entire field.

At Country Day there was less than a thousand spectators—only a few hundred on the Ritenour side.

Central's assistant coach Ray Cliffe leads a football-filled weekend. The past two Saturdays he has spent helping the Redwings in the afternoon, then at night played offensive center for the St. Louis Knights professional team. Cliffe played at Missouri U. a few years ago.

U.S., SOUTH KOREA TO SIGN DEFENSE PACT THURSDAY

SEOUL, Sept. 29 (UP)—The United States-South Korean mutual defense treaty will be signed Thursday in New York City, it was announced today.

Home Minister Cho Chung-hwan said the two nations would be represented at the signing ceremonies by United States Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and *Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai. Pyun presently is in New York as head of the ROK observers at the United Nations.

The defense pact, initiated in Seoul last Aug. 1 by Dulles and Pyun, was a major condition for South Korean acceptance of the armistice.

It provides for the United States to come to the aid of South Korea in the event of future invasion, after due constitutional processes. It calls for United States military assistance to the republic and gives the United States the right to station troops in South Korea.

TWO NEW MAJOR URANIUM FIELDS FOUND IN AUSTRALIA

DARWIN, Australia, Sept. 29 (AP)—Australia yesterday announced two major uranium finds near the giant Rum Jungle field. S. Christie, manager of the field, said an even bigger uranium deposit remained uncovered.

Christie said the new finds, two miles and eight miles from the Rum Jungle field in the northern territory, may prove as valuable as the field itself.

Reporters, on their first permitted tour of the Rum Jungle field since it was put on the secret list 18 months ago, found it has been developed into a full-scale mining area with latest equipment and a small but fully modern town.

BENSON FOR CHANGE IN FAO DIRECTOR

Backs Another for U.N. Agency Post Now Held by Democrat.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Norris E. Dodd, a New Deal Democrat, evidently will be replaced as director-general of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson announced yesterday that the United States will seek election of Dr. P. V. Cordon, former administrator of the department's agricultural research administration, to succeed Dodd.

While the other FAO members could insist on Dodd's retention, there appeared to be little likelihood that would occur. Dodd, whose FAO term expires late this year, has been director-general since 1948. FAO has its headquarters in Rome.

Dodd started his career as a pharmacy clerk at Haines, Ore. He soon became interested in farming. In the early days of the Roosevelt New Deal, he was called to Washington to take a job in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

He later became head of the AAA and then Under Secretary of Agriculture.

Benson did not say why this country was shifting from Dodd to Cordon. He said the decision was made after consultation with the President, the Secretary of State and leaders of Congress and farm organizations.

The secretary said, however, that Dodd had "reached heights of distinction in world affairs" through his service with the FAO.

Dick Haymes's Creditors Set Up Group to Control His Finances

Budget Plan Offered to Pay Debts Out of Crooner's Earnings of $150,000 a Year.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 29 (AP)—A creditors' committee is going to exercise control of the finances of Dick Haymes, crooner who married Rita Hayworth last week.

The singer's lawyer, Robert Eaton, said last night that Haymes has no assets although he earns about $150,000 a year and figures to boost his earnings to $200,000 this year.

Eaton met with the creditors yesterday and presented a plan to budget Haymes's earnings as an alternative to bankruptcy. Present at the meeting were about a dozen of the singer's bigger creditors and a representative of the Department of Internal Revenue.

Eaton said the claims of all creditors filled eight typewritten pages, that he owed $55,000 in taxes, and that the smallest debt was $2.50 to a drug store and the largest nearly $30,000.

SOVIET SLOWS WAR OUTPUT TO RAISE MORE VEGETABLES

LONDON, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Kremlin today ordered its war factories partially to switch over to manufacture of farm tractors in order to help increase the Soviet Union's potato and vegetable output.

The decree was issued by the Council of Ministers, headed by Premier Malenkov, and the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party.

The decree, broadcast by Moscow radio, instructed the Soviet Ministry of Defense Industry to insure an output of 5000 tractors in 1954 and to double this the following year.

Tractor building is usually the province of the Ministry of Machine Building which will obviously continue to run its own plants.

Like a previous decree on livestock, today's action promised the farmers bonus pay for potato and vegetable production above quotas, and wrote off past deficits in deliveries of these products to the state.

RUSSIA REPORTED BUILDING OUTER MONGOLIA ARSENALS

TAIPEH, Formosa, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Nationalist Interior Ministry's Ta Tao news agency, which claims underground contacts on the China mainland, said today Russia is developing the satellite state of Outer Mongolia as an arsenal for Red China.

Ta Tao said Russia has built three big arsenals in Outer Mongolia, each of them bigger than the arsenal at Talyuan, capital of China's Shanxi province.

TAVERN KEEPER SHOT IN BRIEF EXCHANGE

Man in Bar Fires at Manager After Asking for Bus Line Directions.

Frank Jakubiak, manager of the tavern at Polish-American Hall, 1938 Cass avenue, was wounded in an exchange of revolver shots early today with a man in what police believe was a holdup attempt.

Jakubiak was checking the cash register at 12:40 a.m. and chatting with a friend, Fred Rau, 1916 Cass avenue, when two men, both Negroes, entered the open front door. One of them asked, "where do we get the Lee bus?"

As Jakubiak walked from behind the bar to give directions, the man drew a revolver and fired a shot, wounding Jakubiak in the chest. Jakubiak drew his own revolver and fired four shots at the pair, who ran south in Sarsfield place and got away.

Jakubiak, 58 years old, lives at 3026 Arlington avenue. He is in City Hospital.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Ever since 1947, there have been repeated rumors of a coming setback in business...stern warnings of a depression ahead...periodic "scars" which set us thinking about our jobs and our investments.

And now that fighting has stopped in Korea...now that many previous shortages of consumer goods are turning into surpluses...now that sharp breaks have occurred in the stock market...the talk is around again: Will early 1954 be the time that will bring a slump?

Many signs point that way, according to U.S. News & World Report. But it seems equally certain that —

Any downturn from present boom levels will be moderate; any setback for business will be temporary; any slump will be a "slump" only when you compare it to the roaring inflation of the past few years.

Here are 7 solid reasons why the bottom won't drop out once the boom begins to fade:

1. Taxes will be reduced, tax policies altered to encourage more spending, heavier business investment.
2. Interest rates will be eased, money will be loosened.
3. Federal spending will go on. Big spending by Government looks to be a permanent underpinning for business.
4. People have money to spend. Since 1950 individuals have been putting aside nearly 8 per cent of their income after taxes. Liquid funds of individuals has now reached record high of $239 billion.
5. Population continues to rise — Past 160 million now, 175 million expected by 1960 — keeping consumer needs high.
6. Farm price supports will stay on the books, removing any chance of wholesale foreclosures, 1929-style.
7. Built-in safety devices in our economy, such as government-insured bank deposits, unemployment compensation, pensions, etc. will avert bank-runs, bread lines.

Drop in total activity from boom peak to low point is NOT expected to be more than 10 per cent. Decline is likely to center in hard-roads industries. Producers of soft goods probably can count on rising output and rising sales for the remainder of this year, with only a moderate drop in 1954. Rising population assures a high rate of food consumption. Consumption of tobacco and gasoline will not be curtailed much. Decline among soft-goods industries is expected to come chiefly in clothing and household furnishings.

But no matter what does happen in the months ahead, it will obviously be a good time to stay on your toes, look ahead, be alert for new trends and sudden changes. And that's where U.S. News & World Report can help you so much.

The editors of U.S. News & World Report have shown by their analyses that almost every important development that crashes into the headlines — whether it's political, military, or economic — is preceded by a build-up of the forces involved. Big changes, whether they happen in Iran, Korea, Washington, Moscow, New York, or anywhere else, usually "telegraph their punches."

By keen observation of news-in-the-making, our editors (situated right here in Washington) are often able to tell their 625,000 readers what to do about tomorrow's news today. They give you "news you can use." News of important changes to expect in prices — wages — employment conditions — politics — taxes — world affairs — business prospects — government controls — and how these changes will affect your business and personal affairs. Readers are helped to answer vital questions like these:

Will my son be drafted shortly? Will the truce hold up in Korea? Is my line of business likely to slump? How much tax reduction — if any — can be expected in the next session of Congress? Is there likely to be another war crisis soon?

Should I build a new house? Or stay where I am? Are any of my investments in danger? How can I build a "nest egg" in times like these? What will a new Russian "peace offensive" mean to me?

STOCKS MIXED AIRCRAFT AFTER AIRCRAFT LIFT

Selling in Rail Group Follows Buying on Step Up in Jet Plane Production.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP)—The stock market closed with a mixed price pattern today after a retreat from an early advance.

The aircrafts headed an early rise, but the railroads slipped lower and started the retreat. Trading was quiet.

Gains and losses spread out over a range of around a point either way with plus signs holding the edge.

Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed unchanged at 103.3.

The rail stock index lost 6 of a point, industrial rose 2 of a point and utilities gained 3 of a point.

Dow-Jones industrials closed off .02 of a point, the rails 43 and the utilities up .20.

The market broadened to 1116 issues from 1080 yesterday. There were 479 gainers, 371 losers, 266 unchanged. There were 19 new 1953 lows and 10 new highs.

Trading amounted to an aggregate 1,170,000 shares as compared with 1,150,000 shares traded yesterday.

Business expanded as prices rose and contracted as the market gave ground.

The aircrafts were boosted along in their early advance by the Government's decision to step up production of the newest jet types. At the same time it was indicated that aircraft production cutbacks had been completed.

Railroads never were very robust, and in the early afternoon they turned down. At the same time, minus signs started appearing in steels, motors, oils, coppers, chemicals, and in other areas of the market.

Pacific Western Oil was a strong feature in the oil section with a gain that at one time went to between 2 and 3 points. The company has a half interest in the Kuwait area where American Independent Oil Co. brought in a third oil well.

Among higher stocks were Southern California Edison, Pan American World Airways, Johnson & Johnson, American Can, and General Motors.

Business World

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP)—Business failures in the week ended Sept. 24 totaled 152 compared with 182 in the preceding week and 156 in the like week a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet reported.

Rice-Stix Inc. declared the regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents a common share payable Nov. 2, to stock of record Oct. 15.

Wabash Railroad Co. August net income was $704,232 compared with a $537,235 in August 1952, both after capital and sinking fund provisions. For the eight months of the current year net was $6,473,369 against $4,888,254 in the corresponding period a year ago.

The average market price of all bond issues listed on the New York Stock Exchange was 95.58 on Aug. 31. This compared with 95.82 at the close of July, and it was the smallest since June 30, 1953 when the average figure was 95.30.

A New York Stock Exchange membership sold Tuesday for $43,000, an increase of $1000 over the last sale. The current bid is $41,000 while $44,000 is asked.

Stockholders of the State Bank & Trust Company of Wellston, at meeting Nov. 30 will vote on a proposal to increase the authorized capital stock of the bank from $300,000 to $500,000 by transferring $100,000 from undivided profits of the bank to the present capital, and to declare and issue a stock dividend of 33 1/3 per cent to each stockholder of record as of Nov. 16, (said stock dividend to be issued on Dec. 21, 1953), and by the sale of 4000 shares of capital stock of the State Bank & Trust Company ($25 par) for $60 per share by the offer of said 4000 shares of capital stock for subscription by stockholders of record, as of Nov. 16.

OLD RELIABLE KANSAS LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OFFERS LOW-COST PYRAMID PLAN WITH NEW BROAD BENEFITS!

There's A New Way To Be Sure about your health protection

CASH FOR HOSPITAL, DOCTOR BILLS, MEDICINES, LIVING EXPENSES, ETC.

Nobody these days says, "I don't want insurance against hospital bills, doctor bills, or being out of work because of illness." The only questions are: Can I afford it? Will it fit my family? How reliable is the company in back of the protection?

On this page you'll see that protection can be fit to your family. If you will send in the coupon or telephone you'll find out quickly just how much the right kind of protection will cost. And if you will investigate Pyramid Life Insurance Company, you'll know that as a company doing business for 40 years, it has passed all the tests of reliability and integrity. It is a well known, well established company you can depend on to serve you well.

Ask to look at Pyramid policies before you make up your mind. Read them over. Notice that there is no fine print in a Pyramid Plan. Everything for which you are covered—as well as any limitations—is clearly defined.

No age limit.

Pyramid has a plan for every age.

You don't have to join a group.

Clear, easy-to-understand policies.

Pyramid has never raised rates once a plan was issued.

Children may remain in the program at the same low rates even after becoming adults.

Protection in any licensed hospital anywhere with any licensed doctor (including osteopath).

You and your family are covered for...

100 days of hospitalization for each sickness or injury the first year . . . with benefits increasing every year you carry the Pyramid Plan.

Up to $20.00 a day for hospital room and meals for 100 days.

Payment for medical treatment at home, in the doctor's office or at the hospital—anywhere in the world.

Full out-patient benefits. Payment for X-rays, basal metabolism, emergency treatment, etc., even though you are not confined to the hospital.

Polio and maternity benefits as well as many other compensations not included in some other plans.

Up to $300.00 in advance in case of accidental injury.

Operating room, anesthetics, laboratory fees, drugs, medicine, iron lung, ambulance, blood transfusions, oxygen tents.

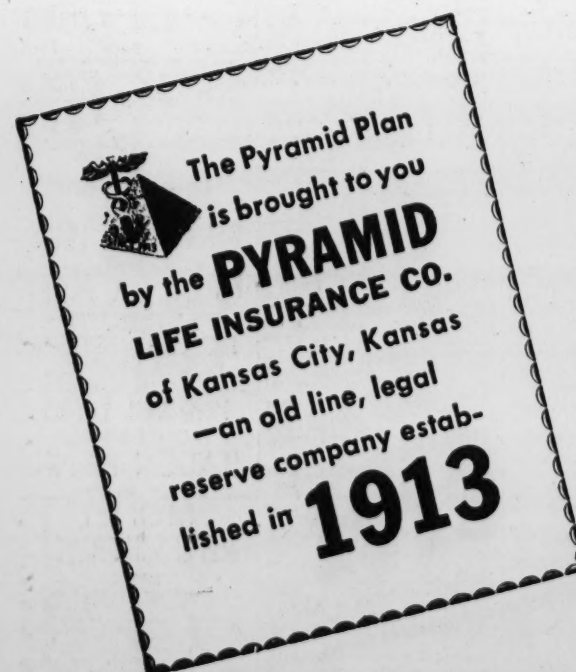

Even if you already have some hospitalization insurance . . . your bills may be too high to be covered fully—but Pyramid can supply the necessary extra cash. You keep the excess to pay your other expenses.

You don't have to go to a hospital to collect.

Costs only a few pennies a day... gives you so much safety!

THIS IS WHAT THE LOW-COST PYRAMID PLAN CAN DO FOR YOU pay up to $20.00 per day for Hospital Room—up to 100 days for each illness or accident pay up to $150.00 for doctor bills—at home, in the hospital, in his office

Sure-Fire Misses

Made-in-Hollywood Label Stuck on TV

By John Crosby

book and oh, brother! It's painful to see so much talent wasted on stuff like this.

THE BIG SCENE on the opening show involved Milland and a girl he didn't know was in his house going in and out of a bathroom, one of those things where one person closes one door while someone else opens another one, just missing each other by inches. It's been done before. And it'll be done again. As a matter of sober fact, CBS was up to its hips in people closing doors and opening them last week. The Red Buttons show, a very good show ordinarily, had about six people running in and out of doors. Same act but more people.

"Meet Mr. McNulty," which is the name of this unfortunate enterprise, is just plain silly. The comic strips progressed way beyond this level of humor a good many years ago and it does seem a shame that television, which has become a very big business, has to go through it all over again.

THERE'S A CHARACTER, for example, an iron-jawed old dame who is principal of the school and Milland's boss. She has some great lines like "Well!" which she pronounces with upraised eyebrows and distended nostrils. When she isn't welling around the stage, it's peopled by Milland's pal, a wise-cracking strutting idiot, who acts as decoy for those bathroom scenes.

LORETTA YOUNG'S SERIES is called "Letter to Loretta" and is supposed to be based on the fan letters she has received as a movie actress. A good many people have written in for advice, apparently, and these dramas are based on the letters with Miss Young acting out the part of the letter-writers.

Loretta Young is a very beautiful and ageless girl who has learned a great deal about acting since I first saw her in films years ago. She's an astonishingly good comedienne and the first part of her show was done with a professional polish on the acting, direction and writing. It was a story about a girl who sells perfume, thus attracting the attention of a Philadelphia Main Liner. He takes her home to his family of stuffed shirts with matrimony in mind. Up to this point, the show was a model of television high comedy.

Then the old Hollywood urge toward silliness arose and things began coming apart. It was a triumph of personal magnetism that Miss Young rose above her material. She has enormous charm, as well as beauty, and she has a whole bagful of acting tricks. Frankly, I don't see how they can miss with this girl—but then I keep reminding myself not to underestimate Hollywood. They can miss with some awfully sure-fire people.

Last Weeding

By Christopher Billopp

THE last weeding is done late in the season. Women are better than men at weeding because they like details.

A man regards weeding as a waste of his time. He could be accomplishing much more with a power-driven machine. He could be plowing a plot of ground for next season's planting. Or he could be cutting down underbrush on an unsightly piece of his property, or hauling earth or attaching a rotary saw and sawing wood.

A woman does not feel at home running a power-driven machine. She is much more at home weeding. On the other hand, a man considers it undignified to be down on his hands and knees groveling in the earth.

He cannot picture men of his acquaintance weeding. They would find some way out of it. It can be argued that weeding is good for a man because it puts into play muscles that would not otherwise be used. But the men of his acquaintance would contend that they get better play for their muscles at golf or dry-fly casting.

A man who is weeding asks himself why he is there. He reflects that he should be employing others to do the weeding for him. He asks himself if a man who has to do weeding and cannot engage others to do the weeding for him can consider himself a success in life.

It takes a great gift of self-persuasion to convince him that he has not been browbeaten into weeding, and that he is doing it of his own free will because it is gratifying to his women-folk.

It takes great strength of character, too, to stick to it when he knows that he could put an end to it all and get back to a power-driven machine by the simple measure of pulling up one sacred plant that isn't a weed.

The Dean

Speaks Up

Two Famous Case Histories

By Adele Starbird

ISADORA DUNCAN, the dancer, and George Sand, the novelist—she was Baroness Duvent—offer some interesting parallels, though they were not contemporaries.

All I know about Duncan comes from her autobiography, which I found one rainy and idle day in a hotel library. Sand's life I know rather well. Though she was brilliant and the dancer was not, their experiences were remarkably similar, and the conclusions they arrived at are instructive, especially for our day. It is too bad that Dr. Kinsey could not have interviewed them.

Both women were famous, each reaching the top in her profession, and making a lot of money. They were neither mercenary nor vengeful. They moved in the best bohemian circles, and knew the writers and artists and musicians of their time. They were "femmes galantes," women who recognized no conventions, who pursued what they called love as an end in itself.

THEY WROTE ABOUT the men with whom they were briefly associated, and the men returned the compliment. Since everybody involved was good copy, most of the writing was sold at a nice figure. Even though both women were great egotists, they were singularly free from that petty vanity which insists on face-saving. Their objectivity is perhaps their best trait, for it is a rare woman who can tell the truth about herself.

So here we have two case histories, valuable because they escape the obvious. These women did not die in the gutter or the attic, forlorn and abandoned; on the contrary they prospered. But they never found what they were looking for.

Apparently they weren't able to hold the affections of any man. Duncan claimed that she had never abandoned a lover, that she was in every case the one who was abandoned. As for Sand, she never inspired a single great devotion; men grew weary of her.

SAND THOUGHT she was entirely emancipated, unshackled by public opinion. But I happened across a letter she wrote Sainte-Beuve about a party she hesitated to attend; she wanted to know how she would be received, she wouldn't risk a snub. On another occasion she wrote that there was no possibility of happiness for a woman outside of marriage. The Swedish feminist, Ellen Key, doubted very much whether Sand had ever known what it was to be in love.

As for Duncan, she said at the close of her life that she realized on looking back that she had never known the love of a real man; she had loved only neurotics.

It appears then that Isadora Duncan and George Sand cheated themselves; the love they pursued eluded them. Romantic love has chastity as a prerequisite. It is never the reward of the shallow or the promiscuous.

Right and Wrong

By Frances Ilg, M.D., and Louise Ames, Ph.D.
Of the Gesell Institute of Child Development

IT'S easy enough in most instances to tell what is the right thing to do, most adults think. Easy enough to tell what is right—not always as easy to do what is right. So with the mid-teenager. The 14-year-old often tells us that it is easy to tell right from wrong: "You just know," he says, or "You can just sort of sense it." Or, "Just go by common sense." Or "Know it automatically."

OUR NEXT QUESTION IS, "If you can tell right from wrong, do you always try to do what is right?" "Not always," the majority tell us frankly. "I always can tell right from wrong," they say, "but I don't always do the right thing."

Girls as a rule are, at least by their own telling, a little more conforming than are boys. But more boys at 14 than at any other teen age we have studied, admit to at least occasional wrongdoing.

"But not in really big things," they usually add. "Not stealing or anything like that." That is, by 14, bad behavior is not just accidental, or the result of immaturity, rage or temper as it sometimes is in the younger child. Rather, it is often the individual's own considered decision that the behavior is not strictly right, but that it is a small wrong and therefore not too harmful.

BUT MANY FOURTEENS go further than this in departure from what the adult would like. Because now, if not earlier, they are beginning to depart from parental standards in their decisions about right and wrong.

"My decisions about things are beginning to be a lot different from mother's," they typically tell us. Or, "I would see what my mother and father said, and then I would see what I thought."

And—a step further toward maturity and independence—there is the beginning of acceptance of what their friends think, as weighed against what Mother and Dad believe and counsel.

Thus 14-year-old Betty tells us: "The way my mother would think I should do and the way I feel would be the best often are two radically different things. I do what would work out best with the kids, and then I sort of temper it down with my mother."

Some of you may not agree with us, but we think that Betty is doing a good job. This is often a very tricky balance for the adolescent—to manage somehow to do what would work out best with the kids and still please mother and father. No mean accomplishment!

Social Problems

By Emily Post

MOTHER tells me: "Whenever my daughter has a date with a young man she is never ready when he comes to call. She thinks it gives her added importance to deliberately keep a boy friend waiting for as long as 15 minutes before coming downstairs. I think it makes him feel uncomfortable having to sit with the family all this time and I'm afraid if she keeps this up she will become very unpopular. Won't you please give your opinion?"

I agree with you. If she wants to lose her boy friends she couldn't pursue a better method.

DEAR MRS. POST: Two young couples go into a restaurant and sit in a booth for four, it is best for the girls to sit on one side together and the men across, or for each girl on a side with her own friend next to her?

Answer: There is no definite rule—generally a boy and girl sit next to each other and the other boy and girl opposite them; married couples are apt to sit opposite each other.

'Down in the Holler'

'Delightsomeness' of Ozark Speech

The 'Furriner' May Not Understand Dialect, but It's Music to His Ears

By Vance Randolph

With George P. Wilson

Third and last installment from a condensation of Vance Randolph's latest book on Ozark folklore, "Down in the Holler," just published by the University of Oklahoma Press.

"EVEN the stranger within our gates," said the late President Walter Williams of the University of Missouri, "when he hears the Missouri dialect before the old-maid dictionary makers robbed it of much of its charm, marvels at its surpassing beauty. He may not be able at first to understand it, any more than he understands classical music, but he will rave over its delightsomeness."

The solid citizens of Ozark towns scoffed at William's admission that the local speech might be difficult for outsiders to understand. These fellows feel, of course, that they speak the standard American English and that it is the "furriners" who are afflicted with brogues and dialects.

The term "furriner" is applied to anything or anybody outside the Ozark region. A man from Illinois, Indiana or Iowa is just as surely a "furriner" as if he came from Germany or Switzerland.

I remember a wealthy dowager from Kansas City who tried to claim kin with a snuff-chewing old woman at Pikeville, Mo. Both families had been raised at Pea Ridge, Ark., but the old woman was not impressed by fine clothes and big automobiles. "Your gran'paw's dog might have run through my gran'paw's orchard," she said scornfully to the rich lady, "but that don't make us no kin."

A dignified old woman from St. Louis became alarmed over the way our huck driver whirled along a narrow mountain trail. She admonished him in no uncertain language. "All you got to do, lady," said he, "is to hold your head up and keep your tail over the dashboard."

One often hears a hill man say, "keep your tail in the water," which means no more than "be calm." If a cow falls down, the farmer often pulls her tail until she gets up.

"I remember you, all right," shouted a hill man to an elderly lady he had not seen in 50 years. "Why I'd know your old hide in a tan yard." The poor woman looked horrified. It isn't so funny, maybe, unless you could have seen the lady.

I knew a boy in Taney county, Mo., who asked a girl to go for a walk down by the river. "I don't want to go way down there, Elmer," she answered, "it's too fur an' snakey." Never having heard this before, I thought it was the girl's creation. But E. E. Dale reports "too fur and snakey" as a familiar pioneer expression.

OUR neighbor's son was a "thin an' ready feller," about 18 years old, of the type described as "fish-pole high an' gunbarrel straight." A great favorite with the ladies, he was the best square dancer for miles around and nobody ever heard him admit fatigue.

"I've saw that boy plow from dawn till dark," a relative said admiringly, "then wash his feet an' dance till the roosters crowed for day!" "My man he dances fit to bust a gizzard-string," a woman told me in her husband's presence. "Soon as my back's turned, he's out on the floor with them Horse Creek gals, jest a-makin' their dress tails pop." She meant that he swung them with unnecessary enthusiasm.

"You're a great one to talk,"

the husband retorted, "You've had them Pine Run feller's claws in your flanks ever since you was big enough to caper."

This last was a reference to the waist-twirl. A very strait-laced Ozark girl does not permit a partner to put his arm around her waist at all but is swung by a hand-clasp only. The two methods of swinging are known as "biscuits" and "cornbread," as in this old square-dance call: "Meet your pardner, pat her on the head."

If she don't like biscuits, feed her corn bread. Which means if she doesn't wish to be swung by the waist, give her the old-fashioned hand swing.

Asked if he would vote for Harry Truman in 1948, an Arkansas Democrat answered, "Yes, it looks like duck or no dinner," meaning that he didn't particularly care for Truman.

A more or less legendary Ozarkier cried out, "The wolves killed my goats, hawks got the chickens, night-riders burned the barn, an' a preacher run off with my wife!" Also, he added, the dry weather ruined his crops, and the mowing machine was busted, anyhow. Said he: "I've got a mind to quit farmin' and go to work!"

Among the most striking features of the hill man's speech is his habitual use of picturesque comparisons as "hot as a later," "hot as a fire-cracker," "hot as a parsnip," or even "hot as a fire in a pepper-mill." Sometimes these expressions are meant literally, but often they refer to temper or temperament, rather than actual physical temperature.

REFERRING to his own sons, who were always going into Joplin and fighting with the police, a man declared, "Them boys is mean as their hide will hold!" This is a pretty strong saying. He meant that it was physically impossible for them to be any more vicious; given size and strength, they would lay waste whole continents.

A woman at Picher, Okla., had the same idea of physical limitation in mind when she said, "If Joe ever gets to be a bigger liar, he'll have to be put on weight!"

It is easy to see what is meant by "busy as a stump-tailed cow in fly-time." One often hears "busy as a fiddler's elbow."

A man told me that his wife, who had lived through the great tornado at Green Forest, Ark., was "jumpy as a fox in a forest fire" every time she heard the wind whistle.

"Sharp as a razor" and "keen as a briar" are common everywhere, but in the Ozarks one often hears "dull as a frow," a reference to the tool used in riveting out shingles and clapboards.

"Duller than a widder-woman's ax" is common also, and needs no explanation. An unsatisfactory knife is so dull you "could ride to mill on it."

A man who is very much inebriated is said to be "full as a fall corncrib," or "drunker than two judges."

When a villager remarked that "honest carpenters are scarce as preachers in paradise," the carpenter and even the preacher knew what he meant.

The hill man who answered a demand for money with the question, "Won't hen's teeth do?" meant that cash was nonexistent at his house.

Clink O'Neill, of Day, Mo., used to quote one of the Bear Creek philosophers: "As long as you got money it's a plenty; but when it's all gone it gits awful scarce."

THE END.

Human Rights Awards

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK.

LAST Friday we went to Richmond after a very delightful visit in Washington. Among other things, while in the capital, I had a very pleasant luncheon with the Indian Ambassador at his home. I remembered the house when Mrs. Pandit was the ambassador, for it gives one a great sense of isolation since you look over Rock Creek Park with all its trees and you might be 100 miles from a big city. I had the pleasure of meeting the ambassador's eldest daughter and her little 6-day-old son. I can never resist the charm of a baby; their mere helplessness is so appealing. But this youngster opened his eyes and looked around as if he really knew what he was looking at.

In the late afternoon I went for the first time to the clubhouse of the American Veterans' committee. They have made it possible for a group of foreign young people, drawn largely from the various embassies, to meet in the clubhouse. These young people were on hand to meet me with the most lovely old-fashioned bouquet of white carnations. The clubhouse knows no segregation, since veterans of World War II are both white and colored.

AFTER THE RECEPTION, the Washington chapter of A.V.C. held its annual Human Rights Day dinner in the dining room at the airport. One side of all windows so you can watch the planes arriving from many parts of the world.

Four awards were made, one to an A.V.C. veteran, one to a Washington judge, one to a Washington clergyman, and one to me. All of the awards were given for work in the field of human relations and for courage to stand back of the belief that all men are brothers and all human beings are worthy of respect. The big dining room was filled and I thought it was a very successful occasion for this young group of veterans to put on.

FRIDAY MORNING I was at the airport to catch the plane for Richmond and my heart sank when I was told that there was fog in Richmond which was delaying planes coming up and that there might be a delay going down. We were late, about a half hour late, and the Richmond committee had to make a slight change in plans. They invited a group of American Association for the United Nations leaders to meet at the same time as the press instead of having two separate meetings. In this way we made up time, and met with our next group of organization leaders at 11 o'clock in a large room nearby. I was told that there were some 400 members present at this meeting, plus all those who met first with the press.

Mr. Eichelberger and I explained the purpose of our trip. I told of the hopes I had for building more strength for the United Nations throughout the country. And Eichelberger told something of the philosophy and of the background of the American Association for the United Nations. Then the audience took over the meeting and asked questions of us, beginning with a clergyman who wanted to know how to awaken interest among church people, since he found great apathy. And finally ending with a young teen-age girl from one of the high schools who wanted to know how teenagers could be useful and where they could get information on teen-age activities.

2 WILL STUDENTS LEARN MORE FROM COLORED EDUCATIONAL FILMS? YES ☐ NO ☐

1 ARE WOMEN BETTER JUDGES OF SELF-CONFIDENCE AS EXPRESSED BY THE VOICE ALONE? YES ☐ NO ☐

3 IS MAN THE ONLY ANIMAL WITH POOR TEETH? YES ☐ NO ☐

Answer to Question 1. PROBABLY. DePaul University psychologists had groups of unseen speakers talk over a public address system to an audience of men and women college students who had already been given "Tests of Self-Confidence." Some speakers were very inferior, some very superior in self-confidence. The judgments were not very accurate, but the women listeners seemed to be more consistent in appraising the voices correctly.

Answer to Question 2. Apparently not. A. W. VanderMeer showed high school students both colored and black and white educational films. While they preferred the former, they didn't learn any more from one type than the other, although there was some slight indication they remembered a little more from the colored films.

Answer to Question 3. Yes. Dean R. F. Sognnaes, Harvard University Dental School, writes that tooth decay seems peculiar to the human species. Even primitive peoples have less perfect teeth than wild monkeys. Although tooth decay increases with civilization, there is little doubt science will soon discover a remedy for it.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

"To Face It Out."

"TO face it out," may, of course, signify "to stand up to" danger or any other testing, if the speaker intends this to be its meaning. But the significance of this phrase is rather on the side of "putting on a front," effrontery in the sense of bluffing; that is has been long usage, and the explanation lies in its origin.

In the light of its history, the poker player is about the best current example of a person "facing it out." For this seems to be originally an expression of the card table, in the form, "To face it out with a card of ten!"

The "card of ten" alludes, of course, to a "ten," or a card of 10 spots or figures.

If it is poker today, in which one "faces it out," yesterday it was a game called "primero." It is four and a half centuries now since these directions got into print: "To play well at Primero—to face and vie, and to hold and give over when time serveth—are works of the imagination!" Thus "to face it out with a card of ten" took "some doing"—or just "to face it out."

Damp Basements.

AS we've said so many times before, all sorts of things can make a basement damp. Sometimes it's a leak in the floor or walls that allows water to get in and sometimes it's just lack of proper ventilation. A lot of basements are damp simply because they are not kept clean and tidy.

If your basement contains a good deal of miscellaneous junk such as old newspapers and magazines, articles of clothing, uphostered furniture and the like you can bet your bottom dollar that in time they will absorb a good deal of moisture right out of the air. Once they become saturated they'll keep the air in the basement damp for a good long while.

Piles of ashes, of course, can absorb a whole lot of moisture and not only will they keep the basement damp but they'll corrode any metal that they come in contact with.

In many homes there are holes of varying size in the basement floor put there for one purpose or another. These allow the moisture in the soil to get into the basement. The remedy here is to get hold of some concrete and cover up these openings. The covering should be three or four inches thick to be effective.

Some homes today don't have concrete basement floors—just earth. A temporary remedy here is to cover the earth with waterproof building paper or sheets of roll roofing. A better idea is to put down the paper and cover this with four inches of concrete.

Martha Carr's

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF. OPINION

Dear Martha:

I WONDER if other mothers are faced with a problem such as mine, that of taking care of the children who live nearby. I have two of my own, one a baby who really keeps me busy. The other school-age children are in my home more than they are their own. I don't want to be rude to them as they don't understand, but surely their parents should know that someone else just doesn't want to rear them. I keep my older child in the yard or the house as I won't think of letting her barge into other people's homes. I don't visit with any of these people, but speak if I meet them.

DISGUSTED.

No, you don't want to be rude to the children, but you can certainly tell them they'd "better be running along home now because Susan has to come in and can't play any more." Mothers have been sending neighbor children home for many years, and it's a good practice to follow. If their parents don't insist that they remain at home, or at least limit their visits, the neighbors must protect their own homes from the constant clamor of a neighborhood gang in the parlor or on the front porch.

Dear Martha:

I AM 16 and very much in love with a boy I was going steady with. Now that we have broken up I feel that life is not worth living. I know you'll say I've got the whole world in front of me and that I'm too young to be in love but I am and I can't help it. When we broke up he said he would come over sometime or call me for a date, but it has been five months since I've seen him. I have been miserable. I have been out with other boys but I only think of him and I know the boys don't have any fun because I hardly speak to them. Please help me! RUDY.

I wish I could help. But you must help yourself, Rudy. I have never denied that girls of your age could care just as deeply for someone and be hurt just as terribly as an older person. But life can't always be just the way we want it. There are bound to be some awful jolts for most of us. And the way we react to those jolts shows what kind of people we are, whether we're willing to accept defeat and let disappointments poison our spirit, or whether we can accept them with grace and gallantry. It must be up to you.

IN ANSWER TO Worried: Will you let me make an appointment for you with someone who can help? I believe with all my heart that no matter what the past has been, the future can be good. Your first step must be to regain your faith, not only in your God but in yourself and in your ability to be the kind of person you want to be. That may be a hard step, but you can achieve it. Go to your own pastor. If, however, he is not available, please get in touch with me, giving me your religious faith, and I will make an appointment with someone who can talk out this problem with you. Rest assured, the help is yours whenever you want it.

Guilty Conscience

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

A GUILTY conscience is one of the commonest possessions of human beings, and it may be one of the most destructive. Many a man or woman carries some secret into marriage, which will poison the whole relationship and wreck the happiness of the home. A letter from Miss T., asking me how much she is obliged to tell her fiancé about her past life, brings back to my mind the experience of Anita, whom I counseled a long time ago. She was young and pretty and had married a fine young man; but they came back from the honeymoon much sooner than they had planned.

From the moment she said, "I do," Anita had shown no signs of being a happy bride. She had moped and wept a large part of the time. To her husband's anxious inquiry, "What's the matter, darling?" she would make no reply, or answer, "Nothing," which was so obviously untrue that it infuriated him. He naturally supposed that he must have done something, unknowingly, which hurt her, but he could get no explanation except gloom and tears. In such circumstances there was not much point in prolonging the honeymoon (the name in this case was a ghastly joke); so they returned home. Her mother insisted that Anita come and consult me.

SHE QUICKLY TOLD HER STORY. Two years previously she had been an unwed mother. The baby was taken from her at birth and put out for adoption—she never saw it. Since this happened a thousand miles away, she thought her husband would never know it unless she told him, and she had determined to keep this knowledge to herself. Why unload her burden on him?—there was nothing he could do about it. She would bury the past and start life all over again. But she had greatly overestimated the strength of her determination and ability. The wedding overwhelmed her with guilt—yet how could she tell him now?

But he would have to be told. That was plain enough. "You tell him," she begged me. I did so. He took it calmly. I sent him into the room where she was waiting, and closed the door. They left an hour later by another exit and I have not seen them since, but her mother tells me they have made an excellent marriage and are already happy with a little boy of their own.

THAT'S THE STORY, Miss T. Anita would have saved herself (and him) a great deal of suffering by telling it to him when he first became seriously interested in her. Some girls could have kept this to themselves and lived with it alone for a lifetime. Anita couldn't. My own belief is that she owed it to him, anyhow, to tell him that she had a child—but I suppose she would have to decide that for herself. It was her problem, not mine.

You don't explain just what your own "secret" is, Miss T., but I'd say in general that you must tell him anything that might affect his own life.

If it's something that would not affect him, you need not tell him, provided—and this is important—provided he won't find it out from some one else, and provided you are sure you can live with it alone. But you can profit by Anita's experience because plenty of other women have made the same mistake of thinking that they could keep their own secrets and then finding out that they couldn't.

Try and Stop Me

Anheuser-Busch's First 100 Years

Book Detailing Brewery's History Gives Intimate Glimpse of Men Who Made It Famous

By Peter Wyden

WHEN the late August A. Busch Sr. was 19 years old he wanted to become a cowboy. His father, Adolphus Busch, was not pleased. Nevertheless, he had Gussie properly attired and outfitted with a six-shooter and sent him out west. Within six months, Gussie was back in St. Louis, firmly convinced that he belonged to the brewing business, after all. Several decades later the same Gussie, then president of the Anheuser-Busch beer empire, faced a highly critical audience. A crisis was at hand. Prohibition had just been repealed. Beer was back, but the company's Budweiser brand was doing poorly. The public's taste buds had been pampered with sweet mixers that would kill the raw flavor of prohibition liquor. Budweiser salesmen claimed their beer was too bitter.

The company's sales convention took a vote and the majority was clearly in favor of a sweeter Budweiser. Then President Gussie took the stand. He wasn't going to lift a finger, he boomed, to change the taste of his favorite beer. "It is not the product which is on trial, but the consumer," he proclaimed.

Budweiser was not changed, the customers promptly mended their wayward ways, and Gussie stood vindicated, as usual. Yet Gussie was hopelessly sentimental, too. Among the menagerie he maintained at the family's country place, Grant's farm, was an elephant named Tessie, reputedly the smallest in the world. Tessie loved Gussie and Gussie loved Tessie. A trainer was imported from Hollywood to teach Tessie tricks that might amuse Gussie's grandchildren.

One day a talent scout for Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey Circus met Tessie and persuaded Gussie to let her join a circus where she might be afforded with other elephants and be a joy to many more children. Tessie joined the circus and several years later the circus came to town. Gussie took his grandchildren to see Tessie, and the instant she stepped into her tent the little elephant trumpeted happily in recognition.

Gussie broke down and cried openly. These are the sort of intimate glimpses of St. Louis's famous beer barons which are afforded by a new 449-page history, "Making Friends Is Our Business—100 Years of Anheuser-Busch," written by Roland Krebs in collaboration with Percy J. Othwein and published by the brewery. It goes straight back to the first and most colorful Busch of all, Adolphus, the man President Taft called "Prince Busch."

It was a fitting title. Prince Adolphus officiated in a princely office equipped with a personal telegraph operator and a nearby room with a barber chair where he would have his elaborate mustaches trimmed. Next door, he built a company-owned hotel to put up guests. At home, No. 1 Busch place, which was razed in 1929, you might find Enrico Caruso singing for his supper and President Theodore Roosevelt booming forth about the state of business. Right at the back door were railroad tracks where the prince's private railroad car, "The Adolphus," a $50,000 present from

Although the new history celebrates 100 years of Anheuser-Busch, the world's largest brewery (70 city blocks) was born 101 years ago and it wasn't called Anheuser-Busch right away. Its cradle was the creation of a St. Louisan named Schneider (first name unknown), who started a brewery in 1852 and failed three years later (for reasons unknown). A competitor, Urban & Hammer, took it over, renamed it Bavarian Brewery, pepped it up a little, but failed in 1857. The main creditor, a wealthy soap manufacturer named Eberhard Anheuser, took it over and became the first president of the institution first called Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association.

EVER since "the family," an unceasing parade of sons, cousins and in-laws known by such names as Adie, Ebbe and Gussie.

Son tycoon Anheuser died all right in beer, but he soon turned over the brewery to his son-in-law, Adolphus Busch. Adolphus was born in Mainz, Germany, in 1839, the twenty-first child of Ulrich Busch, wine merchant and dealer in brewing supplies.

In 1857, just when Anheuser took over the struggling brewery, Adolphus persuaded his father to let him go to America in search of his fortune. Young Busch clerked on a Mississippi river steamer, fought as a corporal in the Union Army during the Civil War and then sold brewing supplies. Within five years after taking over Anheuser's brewery he raised production from 8000 to 18,000 barrels, and in 1876 when the company made 16 brands of beer, Adolphus gave birth to his greatest pride, Budweiser.

There's a story—long believed even by some Anheuser-Busch executives—that Adolphus was traveling in Bohemia, stopped for the night in a little town and was so impressed with the beer brewed by the local monks that he immediately made a deal with them to produce such beer in the United States. It was a romantic story—complete with the picture of Adolphus personally rushing a hunk of the strategic yeast across the Atlantic in an ice cream freezer—but there was nothing to it.

THE LATE AUGUST A. BUSCH SR., AT RIGHT, AND THE LATE ADOLPHUS BUSCH III GO FOR A RIDE WITH "TESSIE."

ADOLPHUS BUSCH AS A YOUNG MAN.

Actually Adolphus and a friend, Carl Conrad, carefully collaborated on the preparation of Budweiser in St. Louis with the understanding that Conrad's restaurant was to be the guinea pig for trying out the new brand. They used brewer's rice instead of corn, imported costly Saazer hops and then put the beer through a relatively lengthy aging process. These factors, especially the long and expensive aging, remain the main secrets of Budweiser to this day.

Adolphus' son, August A. Sr., took over the business at a critical time, just before World War I and prohibition. He supplied Navy submarines with Busch-built diesel engines (in World War II Anheuser-Busch also built glider fuselages and wing assemblies) and he anticipated the shutdown of beer production, the greatest tragedy in Budweiser's life.

August A. Sr., who carried a huntsman's horn around his estate and sounded it from various spots so he could see his deer herds answering the call, fought prohibition hard. And he stayed in business with malt syrups, with ice cream, refrigerator cabinets, vitamins, yeasts, starches, animal feeds, Kaffo (a coffee-flavored carbonated soft drink which shortly fizzled away) and, above all, Bevo.

Bevo (named after the Bohemian word for beer, "pivo") was a beer-like beverage with a negligible alcoholic content. It made a big hit. August OK'd $10,000,000 for what is still the largest single bottling plant in the world. But when prohibition forced him to squeeze out what little alcohol was still left Montgomery Osborne will each give a party for the bride when she returns from her wedding trip.

The 8:30 o'clock ceremony will take place at Ladue Chapel and the subsequent reception, at Bellevue Country Club.

Dr. Helen Gray, will be maid of honor for her sister and their sister-in-law, Mrs. Alfred T. Gray, Conway, Ark.; Miss Adams, Miss Rumer and Mrs. Trent will be bridesmaids. Frederick Grant Armstrong will attend his brother as best man. Ushers will be Miss Gray's brothers, Everett and Alfred Gray; Mr. Armstrong's cousin, Grant Evans, Hot Springs, Ark.; Mr. Hilmer, Powell Adams and Mr. Merrell.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Fordyce Jr. (Elizabeth Russe) of Tee Pee Ranch, Sheridan, Wyo., arrived yesterday to spend a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Russe, 5247 Westminster place. Mr. and Mrs. Russe returned a few days ago from a summer vacation. They spent two months at Algonquin Park, Ont., after which they visited their son and daughter-in-law, Comdr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Russe Jr., at Fairfax, Va., where Comdr. Russe is on duty with the Navy. Their final stop was a week's visit in Gatlinburg, Tenn.

Vacationing in Biloxi, Miss. are Mr. and Mrs. William Joseph Franey (Gloria Gross), 621 Westwood drive, Clayton.

DR. HELEN GRAY... TO BE MAID OF HONOR.

Webster Groves

MRS. J. HANDLY WRIGHT, 106 South Rockhill road, will return the end of the week from a trip to Birmingham, Ala., where she is visiting her mother, Mrs. Denton Harris. Last week she motored with her daughter, Miss Camilla, and son, J. Handy Jr., to Nashville, Tenn. Miss Wright has matriculated as a freshman at Vanderbilt University, Nashville. Her brother will be a senior.

Another young woman who was graduated from Webster Groves High School, last June, and is starting her college career at Vanderbilt is Miss Judy Heuer. Mr. and Mrs. William H. Heuer, 156 Gray avenue, returned Thursday from Nashville where they participated in orientation week activities.

Miss Harriet Remick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hanson, 26 Webster Acres, have enrolled at the University of Indiana, Bloomington. The three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Karl B. Woodson, 712 Catalpa avenue, begin the fall term at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., yesterday. Karl Jr., who last June received his bachelor of science degree from the university, is in the graduate school. Hurvey is a senior in the School of Business and Commerce and Robert is a freshman in the College of Liberal Arts.

Mr. and Mrs. John Spillman Jones, 209 South Maple avenue, have returned from a weekend visit to Kansas City with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Whitten Hudnall. A recent visitor at the Jones home was Mrs. W. L. C. Palmer of Independence, Mo.

Miss Diane Hutchinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hutchinson, 490 North Berry road, Glendale, was guest of honor at a cocktail party and shower given Sunday by Miss Helen Seevers, 7040 Clayton road, Clayton. Miss Hutchinson's engagement to Timothy Cornell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cornell, Ambleside, Creve Coeur, was announced recently. Miss Hutchinson is planning her wedding for Nov. 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Lauth, 524 Edgar Court, have

Miss Rosenthal Honor Guest at Many Parties

MANY parties have been given in honor of Miss Marie Terese (Margie) Rosenthal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Rosenthal, 7249 Northmoor drive, Clayton, who on Saturday will become the bride of Robert Lee Capps. The prospective bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. George A. Capps, 4605 Lindell boulevard.

The party series began early this month when Miss Emily Byrne, who is to be a bridesmaid, was hostess at a personal shower at her home, 6845 Bartmer avenue. They continued with another shower, miscellaneous, by Miss Dorothy Swanson, also a bridesmaid, at her home, 8 Anfred walk, University City; a kitchen shower by Mrs. Thomas Lawton, 6663 Devonshire avenue, Shrewsbury, and a luncheon and miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. William D. Walsh, 6327 Pershing avenue. Mr. and Mrs. George H. Capps, 17 Frontenac, Ladue, invited the engaged pair and a group of the bridesmaids' contemporaries to a Hawaiian party, a dinner and dance, Sept. 19 at their home, and Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Norman J. George and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Lawlor, were hosts and hostesses at a cocktail party at the George home, 16 West Brentmoor park.

Those who earlier this month gave cocktail parties were Mr. and Mrs. George B. Desloge, 7341 Pershing avenue, University City, Mr. and Mrs. Festus John Krebs Jr., 7520 York drive, Clayton, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Baxendale, 1343 McCutcheon road, Richmond Heights. Also planning a party is Miss Virginia Brungard, 3464 Hawthorne boulevard, the time and place to be decided later.

Events of this week will be the spinster dinner tonight to be given by Mrs. J. D. Ratchford (Sue Barnicle), her cousin's matron of honor, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Joseph R. Barnicle, 7321 Kingsbury boulevard; the bachelor dinner also tonight by George Desloge at his home, and the rehearsal dinner Thursday which the bridegroom's parents will have at the Missouri Athletic Club. The wedding, scheduled for 10 o'clock in the morning, will take place at Our Lady of Lourdes Church, with a reception afterward at the Park Plaza Hotel.

Miss Carroll Marie Farish, daughter of John Hamilton Farish Jr., 5221 Westminster place, sailed Saturday aboard the Ile de France for Europe. After an extensive tour of the continent, she will go to Florence, Italy where she will attend the University of Florence. Miss Farish, who will remain abroad for more than a year, was graduated from Marshallville College, Purchase, N.Y.

RIPLEY'S BELIEVE IT OR NOT

CHAPTER THIRTY.
"WHAT did you say?" Sally asked, feeling the pressure of Peter's arms like iron bands. "I love you," he repeated bitterly. "Although I've no intention of doing anything about it." Sally's spirits dropped to a new low. "You mean because I've been working as a maid?" Peter released her so quickly she almost fell. "No. It's because you are so ashamed of what you're doing that you don't even want me to read the story of your experiences. You lied to me that first night when you thought I had no way of learning the truth. What a snob you must be to think that would matter to me." "But it was Nympha you asked to marry you," she accused. "You seem to have forgotten that." "I've forgotten nothing," he declared. "Nympha has nothing to do with this. His arms were about her again. His lips seeking hers. "Tell me you love me in spite of the mistakes we've both made. Kiss me, darling! I've wanted to kiss you ever since your beautiful little face stared up at me in the class room." Unable to resist, Sally's lips met his. Remembering that he had said he had no intention of doing anything about it, humiliation swept over her in waves. Daring away from him Sally seized the manuscript from his desk and started for the door. "PETER shrugged. "All right if that's the way you really feel—take your story. I shan't try to stop you again. There are several matters I intended to explain but I can see now there is no use. Goodbye Sally!" He opened the door for her and would have accompanied her to her car across the street but she said, "No, Peter. Please don't come with me. I'd rather go alone." "Just as you like," he said then but he waited in the open doorway until she had started her car. Her last sight of him was with the light shining down upon his troubled face. Confused and unhappy, Sally drove to Bel-Air. It was almost two o'clock when she put the car into the garage. The lights were off upstairs so Tony and Linda must be asleep. But Sally's mother had left the kitchen lights on, and there were sandwiches wrapped in waxed paper waiting on the kitchen table. Sally ignored them. She would have liked a glass of hot milk but was too tired to heat it. She hoped she could go to bed without waking Margaret but her mother was not asleep. Her anxious eyes stared up from her pillow when Sally turned on the shaded night light. "Did you get it?" Margaret asked. Sally nodded and placed the manuscript on a shelf in her closet. "Yes, and what's more you needn't try to give it to him again. He's not interested." "If he isn't, it's your fault," Margaret accused. "But Sally's face was so Battered that Margaret's heart ached for her. "What's happened? Can't you tell me?" Sally faced her mother defiantly. "Have you ever told me anything that was going on in your mind?" she demanded. "I never even knew until this summer what my father's name was. How can you expect me to confide in you?" "I've been wrong about a number of things," Margaret admitted. "Tony and Linda, for instance. Do you know what Linda told me tonight, Sally?" "I've no idea," Sally said wearily. "And at the moment I don't care much." "You will when I tell you because you liked Tony from the first. It seems he is a graduate law student from a Chicago University but failed to pass the California bar exam which is intentionally tough. He has been studying as he had to wait several months before taking the exam again. Mr. Wilmington had a place for him in his office as soon as he was ready." "You mean Mr. Wilmington knew about it all the time?" "That's right," Margaret nodded. "The job as chauffeur was just so Tony could have a place to live and study. Linda didn't know it until after they were married but that's why the old gentleman gave his consent. In fact he advised them to elope just as I did." "But for a different reason," Sally reminded her. (Continued Tomorrow.)

Uncle Ray's Column By Ramon Coffman

WITH two empty baking powder cans, a can-and-string telephone may be produced. With four empty cans, you could make a two-way telephone system; each person would have a receiver for his ear, as well as a transmitter.

That kind of a toy telephone will work for a distance of several yards, but what would happen if you made the string 1000 feet long? The sounds would die on the way.

ELECTRICITY IS NEEDED to carry sounds very far, but let us suppose, for a moment, that we could talk to far places over a "dead" wire. How much time would pass in speaking from Winnipeg to New Orleans?

Sound will carry through metal (such as iron or copper) about 15 times as fast as through the air. If I could talk to you from Winnipeg, saying, "Hello, this is Uncle Ray," the words would take about eight and a half minutes to reach you in New Orleans! About 17 minutes after I spoke, your answering words ("Hi, this is Bill (or Mary) or something like that, would come back to me.

That would be a slow conversation. I am glad that we have electricity to speed our words on long-distance wires. We can speak to our friends at a distance of 1500 miles or 3000 miles, and exchange words at about the same rate as if we were three feet apart.

Even with electrical help, our words would fade out except for relay, or amplifying, points, which are about 80 miles apart.

CITIES ARE JOINED TO one another by thick telephone cables. There may be a score of wires inside such a cable, or there may be many more than that. A remarkable cable, with enough wires to provide 250 circuits, runs between New York City and Dallas. Even that is only part of the story. A clever invention makes it possible for a single wire inside a cable to carry the words of a dozen persons, without mixing the words of one speaker with those of another.
